INTRODUCTION.

THE literature relating to New Zealand is not only unusually interesting but is unusually extensive. Fifty years ago, in the preface to his fascinating "Story of New Zealand," Dr. Thomson stated that at that time, and when the colony was but twenty years old, there had been printed concerning it no less than ninety volumes, two hundred pamphlets, and a hundredweight of parliamentary papers. The subjoined sketch will further indicate how numerous have been the stirring incidents and important events making the history of this young country; and these have, fortunately, never lacked the service of competent chroniclers.

From the time when Tasman first placed on the map of the globe that streak, so like a note of interrogation, which announced his discovery of New Zealand there has attached to it an unabated and curious interest. To him it was the Ultima Thule of the world, and it represented a part of that geographical Will-o'-the-wisp, the Terra Australis Incognita, which so long engaged the quarrelsome controversies of the learned in their attempts to provide for the due balance of the globe itself.

When the genius of Cook—" Oceani investigator acerrimus "—so accurately unfolded its coasts, and so graphically told its first story, a halo of romance gathered round it which was never wholly dispersed until the advent of steam and electricity.

Bold sailors approached its shores with dread, for within them were enacted terrible scenes of ferocity, massacre, and cannibalism. Yet in strong contrast were the peaceful labours of the Protestant mission, almost the earliest in Pacific seas, and founded by the apostolic Marsden. By them, as is usual with such labours, was the way prepared for future trade and settlement. Moved by the spirit of adventure and of scientific research, voyagers, chiefly of English and French nationality, were from the first attracted to the little-known shores. The records of these visits, together with the letters and journals of the missionaries, form a special chapter of this literature, though it is greatly to be deplored that much of this material has been destroyed, either purposely or by accident.

The time at length arrived when permanent settlement was accomplished by the New Zealand Company under the scheme devised by Edward Gibbon Wakefield, and since known by his name. The circumstances attending this important movement were dramatic enough—refused assistance, as it was, by a hostile Colonial Office, bitterly opposed and thwarted by the powerful Church Missionary Society, and endangered by the designs of the French. Whilst these events no doubt contribute largely to the number of those documents whose weight is computed by Dr. Thomson in avoirdupois, they form another important historic chapter.

So raised to the status of a British colony, the successive events in its history never lacked the old qualities of stirring incident and interest. Amongst these may be noted the mode of its early development by means of various semi-isolated special settlements; the fierce and repeated struggles of the colonists with a native race intelligent though savage; and the important concession of self-government, which was amongst the earliest conferred upon the colonies. This latter boon was speedily followed by an exceedingly active political life. Add to all this the unusual good fortune of having amongst the pioneers and founders of the colony men of distinction and culture, and the materials for an extensive literature are again evident.

Untrammelled by old traditions, New Zealand has of late years imposed upon herself the task of grappling anew with many of those social problems which the Mother-country has in vain endeavoured to solve. What the result may be lies in the future, but the present strenuous efforts of the daughter colony are watched with absorbing interest by many outside her borders, and have already added another weighty chapter to recent history.

Although the bright skies, exhilarating climate, and glorious scenery of New Zealand, apart from events in its history, abundantly provide material from which the poet, painter, novelist, and he who treads the more arduous paths of literature draw life and inspiration, still the genius to worthily unfold and interpret such treasures has not yet descended.

The birth of the poet is still awaited. Perhaps his advent is not far distant, and may, indeed, be heralded by that yearly increasing burden of song, which here and there is lightened by undoubted talent, rhythm, and beauty. Perhaps incessant struggle with the hardships of colonial life has hitherto stifled that emotional quality which, deeply stirring the mind and heart, is indeed the veritable touchstone of true poetry.

Something akin may be asserted of the painter and his art. Whilst New Zealand scenery has been depicted by two or three accomplished artists with a force and spirit worthy of comparison with the best examples, yet the superior height of genre and historical painting has been but little attempted, despite the wealth of available material. To this assertion one or two exceptions should be made, as in "The Setting-out of the Maori from Hawaiki" and "The Coming of the Maori," both in the Auckland Public Gallery. Special studies awaiting the artist's brush are incidents in the descry by Tasman, the discovery by Cook, the introduction of the Gospel by Samuel Marsden, the arrival of the first settlers, and the signing of the Treaty of Waitangi. The literature to assist in the interpretation of these subjects is abundant, and is set forth in the following pages.

Fiction and the lighter class of literature have mostly taken the shape of serial and descriptive story, with little attempt so far to emulate the culture and sustained effort of the best novelists. With regard to scientific, historical, and certain other literary work the case is, happily, different, and it may truly be averred that no young country has contributed so much of a high character to the general stock of such knowledge as New Zealand.

After Dr. Thomson's very full list, which is appended to the second volume of his work, and contains nearly five hundred references, the first attempt at New Zealand bibliography was made by Mr. J. D. Davis, of Auckland, whose small volume (q.v.) appeared in 1887. As the title indicates, it is incomplete, and it is, moreover, often incorrect. In 1889 appeared the bibliography by Mr. J. Collier, the former accomplished librarian of the General Assembly Library at Wellington. This gentleman possessed every qualification for his task, and the present author expresses his sincere regret that ill health and consequent departure from New Zealand prevented Mr. Collier from pursuing such further literary work as would no doubt have included a more complete second edition.

The volume now before the reader is the outcome of continuous research undertaken through a long series of years in the intervals of leisure from the demands of an exacting profession. A cursory inspection will show how frequently the author has strayed from the ordinary track of a bibliography. He has introduced many little sidelights, biographical references, dates, and other special points, and an attempt has been made to run throughout a thread of historical interest.

Another feature, decided on after much consideration, is the giving of a full list of the contents and illustrations of the rarer and least-known works, such as Thévenot, de Brosses, Callander, Dalrymple, the early French voyagers, Webber, Angas, and others. The idea was that the contents of these rare volumes being thus, as it were, focussed might prove of great assistance to the student engaged in a special line of research. Similarly are collected at some length many publications of another class, but also of rarity, such as the reports of the New Zealand Company, the Colonial Gazette, the New Zealand Journal, the Australian and New Zealand Gazette, the Karere Maori, and the Government Gazette. The last of these, in its earlier numbers at least, is not only rare, but extremely puzzling to collate.

Whilst every effort has been made to make this record complete, it is probable that many items must have escaped enumeration. Any such omissions are almost certainly of little moment, and it is not unlikely that they are chiefly confined to the long list of versifiers whose contributions, as before stated, form a yearly heavy burden. This seems the proper place to thank Mr. Bertram Stevens, of Sydney, for the long list of recent versifiers to be found in the Addenda.

Though the chronological order has been adhered to throughout this work, the index is a corrective to the difficulty that might be found by a student in searching for any particular subject of which he desires to make a special study. A feature of the index is that it provides a series of "subject heads."

A word should here be said with regard to the enumeration of the newspapers of the colony. The number of these is so extensive that the author decided to detail those alone which were issued during the earlier days of the colony.

The recent increasing association between New Zealand and the Antarctic makes it advisable to specify Dr. Mill's important bibliography of between eight and nine hundred references which is appended to the Royal Geographical Society's "Antarctic Manual," published in 1901. Dr. Cockayne has also published a bibliography relative to the outlying islands of New Zealand and elsewhere, in the "Transactions of the New Zealand Institute" for 1903, Vol. xxxvi, p. 326.

It but remains to express the author's most grateful thanks to the Government Printing Department for unremitting care and attention during the progress of this work. The Government Printer has taken great interest in it, both before and since it was placed in his hands. The Supervisor's remarkable knowledge of his work has been of the most constant and inestimable value. The Reader, upon whom the compilation of the index principally devolved, has also rendered invaluable service. To his work may well be applied the Maori saying on the title-page, "He mahi nui rawa atu"—"Truly this is a very laborious deed." No pains have been spared to make the index comprehensive and copious.

The end sought will be accomplished if the student derives as much satisfaction and advantage from the use of this bibliography as the author has derived pleasure from its preparation.

CORRIGENDA.

Page 2.—"Thévenot, M." Add at the end of title: "Le tout enrichi de Figures, de Plantes non décrites, d'Animaux inconnus à l'Europe, de Cartes Géographiques, qui n'ont point encore été publiées. Nouvelle Edition, augmentée de plusieurs Relations curieuses. Tome premier. Contenant la I et II partie. A Paris, chez Thomas Moette Libraire, rue de la Bouderie, a saint Alexis. MDCXCVI. Avec privilege de Sa Majesté." Of the several copies—not editions—of Thévenot, the one I have noted is the last and the most complete. It contains the rare chart of Terre Australe, with Hollandia Nova, Zealandia Nova, Terra de Diemen's, and Tasman's route thereon. There are also the 63 plates of ancient Mexican figures or hieroglyphs and a quaint figure of the "Dronte, autrement appelé par les Hollandois Dod-aers" (the dodo).

OMISSIONS.

CARROLL, Charles. Reminiscences, Life and Recollections of a New Zealand Explorer (written by him). 11. In three volumes. Vol. III. London: [Printed for the author,] 1875.

Small 8vo. Pp. viii, 418. Numerous woodcuts.

Though printed in 1875, the author prohibited its publication until the present year (1900), perhaps because of personal and confidential references in certain political incidents of the time. Vols. i and ii probably refer to his "Personal Narrative of a Visit to Europe in 1864. With illustrations and notes added in 1871," and his "Incidents of Travel, and Sketches of Remarkable Places in England and other Countries," 1875. (Cf. also pp. 296 and 376.) In his catalogue the work is referred to under No. 150.

R., W. [Beauche, William.] "Where the White Man Fears." By W. R., Te Kaiti. Selected from a series of articles contributed to "The New Zealand Herald" and "Auckland Weekly News," including others now published for the first time. Auckland: [Wilson & Horton, Printers,] Herald Works, Queen and Wyndham Streets. 1905.

Large 8vo. Pp. 307. Dedication to Sir J. L. Campbell.

An interesting contribution to the history of the Maori by one who has dwelt amongst them throughout his life, and who deprecates the white man's tread across their pathway.

Omitted from the bibliography of the earliest newspapers:—

THE TAEANAKI HERALD. [Vol. I.] New Plymouth, New Zealand, Wednesday, August 4, 1852. [No. 1.]

Demy fol. 4 columns. Pp. 4. Imprint: "New Plymouth: Printed and Published on Wednesday by G. W. Woon and W. Collins, Sole Proprietors, at their office, Devon Street."

Issued weekly, with Messrs. Wicksteed and Crompton as editors, and then Mr. Richard Plimney. Prior to its publication a board placed in a conspicuous position, and with any notices or notifications affixed in writing, did duty as a newspaper.

THE PRESS. "Nihil utile quod non honestum." Vol. I, No. 1. May 25, 1861. Price 6d.

Imprint: "Printed and Published for the Proprietors every Saturday morning by G. Watson, at the Press Office, Montreal Street, Christchurch, in the Province of Canterbury, New Zealand."

Demy fol. 3 and 4 columns. Pp. 6.

Issued weekly; daily from 17th March, 1863. The Conservative opponent of the Lyttelton Times; edited by J. E. FitzGerald and G. S. Sale, afterwards Professor of Classics at the University of Otago.

MAORI SECTION.

DEIGHTON, S. A Moriori Vocabulary. By S. Deighton, R.M., Chatham Islands.

Appendix to Journals of the House of Representatives, 1889, G.-5.

Contains about 1,100 words, with Maori equivalents and English translation. Preceded with some remarks on Moriori pronunciation.

Roy. fol., $13\frac{1}{2} \times 7\frac{3}{4}$, vellum and gilt; price, £7. Pp.: n.p. 6; facsimile of original Journal (n.p.), 195; translation, 59; life and labours, 163; compass observations, 21. 10 maps. Reproductions of the 50 original illustrations and maps, chiefly coast-lines.

This magnificent volume gives at last the complete account of Tasman's life and labours. The Journal is the long-lost one, discovered about 1854 at Batavia, and forms the source of the various abridged and imperfect texts of two hundred years ago and later, as given below. It was first edited by Jacob Swart in 1860 in the original Dutch.

Tasman (1603-59) sailed from Batavia for Mauritius August 14, 1642; discovered and named Van Diemen's Land; then, on December 13, Staten Land, as he first called New Zealand; the Tonga and Fiji Groups, New Guinea, &c.; and returned June 15, 1643.

ABRIDGEMENTS AND TRANSLATIONS.

Translations from this were soon after printed in most European languages, in on Narborough's Collection, 1694 and 1711; Dr. Hook's Philosophical Collection, 1682; Thévenot, Paris, 1681.

1596. Valentyn, François. Oud en nieuw Oost Indien . . . Deel v. Oeyfdecht en Amsterdam. MDCCXXVI. Onstanding Verhael van de Geschiedenissen en Zaaken . . . Derde Deel Banda, p. 47. (The old and new East Indies, &c. A full account of the history and trade, &c.) Through his marriage connections Valentyn had access to the archives and journals of the Dutch East India Company, many of which he published. His abridgment of Tasman appears in this huge and magnificently illustrated folio work of five volumes with many charts and views, and formed the chief source from which many others drew—as Dr. John Harris's Collection, 1702-5, 2 vols. folio, which, edited by Campbell ("Navigantium atque Itinerantium Bibliotheca"), appeared in 2 vols. folio, 1744 (from this Callendar made his copy); De Hondt's Collection, 1749; and others.

1776. Woide, R. v. G. C. Translation from a copy of the original (abridged) belonging to Mr. (Sir Joseph) Banks, by whom both were afterwards bequeathed to the British Museum. This supplied a still more complete account, and it appears in "Burney's Voyages," Vol. iii, 1813, forming the best to date.

1864-60. Swart, Jacob. Journaal van de Reis naar het Onbekende Zuidland, in den Jare 1642, door Abel Jansz. Tasman, met de Schepen Heemskerk en de Zeehaen. Medegedeeld en met eenige Aanteekeningen voorzien door Jacob Swart, . . . Met eene Kaart. Te Amsterdam, bij de Wed. van Keulen, 1860. (Journal of the Voyage to the Unknown Southland in the year 1642 by A. J. Tasman, with the ships Heemskerk and Seahen. Revised, and with several notes and a chart.) 6½ x 3½. Pp. viii, 189, and large folding chart of the voyage. Contains Tasman's complete journal, his instructions and various official letters. Dr. Heeres discusses critically this and the other copies.

Vide also "Earliest Literature relating to New Zealand," and "Abel Tasman and his Journal," by Dr. Hocken, in Trans. N.Z. Inst., 1894-95-96. Also "New Zealand Reader," "Voyage of Tasman in 1642," by Basil Stocker.

Thévenot, M. Relations de Divers Voyages Curieux, qui n'ont point esté Publiées, et qu'on a Traduit ou tiré des Originaux des Voyageurs François, Espagnols, Allemands, Portugais, Anglois, Hollandois, Persans, Arabes et autre Orientaux, données au public par le soins de feu Melchisédec Thévenot.

Maps, diagrams, &c. Fol. 2 vols. Paris. Many plates and charts.

This interesting collection contained at least fifty items, with "pièces complémentaires" or additions made from time to time until 1696. Amongst these is "Route d'Abel Tasman autour de la Terre Australe, avec la découverte de la Nouvelle Zélande et de la Terre de Diemens, 1642-43," which forms No. 50 in Vol. ii. The chart of this voyage forms No. 21 in Vol. i, "Carte de cette cinquieme Partie du Monde, 1663."

2 vols. 4to, 7 x 4. Vol. i: pp. xiv, 463; errata, 4. Vol. ii: pp. 614, 2. Seven charts, chiefly of the Southern Hemisphere.

Collection of voyages from Vespuccio in 1501 to Le Hen-Brignon in 1747, named and divided for the first time into the three groups of Australasia, Polynesia, and Magellanica, since adopted by geographers. Tasman's voyage is taken from Thévenot and from Bernard's abridgment; Amsterdam, 1722. As these voyages were translated into English by Callander in his "Terra Australis Cognita" (q.v.), they are not specified here.

De Brosse (1709-77) was first President of the Parliament at Burgundy. His friend Buffon, the naturalist, induced him to publish this collection.

At the end of this third volume, p. 745, is "Craigforth, near Stirling, Feb. 25, 1768."

Chiefly an incomplete translation of de Brosse's "Histoire des Navigations aux Terres Australes, 1756" (q.v.), with considerable additions from Hakluyt, Purchas, Thevenot, and others. Tasman's Journal is taken from Campbell's edition of Harris, and is by no means so full as that of Valentijn. Callander, who died in 1789, was a Scotch advocate, and a somewhat extensive writer.

Dalrymple, Alexander. An Historical Collection of the several Voyages and Discoveries in the South Pacific Ocean. Vol. I. Being chiefly a Literal Translation from the Spanish Writers. By Alexander Dalrymple, Esq. London. Printed for the Author; and sold by J. Nourse, Bookseller in Ordinary to His Majesty; T. Payne, at the News-gate; and P. Elmsley, opposite Southampton-street, Strand. MDCCLXX.

2 vols. 4to. Vol. i: pp. xxx, 204; plate and 3 charts. Vol. ii: pp. 124; 11 plates and chart (Staats Land, or New Zealand).

Vol. ii has similar title-page, but after "Volume II" are the words "containing the Dutch Voyages." MDCCLXXI.

The two are bound as one volume, together with several of the author's papers and "tracts," and the whole is puzzling to collate.

Tasman's voyage is taken chiefly from François Valentijn ("The Old and New East Indies," 1724), collated with De Hindt, Boombacht, and others (vide Vol. II, p. 66). The plates relating to New Zealand are: 1. The Continent south of the Rocky Point [the Steeples]; 2. Staten Landt, or the States Landt, south of the Rocky Point (cape Foulweather and Westport); 3. View of Murderers' Bay (Golden, or Manure, Bay); 4. Abel Tasman's Bay [Blind Bay]; 5. Three Kings' Island.

The author's translation of these Spanish and Dutch voyages is apparently faithful, and is accompanied by numerous critical remarks, notes, and references, and a full index. The work was published before Captain Cook's return from his first voyage. Alexander Dalrymple (1747-1808) was hydrographer to the Admiralty, and an able writer. He firmly believed in the existence of that geographical will-o'-the-wisp, a southern continent (the terra australis incognita). Chagrined at Cook's appointment to the command of the "Endeavour," instead of himself, he put trifling value on the discoveries of that great sailor, which he criticized mercilessly, reiterating his old theory.

Dalrymple, A. and Franklin, B. Scheme of a Voyage to convey the Conveniences of Life, Domestic Animals, Corn, Iron, etc., to New Zealand, with Dr. Benjamin Franklin's Sentiments upon the Subject. By Alexander Dalrymple. London, Aug. 29th, 1771.

Appears in "Dodsley's Annual Register" for 1779.

So known was the material exhibited by Cook's command at New Zealand that this odd scheme was devised to help the poor natives. Perhaps Dalrymple's jealousy of Cook was the motif, as the former offered and expected to command the expedition. At any rate, it is the first systematic proposal to connect the two countries.

Reprinted in New Zealand Journal, 1843, p. 42; also by Petherick, of London, in 1882 (50 printed).

To which is added, A concise Vocabulary of the Language of Otaheite. Ornari res ipsa negat, contenta doceri. Hor. | London, | Printed for T. Becket and P. A. De Hondt, in the Strand. | MDCCLXXI.

7½ x 4½. Pp.: ii (dedication), 130, and 3 n p. Vocabulary of Otaheite, about 120 words. Paper wrapper.

Anonymous; surreptitiously published two months after the return of the "Endeavour," and nearly two years before Hawkesworth's eagerly awaited "Account." Wrongly attributed to Banks and Solander. Probably the journal of one of the civilians who died at Batavia. Short, but interesting, narrative of Cook's first voyage, and the first publication connected therewith.

Translated into German in 1774, by J. F. Schiller; 4to; 3 vols., with plates and charts: Berlin: Haude und Spener. An abridgment of this in 4to. Another edition, 8vo; 4 vols.; Haude und Spener.

Reviewed in the Edinburgh Magazine and Review (Vol. i), 1793.

The voyage was undertaken at the special request of the Royal Society to observe the Transit of Venus in 1769 at Otaheite (Tahiti). Cook, with his companions Banks and Solander, left Plymouth Sound August 26, 1768, and returned July 12, 1771, from Otaheite; reached New Zealand (Poverty Bay) October 8, 1769, and there remained until March 31, 1770, when he sailed for the east coast of New Holland (Botany Bay). Took possession of the North Island November, 1769, at Mercury Bay, and of the South Island January 30, 1770, at Queen Charlotte's Sound. Gives a general account of New Zealand, its discovery, climate, and productions; the natives, their manner of life, implements and weapons, religion and language. On p. 474 et seq. of Vol. iii (1st ed.) is some comparison of the dialects of the North and South Islands and of Otaheite, and reasons against the existence of a southern continent.

Dr. John Hawkesworth (1715-73), an able literary man, was appointed by the Admiralty, through the influence of his friend Garrick, the actor, to compile and edit these voyages, for which it has been stated, but incorrectly, that he received £6,000. The severe criticisms passed on his work contributed to his death, and are quite undeserved. The voyage of the "Endeavour" was compiled by him from the journals of Cook, Banks, Schander, and others.

In 1893 Cook's original journal of the first voyage was published for the first time: Captain Cook's Journal during his First Voyage Round the World made in H.M. Bark "Endeavour" 1768-71. A Literal Transcription of the Original MSS. with Notes and Introduction edited by Captain W. J. L. Wharton, R.N., F.R.S. Hydrographer of the Admiralty. Illustrated by Maps and Facsimiles. London: Elliot Stock, 62 Paternoster Row; 1893. Roy. 8vo; pp. lvi (preface, contents, sketch of Capt. Cook's life, and list of persons in the "Endeavour"), 400; Portrait of Cook. 3 folded charts are in pocket—1, Cook's chart of New Zealand; 2 and 3, east coast-line of Australia, reduced from Cook's originals in the British Museum, and with parallel coast-lines from recent surveys. Dedicated to Admiral H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh. Some copies are in large paper and bound in wood taken from Capt. Cook's tree, a giant elm said to have been planted by Cook, which was blown down at Clapham Common during a gale in 1892. The portrait is reproduced from Dance's painting at Greenwich Hospital. The preface gives history of the original triplicate journals. The editor, Rear-Admiral Sir W. J. L. Wharton, died on 29th September, 1905, at Cape Town, during the meeting there of the British Association.

Dalrymple, Alexander. A Letter from Mr. Dalrymple to Dr. Hawkesworth, occasioned by some groundless and illiberal Imputations in his Account of the late Voyages to the South. London: Printed for J. Nourse, Bookseller in Ordinary to his Majesty, in the Strand; T. Payne, near the Mews-Gate; Brotherton and Sewell, Cornhill; B. White, Fleet-Street; J. Robson, Old Bond-Street; P. Elmsly, Strand; T. Davies, Russell Street, Covent-Garden; and S. Leacroft, Charing-Cross. MDCCCLXIII.

Small 4to. Pp. 35. "Chart of the South Pacific Ocean, pointing out the Discoveries made therein previous to 1764."

In this rare "tract" or pamphlet Dalrymple bitterly criticizes Cook's voyage in the "Endeavour," as edited by Hawkesworth, whom he accuses of ignorance and unfitness for his task. He asserts that the reasons adduced against the existence of a southern continent are quite inconclusive, and those in favour ignored. Dated 22nd June, 1773, when Cook had been ten months on his second voyage; hence from him there could be no reply; Hawkesworth replies in the 2nd ed. of his "Account," &c.

[Fitzgerald, Prof. (?)] An Epistle from Oberea, Queen of Otaheite, to Joseph Banks, Esq. Translated by T.Q.Z. Esq. Professor of the Otaheite Language in Dublin, and of all the Languages of the undiscovered Islands in the South Sea; and enriched with Historical and Explanatory Notes. The Fourth Edition. London: Printed for J. Almon, opposite Burlington-House, in Piccadilly. MDCCCLXIV. [Price One Shilling.]

Sm. 4to, 7½ x 5. Pp. 15. Paper wrapper. Introduction dated Dublin, 20th September, 1773, date of 1st ed. About 200 lines of rhyming verse.

Perhaps this and succeeding "Epistles" were written by Professor Fitzgerald, of Trinity College, Dublin, author of a small volume of poems. A clever, good-humoured skit, directed against Banks and his editor, Hawkes-with and painted in the footnotes with appropriate classical verses. Jocundly remarks contain amusing moments of the voyage, and the reader may parallel Esmer and Oberon with Ulysses and Calypso. Oberon mourns her loss, and wonders whether her lover will return.

[Fitzgerald, Prof. (1)] An Epistle from Mr. Banks, Voyager, Monster-hunter, and Amorous, to Oberon, Queen of Otaheite. Translated by A B.C. Esq. Second Professor of the Otaheite, and of every other unknown Tongue. Enriched with the finest Passages of the Queen's Letter to Mr. Banks. The Second Edition. Printed at Batavia, for Jacobus Opama; and sold in London, by John Swan, and Thomas Axtell. [Price One Shilling.]

Sm. 4to, 7 x 4½. Pp. 16. Paper wrapper. Dated "Grub St., Dec. 20, 1773." Frontispiece depicting Oberon and her court.

Above 500 lines of rhyming verse. A similar piece of satire to the above, in which Banks appears to discuss Oberon's letter, and promises to return to the delights of Otaheite.

Parkinson, Sydney. A Journal of a Voyage to the South Seas, in His Majesty's Ship, the Endeavour. Faithfully transcribed from the Papers of the late Sydney Parkinson, Draughtsman to Joseph Banks, Esq., on his late Expedition, with Dr. Solander, round the World. Embellished with Views and Designs, delineated by the Author, and engraved by capital Artists. London: Printed for Stanfield Parkinson, the Editor; and sold by Messrs. Richardson and Urquhart, at the Royal-Exchange; Evans, in Paternoster Row; Hooper, on Ludgate Hill; Murray, in Fleet Street; Leacroft, at Charing-Cross; and Riley, in Curzon-Street, May-Fair. M.DCC.LXXIII.

Royal 4 to. Pp. xxiii, 212; 2 pages of errata. Portrait of the author. 27 plates, 12 relating to New Zealand, with map of New Zealand, and vocabularies (Otaheite, New Zealand, Savoo, High and Low Malay, Sumatra, Ceram, Madagascar, and River Gambia). Some copies have coloured plates.

A further and extended issue appeared eleven years afterwards, in 1784, as follows: A Journal . . . Draughtsman to Sir Joseph Banks, Bart., in his Expedition with Dr. Solander round the World; and embellished with Twenty-nine Views and Designs, engraved by capital Artists. To which is now added, Remarks on the Preface, by the late John Fothergill, M.D., F.R.S., &c. And an Appendix, Containing an Account of the Voyages of Commodore Byron, Captain Wallis, Captain Carteret, Monsieur Bougainville, Captain Cook, and Captain Clerke. London: Printed for Charles Dilly, in the Poultry; and James Phillips, in George-Yard, Lombard-Street. MDCCCLXXXIV. Royal 4to. Pp. xxiii, 22, 4, 212: Appendix, pp. lxxi, 353. The two additional plates are charts of the Eastern and Western Hemispheres.

Collier (p. 5), repeating James Jackson ("Centenaire de la Mort de Cook—Bibliographie, No. 18"), states "that another edition appeared the same year," &c. I think this is a mistake, and that Jackson has confounded together the two issues of 1773 and 1784, as here given. Jackson's catalogue, though most valuable, is often faulty.

* A French translation, by de Nort, of the first issue: Paris; 4to; 1774. (Jackson). * Another translation, by Henri, "Précédé d'un discours en forme d'introduction sur les principaux navigateurs anglais et français qui ont précédé l'Endeavour, suivi d'un abrégé des deux derniers voyages de Cook, avec les planches de l'auteur": Paris; Guillaume; 2 vols. 8vo; 1797.

The author, a clever young artist, engaged by Mr. Banks at £80 per annum as natural history draughtsman, died at Batavia of dysentery 20th January, 1771, on the homeward voyage. His brother Stanfield, to anticipate Hawkesworth's account of the voyage, hurriedly published this journal. After a few copies had appeared the further issue was stopped by an injunction in Chancery, on the score of infringement of Dr. Hawkesworth's rights, and of material belonging to Mr. Banks. (For details of this vide Trans. N.Z. Inst., Vol. xxvii, "Earliest Literature, &c., of New Zealand," by Dr. Hocken.) Dr. Fothergill, a charitable friend of the Parkinsons, afterwards bought the remainder, which appeared in 1784 as the reissue, with the added Appendix. 46 pages relate to New Zealand.

About 300 lines of poor verse, descriptive of the explorer's happy return, of the benefits and added knowledge he confers, and of the countries visited—chiefly Otaheite, which seems to have been viewed as a very Mecca.

The London Magazine for August 1774, p. 363, contains a "Genuine Account of Omiah, a Native of Otaheite, a new discovered Island in the South-Seas, lately brought over to England by Capt. Fourneau. (With an elegant Engraving)." Pp. 2.

Omai, a native of Ulitea, one of the Society or Tahitian Group, was brought to England in the "Adventure" by Capt. Furneaux in July, 1774—Capt. Cook's second voyage. He remained in England two years, and returned in 1776 with Cook, in the "Resolution." Sir Joshua Reynolds painted his portrait, which was engraved by Jacobi, and published in 1780. An account of him is also given in G. Forster: Preface, p. xiv.

[Mara, or Marra, John (?)] Journal of the Resolution's Voyage, in 1772, 1773, 1774, and 1775. On Discovery to the Southern Hemisphere, by which the Non-existence of an undiscovered Continent, between the Equator and the 60th Degree of Southern Latitude, is demonstratively proved. Also a Journal of the Adventure's Voyage, in the years 1772, 1773, and 1774. With an Account of the Separation of the two Ships, and the most remarkable Incidents that befel each. Interspersed with Historical and Geographical Descriptions of the Islands and Countries discovered in the Course of their respective Voyages. Illustrated with a Chart, in which the Tracks of both Vessels are accurately laid down, and other Cuts. London: Printed for F. Newbery, at the Corner of St. Paul's Church-Yard, 1775.

8vo. Pp. xiii, errata and directions to binder (p. 1), 328. Five plates or cuts: 1. View of harbour and plantations in the Island of Rotterdam [Anamoka], with the manner of the inhabitants sitting and standing (copied from "Dedynpde's Voyages"). 2. Fields of ice by which their passage was obstructed in lat. 67 deg. 10 min. S.; 3. Landing of part of the Adventure's crew in search of their companions, who were murdered and eaten by the savages of New-Zealand; 4. View of two burning mountains [Tonga Group]; 5. Remarkable high mountain [59° S., Southern Thule].

Forms Vol. 5 of "Voyages Round the World," published by F. Newbery. Contains many incidents, &c., not in "Cook's Second Voyage," and published a year before it.

This is the very rare account of the second voyage, published surreptitiously and anonymously about eighteen months before Cook's own account. Probably John Mara, one of the gunner's mates, supplied material from his private journal, which was put into shape by some literary person in the pay of Newbery. Page 325 says, "Some (officers) who had kept memorials by way of exercise . . . reserved their labours to gratify their friends. Of this kind is the journal now submitted to the public." The preface discloses considerable knowledge of private matters connected with the voyage, and gives an account of the causes which led Mr. Banks and his staff to withdraw in high dudgeon from the expedition at the last moment. (Vide also a letter from Capt. Cook in Vol. i, part 1, of the "Historical Records of New South Wales," p. 383.)

Many of the particulars of the voyage are additional.

Sm. 4to. 7½ x 5. Pp. 44. Dedicated to Joseph B—nks, Esq. 746 rhyming verses.

Severe criticism on church, bar, senate, and the foibles of society. Rejoices at the prospect of returning to the simple pleasures of Otaheite.

4to. Pp. x, viii, 150 (5 n.p., index and corrigenda). Preface dated Nov. 1st, 1775. 75 plates. Dedicated to the King. In Latin. A few copies were issued in folio (pp. iv, 72).

Linnaean classification. Descriptions short, and confined to the floral organs, which are alone delineated. One Cryptogam (Aytonia) only described. Of the 75 plants, 24 are found in New Zealand. Dr. Sparrman described the plants, George Forster drew them, whilst J. R. Forster supervised and revised and took charge of the zoological collection. (Vide Forster's "Prodrromus.") The name is perpetuated in the small genus Forstera, found in New Zealand, Tasmania, and South America.

A German translation appeared at Stuttgardt in 1779, by Johann Simon Krener, botanist in the Ducal Military Academy of Wirtemberg: Sm. 4to: pp. (33 n.p.), 160. The plates of the original are compressed into 17 folded ones. An 18th is added, of the New Zealand "Theemyrthe" and "Sprostanne" (Leptospermum and Dacrydium), with description. Notes also on New Zealand flax and the bread-fruit. Idem, Gottingen, 1776.

Sm. 4to, 6 $\frac{3}{4}$ x 4 $\frac{1}{2}$. Pp. iv, 11. 150 rhyming verses.

The preface describes Omai somewhat unfavourably, and laments that, instead of dressing him out in a bag and sword, he was not instructed in matters useful. Under asterisks, the verses recount the ladies who showed him favour, and whom he regrets to leave.

Translated into French by A. F. L. de Proville: 8vo; Amsterdam, Paris, Piont, Nyon, 1777. Translated by M. Suard: 4to; 5 vols.; 40 plates (of which No. 40 is double, "Trombes de Mer auprès de la Nouvelle Zélande"); 1778. In this edition Suard has supplemented Cook's narrative with passages, in inverted commas, from Forster. Vol. 5 contains Forster's "Observation." Another edition by Suard without Forster's "Observation." 8vo; 6 vols.; Paris, 1778.

A special feature of the second voyage was to decide the question of an uncharted continent, the Terra australis incognita. The vessels left Plymouth Dec. 13, 1772, and returned July 30, 1775. From the Cape, reached Dusky Bay March 26, 1773, remaining until May 11. Corrected longitude of previous voyages, which had been placed 40° too far east (vide also Vol. ii, p. 161). Then to Ship Cove, Queen Charlotte's Sound, until June 7, and thence to Otaheite. From New Amsterdam (Tonga) returned to Queen Charlotte's Sound, remaining from November 3 to 25. Then the search for a southern continent. Made Ship Cove again October 19, 1774. From New Caledonia, discovering Norfolk Island on the way. Left for Terra del Fuego November 10.

Further account of the country and natives, with astronomical observations. Introduction of pigs, sheep, goats, and geese. Distributed to the natives round the coast and copper medals supplied by the Admiralty—head of George III, surrounded by "George III, King of Great Britain, France, and Ireland"; obverse, representation of the two vessels, with "Resolution and Adventure" over them, and below "Sailed from England, March MDCCLXXII." Contains Captain Furneaux's narrative of his separation. Introduction gives a concise but excellent account of previous voyages in the Pacific. The "Voyage," though nominally by Cook himself, was really edited by the Rev. Dr. Douglas, afterwards Bishop of Carlisle, and then of Salisbury.

2 vols. 4to. 14 charts and 49 plates, the latter drawn chiefly by W. Hodges, the artist of the expedition.

Vol. i: Pp. xviii, 602. Contents and errata (n.p.), 3 pages. Has an engraved frontispiece of Capt. Cook by Js. Basire, from a painting by Wm. Hodges.

Vol. ii: Pp. 607. Contents and errata, 2 pages. Title-page as in Vol. i, with the exception that a quotation from Seneca, "Mobilis enim et inquieta mens homini data est," &c., replaces that from De Missy.

Another edition, "traduit de l'anglais par J. B. Ant. Suard"; 1778; in 5 vols. The same, translated into Russian by D. Gütuz, of 5 vols.: St. Petersburg: 1796-99. The above contain Cook's second voyage, as well as the two Forsters' works.

It was understood that the account of this, Cook's second voyage, should be written by Forster the elder (J. R.), naturalist of the expedition. This arrangement failed, being virtually forbidden by the Admiralty. Not to be foiled, this account was undertaken by his son, John George Adam (1754-93), a young man of but twenty-two, "assisted" by his father, and it anticipated Cook's narrative by three or four months. Whilst condemning the method, the result proved a valuable possession. The same veto doubtless further resulted in the "Observations," &c., of J. R. Forster. The illustrations, being the joint property of Captain Cook and Forster, are the same as in Cook.

A fluent and most interesting account of the voyage, with much new matter. New Zealand visited three times. It begot controversial pamphlets from Wales, the astronomer, a "Reply," and a "Letter to Lord Sandwich" (q.v.), in which Forster has certainly the best of the argument.

At Queen Charlotte's Sound the clock went "with greater regularity from day to day than it had done in any other place." Philosophical reasons against a southern continent, complete tables and journals—nautical, meteorological, compass-variation, &c. Wales died 1798, æt. 64. He revised and published in 1788 the nautical papers of Green, who accompanied Capt. Cook on his first voyage as astronomer, and died after leaving Batavia (q.v.).

Here Forster the younger replies to and annulverts upon Mr. Wales's "Remarks" in a much more polite style than that adopted by his adversary, and apparently carries off the honours of war.

4to. Pp. iii, 16, 649; errata, list of subscribers, and comparative table of 46 words in 15 languages (chiefly Polynesian). Dedicated to the Royal Society, by whom he was recommended as naturalist of Cook's second voyage, vice Banks, who had retired (vide Journal of Sir Jos. Banks).

An excellent account of the countries visited in 1772-75, prefaced by short journal of daily events. The remarks on the human species specially interesting and detailed. Forster was accompanied by his son, John George Adam, a youth of seventeen years of age.

A French translation appeared in 4to; Paris; 1778. A Dutch translation in 8vo; Haarlem; 1778. In Swedish, issued in parts in the "Bibliothèque Historique"; 1775. In German; 8vo; Berlin; 1783 and 1785; translated by his son. (Jackson, "Centenaire.")

Some railleury respecting Cook's voyage, with light satire on English customs and manners, somewhat after Gulliver. The author's "dedication" and introductory "card" imitate the style of Dalrymple, and banter his jealousy of Cook and his fancied southern continent.

Large 8vo. Pp. 110.

Neither Dr. Forster nor his son was persona grata on the "Resolution," and their joint publication intensified the bad feeling, because of many observations and statements it contains. These Mr. Wales bitterly criticizes at great length, accusing the two, in no measured terms, of misstatement, untruth, meanness, ignorance, and cowardice.

Miss Seward belonged to a literary circle in Lichfield, and there died in March, 1809, æt. 65. She was a warm friend of the unfortunate Major André, to whose memory she wrote a monody.

Faithfully narrated from the original MS. London: Printed for E. Newbery, at the corner of St. Paul's Church Yard: MDCCLXXXI.

Svo. Pp. xiv, 396. Chart and 6 cuts, one representing the murder of Captain Cook at Owhyhee.

The introduction gives a proleg of South Sea discovery and of attempts to discover a North-west Passage. Gives at length the particulars of a love episode between Gowhanne, a New Zealand girl, and one of the sailors. War and antipathy always existed between the natives of the two islands, whilst those of the North were friendly with each other. Details of Cook's death differ considerably from other accounts.

A surreptitious and anonymous publication, anticipating the authorised account by more than two years; probably written by John Ledyard, a sergeant of marines on the "Resolution," despite the statement that his private journal was seized (vide his "Life," p. 36; Cambridge; 1829).

It was translated into French: *Troisième Voyage de Cook ou Journal d'une expédition faite dans la Mer Pacifique du Sud et du Nord, en 1776, 77, 78, 79, & 80. Traduit de l'Anglais. Tract iii, "Observations on the Diseases prevalent in the South Sea Islands, particularly the Lues Venerea, with some remarks concerning its first appearance in Europe."

Discusses the question in connection with Cook's voyages and those prior to them, chiefly the French, and concludes, contrary to Dr. Forster (who contends that the disease originated from libidinous and promiscuous excesses, and was not imported), that it was first communicated, probably by M. Bougainville's crew.

John Ledyard (1751-88) was an adventurous American of some education. Visiting England, he entered as corporal of marines under Captain Cook, then about to sail on his third voyage. Of this he kept a journal, which was claimed by the Admiralty. On his return to America he wrote another account from memory, as above, parts of which differ from the ordinary version of the voyage, especially that which relates to Cook's death. He died at Cairo, when about to explore in Africa on behalf of the African Association. (Vide his "Life.")

See. Svo. Pp. viii, 290. 7 plates and charts. 1. Four small insets—the part of New Zealand traversed by Marion (a mistake; it should be by de Surville). Anson Bay, coast of Van Diemen's Land traversed by Marion; plan of Port Marion (Bay of Islands). 2. Tacouri, a tattooed native. 3. New Zealand girl. 4. A native, armed and in full dress. 5. New Zealand woman and child. 6. A cedar (kauri). 7. Sketch of land discovered by de Surville, called Arsacides (Solomon Islands).

Usually known as "Crozet's Voyage."

The Abbé Alexis Rochon, who purposed accompanying the ill-fated expedition, drew up this account. The "Mascarin" and the "Marquis de Castries" sailed from the Isle of France (Mauritius) October, 1771, the course being by the Cape, Van Diemen's Land, New Zealand, Guam, Manila, and home. After a month's stay at the Bay of Islands Marion and twenty-six of his crew were massacred in June, 1772, when the command was assumed by Crozet. Excellent description of New Zealand, productions, natives, and their habits. De Surville anchored at Mongonui in the "Saint Jean-Baptiste" in December, 1769, and named it "Lauriston Bay" (Doubtless Bay, of Cook), after James Francis Law, of Lauriston, in Scotland, Governor of Pondicherry, of the French settlements in the East, created Comte de Tanearville for his brilliant services in India, and nephew of John Law, Comptroller-General of French Finance and author of various wild schemes. De Surville kidnapped on board his ship the chief Naginoui, and to this misconduct Rochon attributes the massacre three years later.

Boosé | Librarian of the Colonial Institute | Illustrated | London | Truslove and Shirley, 143, Oxford Street, W. | 1891. Roy. 8vo. Pp. xxiii, 148. 8 plates: 1. Cape Brett, New Zealand; 2. Tasmanian baskets and canoe; 3. View on Kerguelen Land. 4. A Maori, with tattooed buttock and thighs; 5. Maori girl in fishing-canoe; 6. Shield of the Calingos, Philippine Islands; 7. Shields from S.W. Mindanao, Philippine Islands; 8. Coat of mail, sword, and daggers, from Philippine Islands; A flying proa, from the Ladrone; chart of Port Marion (Bay of Islands), with chart of general route of the expedition. 21 illustrations in the text: 1, 2, 3. Portholes and yard-arm of ordinary and of fire ships; 4. East Island, Crozet Group; 5. Maori tattooing-instrument; 6, 7. Funnel for feeding New Zealand chief; 8. Fern-pounder, New Zealand; 9. Jade ring for parrot's leg; 10, 11. New Zealand neck-ornaments (heitiki); 12, 13. Genealogical staff, New Zealand; 14, 15. New Zealand war-trumpet; 16. New Zealand mere, of wood; 17, 18. European and New Zealand Pteris aquilina (Esculenta) compared; 19. Igorrotes loom; 20, 21. Arrow-points from Philippine Islands. 3 appendixes. An admirable translation of Rochon's "Nouveau Voyage," with useful notes and introduction. None of the original quaint plates are reproduced, nor is the interesting extract from de Surville given. Rochon's remarks on the massacre are displaced into an appendix. The plan of Port Marion was prepared by the translator from charts—presumably Crozet's—in the Paris archives. The bibliographical appendix is somewhat poor.

Cook's Third Voyage. A Voyage to the Pacific Ocean, Undertaken, by the Command of his Majesty, for making Discoveries in the Northern Hemisphere; To determine the Position and Extent of the West Side of North America; its Distance from Asia; and the Practicability of a Northern Passage to Europe. Performed under the Direction of Captains Cook, Clerke, and Gore, In his Majesty's Ships the Resolution and Discovery. In the Years 1776, 1777, 1778, 1779, and 1780. In Three Volumes. Vol. I and II written by Captain James Cook, F.R.S. Vol. III by Captain James King, LL.D and F.R.S. Illustrated with Maps and Charts, from the Original Drawings made by Lieut. Henry Roberts, under the Direction of Captain Cook; and with a great Variety of Portraits of Persons, Views of Places, and Historical Representations of Remarkable Incidents, drawn by Mr. Webber during the Voyage, and engraved by the most eminent Artists. Published by Order of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty. — London: Printed by W. and A. Strahan; For G. Nicol, Bookseller to His Majesty, in the Strand; and T. Cadell, in the Strand. MDCCCLXXXIV.

4to. 3 vols. and imperial folio of plates. 87 plates and charts. Cook's third voyage.

Vol. i: Contents (n.p.), 6 pages; introduction and eulogy of Cook, xcvi; 421. Vol. ii: Contents (n.p.), 10 pages; 549. Vol. iii: Contents (n.p.), 9 pages; 558. Seven appendixes. The atlas has 63 plates, one only of which, "The Inside of a Hippah," relates to New Zealand. Some copies have a 64th plate, engraved by Bartolozzi, representing the death of Capt. Cook. The remaining 24 charts and land-views are distributed through the vols.

2nd ed., 1785. "Printed by H. Hughs for G. Nicol." Title-page much abridged, the portions "To determine . . . Europe," and "Illustrated . . . Artists" being omitted. On that of Vol. i is, engraved by Hogg, the obverse of the medal struck by the Royal Society in 1784—Cook's head in profile; round it, "Jac. Cook Oceani Investigator Acerrimus"; and on the exergue, "Reg. Soc. Lond. Socio Suo." This vol. has a frontispiece of Capt. Cook, engraved by F. Bartolozzi from the painting done by J. Webber at the Cape of Good Hope. Contents (n.p.), 8 pages; xcvi, 421. Vol. ii: Title-page has reverse of Royal Society medal—Britannia with trident impaling a globe; round her, "Nil Intentatum nostri Liqvere"; and on the exergue, "Auspiciis Georgii III." Contents (n.p.), 12 pages; 548. Vol. iii: Title-page has medallion portrait of Capt. King, engraved by J. Hogg from S. Shelley's painting; round it, "Jac. King, LL.D., F.R.S." This vol. has frontispiece of Capt. King, engraved by Bartolozzi from J. Webber's painting. Contents (n.p.), 11 pages; 556.

The portraits are not in all copies. This and the third are the best editions, letterpress and paper being superior. The 1st ed. has neither portraits nor medallions, but there is some irregularity in the editions with regard to the portraits.

3rd ed., 1785. Some copies of all the editions have the plates interspersed, and then no separate atlas.

In the Appendixes are "Table of Numerals, exhibiting the Affinity and Extent of Language which is found to prevail in all the Islands of the Eastern Sea, and derived from that spoken on the Continent of Asia in the Country of the Malayes" (42 specimens); "Vocabulary of the Language of the Friendly Islands" (about 600 words); "Vocabulary of Language at Nootka" (about 300 words); "Vocabulary of the Language of Aboet, one of the Sandwich Islands" (about 250 words); "Table of Affinity between the Languages of Nootka and Norton Sound, and of Greenlanders and Esquimaux" (about 50 words).

Translated into French by Demeunier: 4to: 4 vols. (88 plates): Paris: Ponscasse: 1783; also 8vo: 4 vols. with atlas in 4to: also 18mo: 3 vols: Paris: Montard: also 8vo: 8 vols: Paris: Hôtel de Thou: also 4to: 4 vols.: Hôtel de Thou: all published in 1785. Also other editions in 1785, 1816, 1819, which are noted in the "Centenaire de la Mort de Cook," Jackson. The article, published in the "Bulletin de la Société de Géographie" for May, 1879, has a very full list of the literature connected with Cook's voyages, including Forster, Wales, and other companions. The introduction sketches the history of immediately preceding discovery in the South Seas and the efforts to find a North-west Passage; and gives the "Secret Instructions" to Cook. Dr. John Douglas has recently edited the first two volumes of the voyage from Cook's manuscript, King editing his own (the third).

A chief object of this, Cook's last voyage, was the discovery of a north-west passage between the Pacific and Atlantic. The vessel left Plymouth 12th July, 1779, and returned home 31st October, 1780. Refreshed at Ship Cove from 12th February, 1777 to the 25th, and then sailed for Otaheite. Dr. Anderson, the surgeon, gives a valuable vésumé of his observations on the natives and the natural history of New Zealand, and a comparative list of Otaheiti and New Zealand words (43 in number). Capt. Cook was killed at Kaitakehoo Bay, Oahehue (Hawaii), on 14th February, 1779, Capt. King then assuming the command. Most of the interesting collection made in the three voyages was variously dispersed, and not preserved by Great Britain. It was chiefly purchased for the Vienna Museum in 1806, by order of the Emperor Franz, at the auction of the Parkinson Museum, previously known as the Lever Museum. In the New Zealand Journal for 1848, p. 89, is a shaly abstract of Cook's sojourns in New Zealand.

Forster, G. Dissertatio Inauguralis. Botanico-Medicæ de | Plantis Esculentis | Insularum Oceani Australis. | Quam | ex Decreto ordinis gratiosi | speculaminis gratia | pro adipiscendis summis | in Medicina Honoribus | publicavit | Avetor Georgius Forster Phil.D. et LL.A.A.M. | Sereniss. &c. | Hæc ad Salus. | MDCCLXXXVI.

Gr. 8vo, 6 $\frac{1}{4}$ x 3 $\frac{1}{4}$. Pp. 80.

Thesis for his M.D. degree, on the edible plants of the South Pacific islands. The preface of 20 pages, in simple Latin, gives a short account of the characteristics and customs of the various islanders. Describes 54 plants used as food, 26 of which are new, 16 being found in New Zealand, and all described at some length.

Precisely the same edition, but with a different title-page, is found: Georgii Forster | Medic. Doct. | &c. | De Plantis Esculentis | Insularum Oceani Australis | Commentatio Botanica. | Sed primvm, &c. | Berolini, | apud Havde et Spener, | MDCCLXXXVI.

8vo. Pp. 8, 103. In Latin. Dedicated to Dr. Andrew Sparrman, and dated 30th June, 1786.

Linnæan classification. 594 plants referred to, of which 150 are New Zealand. The descriptions, confined to species, are scanty, and almost useless, and very often do not extend beyond the name. The preface complaints that all efforts to publish and illustrate his collection of plants have been persistently thwarted. "This was finally distributed through various museums, and, due to much faulty nomenclature, produced great confusion." (Hooker.)

Forster, J. R. History of the Voyages and Discoveries made in the North. Translated from the German of John Reinhold Forster, I.U.D. and elucidated by a new and original Map of the Countries situated about the North Pole. Orbis situm dicere . . . Dublin: Printed for Luke White, Dame-street, and Pat. Byrne, Grafton-street. MDCCLXXXVI.

Svo. Contents (n.p.), 5 pages; xvi, 489; index (n.p.), 30 pages. Folded map of the North Pole.

"North" means east and west and north-west coast of North America.

Discoveries from the time of the Phœnicians to date. 12 pages relate to Cook's last voyage and to some of his companions. Cook "was stabbed with a large iron dagger, of which Cook himself had made him a present."

Samwell, David. A Narrative of the Death of Captain James Cook, To which are added some Particulars, concerning his Life and Character. And Observations respecting the Introduction of the Venereal Disease into the Sandwich Islands. By David Samwell, Surgeon of the Discovery. London: Printed for G. G. J. and J. Robinson, Pater-noster-Row. MDCCLXXXVI.

4to. Pp. (preface, 2) 34. Very rare.

Confirms and adds considerably to the account given by Capt. King. Originally appeared in Andrew Kippis's "Biographia Britannica," of five huge folio vols.; London; 1777-93. Cook was first clubbed, then stabbed with one of the iron daggers bartered to the natives a few days before. The conduct of the lieutenant severely censured. Gives admirable pen-and-ink sketch of Cook, and considers Sherwin's plate, after Dance, most excellent likeness, "the only one I have seen that bears any resemblance to him." Cannot say when or whence venereal disease was introduced, or whether indigenous. Concludes it was introduced "before we discovered the islands." (Cf. Dr. Martin Wall's "Dissertation," &c.: 1783.)

Sparrman, A., M.D. A Voyage to the Cape of Good Hope, towards the Antarctic Polar Circle, and round the World: but chiefly into the country of the Hottentots and Caffres, from the year 1772 to 1776. By Andrew Sparrman, M.D., Professor of Physic at Stockholm, Fellow of the Royal Academy of Sciences in Sweden, and Inspector of its Cabinet of Natural History. Translated from the Swedish Original. With Plates. In two Volumes. Vol. I. The second edition, corrected. London: Printed for G. G. J. and J. Robinson, Pater-noster-Row. MDCCLXXXVI.

4to, 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 5. Vol. i: Pp. xxviii, 368; 3 plates and map of Cape of Good Hope, with insets. Vol. ii: pp. viii, 356; 7 plates.

On Cook's second voyage, joined the vessels at the Cape, at Dr. Forster's request and expense, to assist in the naturalist's work. Merge account of the voyage, in 20 pages. Hairbreadth escape from collision of the two ships, not mentioned elsewhere. Shocking details as to the food on board. Described the plants which George Forster drew. Resumed his work at the Cape on return of the expedition. Book interesting and amusing, and descriptive of social life at the Cape.

- A Catalogue | of the | different Specimens of Cloth | collected in the three Voyages of | Captain Cook, | to the Southern Hemisphere; | with a particular Account of the | Manner of the Manufacturing the same in the various Islands of the South Seas; | partly extracted from | Mr. Anderson and Reinhold Forster's Observations, | and the verbal Account of some of the most knowing of the Navigators: | with | some Anecdotes that happened to them among the Natives. Now properly arranged and printed | For Alexander Shaw, No. 379, Strand, London. | MDCCCLXXXVII

Very rare. No evidence of authorship.

Small 4to. Pp. 8. Then follow 25 blank sheets of paper, between which are inserted the specimens of cloth (39 in number), varying in size from the quarto of the book to pieces of 4 in. or 5 in. x 2 in., and mostly with some pattern and dye, and similar to specimens of the present day.

I have been able to collate six or eight copies, and find that all vary in the number and size of the specimens—no two are alike. In none did I see No. 39, "a fine specimen of the bee bark, from Jamaica, bought at the Duchess of Portland's sale." All are tapa cloth, chiefly from Otaheite, Owhyee, and Friendly Isles. None from New Zealand, though Cook ("First Voyage," Vol. II, p. 367) "found among their plantations the Morus papayifera, of which these people, as well as those of Otaheite, make cloth." But the plant seemed rare, and the cloth but worn as ornament.

- Wales, W. F.R.S. Astronomical Observations | made in the | Voyages | Which were Undertaken | by Order of His present Majesty, | for making | Discoveries in the Southern Hemisphere, | and successively performed by Commodore Byron, | Captain Wallis, || Captain Carteret, | and Captain Cook, || in the | Dolphin, Tamer, Swallow, and Endeavour. | Drawn up and published by Order of the | Commissioners of Longitude, | From the Journals which were kept by the several Commanders, and from the Papers of | Mr. Charles Green, formerly Assistant at the Royal Observatory. | By William Wales, F.R.S. | Master of the Royal Mathematical School in Christ's Hospital. | Illustrated with Maps of New Zealand and the Eastern Coast of New Holland, | from the original Drawings by Captain Cook. | London: | Printed by C. Buckton, Great Pulteney Street, Golden Square: | and | sold by P. Elmsly, in the Strand, Bookseller to the said Commissioners. | MDCCCLXXXVIII.

4to, 9 x 7. Pp. xii, 146. 2 maps.

The logs of these voyages were submitted to Mr. Wales for revision and calculation of their data. In the case of the "Endeavour" this was specially necessary, owing to the death during the voyage of Mr. Green, the astronomer, whose papers were left in confusion, and imperfect. The work is full of able comment and criticism.

4to. Pp. xvi, 527. Engraved frontispiece of Capt. Cook, "from an original picture in the possession of Sir Joseph Banks, Bart." (Dance's portrait, engraved by Heath.)

Admirable prices of the three voyages, with valuable information from the first sources. Introduces most of Sawwell's "Narrative of the Death," &c., q.v.; also, account of the various tributes to Cook's memory (Miss Helen Maria Williams's "The Morari: an Ode," and Miss Seward's "Elegy," q.v.); biographies of Green (the astronomer), Ledyard, and Capt. Clerke, and notice of medals struck. Kippis, a dissenting minister and litterateur, editor of new edition of "Biographia Britannica" and other works, was born at Nottingham in 1725; died, 1795.

A reprint, with 12 photographs from the original plates of the voyage, appeared in 1878. 8vo; London; Bickers and Son.

A French translation, by Jean Castéra; 2 vols., 8vo; Paris; 1788. The same in 4to: 1788. The same in 4to: 1789.

Folio. Pp. 850. Plates.

This popular collection contains Cook's voyages, which are worth revising with other accounts, as they contain some additional matter derived from the officers. Page 404 gives a fuller list of the officers and seamen of the third voyage than is found in the authorised account. On page 587 the date of Cook's birth is given as 3rd February, 1728, on the authority of the Rev. Mr. Grenside, "whose certificate, taken from the register of births in his parish, is now in the possession of our publisher." Kippis gives 27th October, and so does Besant; Wharton says 27th February.

Labillardière. In the "Annales du Muséum d'Histoire Naturelle" for 1796. Paris, is "Extrait d'un Mémoire, lu à la classe sciences de l'Institut national, sur la force du lin de la Nouvelle-Zélande, comparée à celle des filamens de l'aloès-pitte, du chanvre, du lin et de la soie," by Labillardière. Pages 474 to 484.

Labillardière brought with him from New Zealand plants of the Phormium procured in exchange with the natives. His is the first scientific account of New Zealand flax fibre. He describes experiments as to its strength and its uses amongst the natives. In the same volume (p. 228 et seq.) is a "Mémoire sur la culture du lin de la Nouvelle-Zélande," by Thouin.

4to. Dedication (to Viscount Sydney), preface, and contents, pp. xx; introduction, xxxviii; 617; and list of engravings, 1. 2 charts and 22 plates.
Forms Vol. i of the work completed by Vol. ii in 1802.

Gives the most complete account of the earliest days of New South Wales, and frequent reference to whale fishing off the New Zealand coast, which began in 1791; visits to Dusky Bay and the River Thames, for spars; and an account of Hoedoo and Toogee (Hun and Tuki), two New Zealand natives abducted in April, 1793, from Doubtless Bay by Lieut. Hanson, in the "Dædalus," to teach the art of dressing flax at Norfolk Island. Facsimile is given of a curious chart of New Zealand drawn on a floor with chalk by Tuki, accompanied with descriptive matter, which greatly resembles the "Yates de Magna" in Jean Rotz's map of 1542, and is supposed by Major to be New Zealand. Vocabulary of over 400 New Zealand words.

Vol. ii, 1802. Title-page same, with additions, "From its first Settlement, in January, 1788, to August, 1801"; and "An Account of a Voyage performed by Captain Flinders and Mr. Bass, by which the existence of a Strait separating Van Dieman's Land from the Continent of New Holland was ascertained." Dedication (to Lord Hobart), advertisement, and contents, pp. xvi; 336. Chart and 9 plates, 5 of them of animals, and in some copies coloured. Written by Collins (now described on title-page as "Lieutenant Colonel of the Royal Marines") after his return to England, from information transmitted to him by Governor Hunter. Mere verbal mention of New Zealand. The voyage of Flinders and Bass fortunately inserted, as the original was afterwards lost. Reviewed in Edinburgh Review, April, 1803.

2nd ed., 1804. 4to. 1 vol. Same title-page as in Vol. ii of 1st ed.
Pp. xvii (n.p., 2), 562. Portrait of author in frontispiece, 2 charts and 31 plates. A much-abridged edition. Whilst in preparation Collins received the appointment of Lieut.-Governor of Port Phillip, a title which appears on the title-page. Mrs. Maria Collins thereupon edited it, leaving out what "was now no longer of importance." A few notes and official returns bringing up information to 1st May, 1803.

Collins was born at Exeter in 1754, fought in the American revolutionary war, and died at Hobart Town in 1810.

This expedition, under the command of Bruny Dentrecasteaux, of the "Recherche," and Huon Kermadec, of the "Espérance," failed to find La Pérouse, whose fate was discovered thirty five years later by Dillon (q.v.). In March, 1793, a few days were spent off the north coast of New Zealand in intercourse with the natives. Labillardière brought back plants of the Phormium, which he successfully grew and described. The names of the Huon pine, Recherche and Kermadec Islands, &c., are derived from this voyage.

The first of the Society's annual volumes; its title was afterwards changed to "Proceedings of the Church Missionary Society," &c.

Contains considerable reference to natives and early New Zealand; foundation of mission (8th report); Mr. Marsden's second visit (App. xiv, 1820-21); and journals and letters from missionaries.

The Society finally relinquished its mission in 1904 to the care of the New Zealand Church Board of Missions. Other publications issued by it were a small four-page Quarterly Paper, begun in 1816; Monthly Paper, enlarged in 1830 to Church Missionary Record; Missionary Cleaner, 1838; and Church Missionary Juvenile Instructor, 1839. These are chiefly selections from the Proceedings, Register, and Church Missionary Intelligencer, the three important publications of the Society (q.v.).

The original edition (1798) was published in 3 vols. 4to, with a folio vol. of 16 plates (10 charts and 6 views of headlands). Throughout the 3 vols. are interspersed 17 views, which in the "New Edition" are of the same size, but folded. The advertisement to the "New Edition" states that the plates of the 10 charts had been stolen; hence 2 were re-engraved (half-size) for insertion, one of which contains the Snares, Chatham Island, and part of the south-west coast of New Holland. The original has considerable additions to Dusky Bay, as explored by Cook. Owing to Vancouver's premature death (May, 1798), the work, though nearly completed, was edited by his brother John. Vancouver discovered King George's Sound, and, on the 24th November, 1791, the Snares. Lieut. Wm Robert Broughton, in the tender "Chatham," discovered, and named after the Earl, Chatham Island, on November 29, of which and the natives (2,000 Morjóns) he gives an interesting account. The expedition was absent five years. Dr. Archibald Menzies, surgeon of the "Discovery," contributed much to the New Zealand Cryptogamia reproduced in Hooker's "Musci Exotici" and "Icones Filices." The "Diedalus," store-ship, Lieut. Hergest, who afterwards kidnapped two New Zealand natives to teach flax-dressing in Norfolk Island, was also in the expedition. Vancouver sailed with Cook on his second voyage, as a midshipman in the "Resolution."

A French translation was issued in 3 vols. 4to, with 18 views interspersed, and an atlas of 16 charts, at Paris, in 1798 (de l'imprimerie de la République, an. VIII).

Strait of Aman by Lorenzo Ferrer Maldonado : 3. Condite Head Rock ; 4. The Cambrian's Reef ; 5. Caledonian colony in Darien ; 6. On passage to South Sea by the south of America ; Separation necessary between early and modern discoveries.

This important and comprehensive work brings the history of Pacific discovery down to 1764, when Hawkesworth continues it. It must always form the basis of historical research for early voyages and discoveries throughout the Pacific. Vol. iii contains the translation, by Rev. C. G. Wode, of Tasman's Journal, with woodcut and charts of New Zealand. The most complete until that of Heeres, q.v.

Rear Admiral Burney was born in 1751 and died in 1821. Son of the musician, and lieutenant with Cook on his last two voyages. Many references to him in the diary and letters of Mme. D'Arblay, who was his sister.

Rochon, Alexis. Voyages aux Indes Orientales et en Afrique, pour l'Observation des Longitudes en Mer, avec une Dissertation intéressante sur les îles célèbres de Salomon, et sur les voyages de Marion, de Surville, de la Peyrouse, et de d'Antrecastreau. Par Alexis Rochon, Membre de l'Institut de France et de la Légion d'Honneur. Sic vos . . .
Ouvrage réduit en un volume in 8°. Avec une carte générale de la mer des Indes et de la mer du Sud, et de plusieurs tableaux pour servir à calculer les longitudes. Nouvelle Edition. Prix broché, 6 francs. A Paris, chez L'Huillier, Libraire et Commissionnaire, rue S. Jacques, No. 55. 1807.

8vo. Pp. (n.p., 4) iv, 486. Folded chart, showing voyages of Rochon, Surville, and Marion ; and nine lunar tables.

In 1791 appeared "Voyage à Madagascar et aux Indes Orientales," 1 vol. 8vo, containing an account of Madagascar and of Cochin China only. In 1803 appeared "Voyage à Madagascar, à Maroc, et aux Indes Orientales," 3 vols. 8vo, forming the complete edition of the Abbé Rochon's voyages. This was followed by the above "Nouvelle Edition" of 1807, which includes an account of the expeditions of Marion du Fresne and of de Surville, with the circumstances leading to the enterprise, and which is very similar to that given in the "Nouveau Voyage à la Mer du Sud," q.v.

Alexis Marie Rochon, astronomer and traveller, was born at Brest in 1741, died 1837.

Savage, John. Some Account of New Zealand ; particularly The Bay of Islands, and surrounding Country ; with a Description of the Religion and Government, Language, Arts, Manufactures, Manners, and Customs of the Natives, &c. &c. By John Savage, Esq., Surgeon, and Corresponding Member of the Royal Jennerian Society. — "Remote in Southern Seas," . . . London : Printed for J. Murray, Fleet Street ; and A. Constable and Co., Edinburgh : By W. Wilson, at the Union Printing Office, St. John's Square. 1807.

8vo. Pp. viii, 110. 3 plates drawn by the author : 1. Portrait of Tiarrah, brother of the unfortunate Tippahee, killed by the whalers, who mistakenly connected him with the "Boyd" massacre ; 2. A New Zealand deity (a tiki) ; 3. View of North Cape and entrance to Bay of Islands. In some copies the tiki is coloured green. Vocabulary of 130 words.

Gives the first description of New Zealand after Cook; description is a good one. Savage came to New South Wales in 1803, and there introduced vaccination; was surgeon of a convict-ship which visited New Zealand for spars in September and October of 1805; returned to England in 1806, and then entered the Honourable East India Company's service. Mr. Broughton accompanied him to England—being the first New Zealander to visit those shores—and after a few weeks' stay returned with Capt. Shelton, of the whaler "Ferret"; he is afterwards referred to in Rev. S. Marsden's journal, and in Nicholas.

8vo. Pp. 548. 15 curious odd-coloured plates of Sydney and neighbourhood, natives, plants, and animals, dated 1802-3.

The name of this notorious pickpocket and convict was attached to many publications of the time, to insure their sale. The supplement has various references to New Zealand, and to George Bruce, a sailor, who carried Tippahee's (Te Pahi) daughter. The same account is in appendix to Turnbull's "Voyage," 2nd ed., 1813.

The Missionary Register for the year 1813: containing an Abstract of the Proceedings of the principal Missionary and Bible Societies throughout the World. Vol. I. London: Printed by Ellerton and Henderson, Johnson's Court, Fleet Street; and published by L. B. Seeley, 169, Fleet Street; sold also by J. Hatchard, Piccadilly; and by all Booksellers and Newsmen. 1813.

Fp. Svo. Pp. 434, and index (n.p.), 6 pages.

A monthly publication of from 30 to 48 pp. In 1816, with somewhat varied title page, was enlarged to deny Svo, double columns, increased letterpress, and occasional engravings and woodcuts. An immense repository of missionary information throughout the world. New Zealand largely represented, giving copious extracts from the journals and letters of missionaries, Ac.—Kendall, King, Hall, Butler, Williams, &c., to Colenso, Munnell, &c., in more recent days.

Abstracts of Marsden's journals are found in 1816 (first visit), 1822 (third visit), 1824 (fourth visit), 1831 (sixth visit), 1838 (seventh visit). His second visit is in the "Proceedings of the Church Missionary Society, 1820-21."

Turnbull, J. A Voyage round the World, in the Years 1800, 1801, 1802, 1803, and 1804: in which The Author visited Madeira, the Brazils, Cape of Good Hope, the English Settlements of Botany Bay and Norfolk Island: and the principal Islands in the Pacific Ocean. With a continuation of their History to the present period. By John Turnbull. Second Edition. London: published by A. Maxwell, Bell Yard, Temple Bar, and sold by all the booksellers, &c. 1813.

4to. Pp. xv, 516. Appendix.

1st ed. in 1805 (3 vols. 12mo), which lacks the appendix and additional matter respecting New South Wales.

The appendix gives some account of New Zealand and the natives, especially of Te Pahi; the story of George Bruce, a sailor, and his native wife; the destruction of the ship "Boyd" at Whangaroa; and the discovery of the Macquarie and Campbell Islands in 1811.

Kendall, Thomas. A Korao no New Zealand; or, the New Zealander's First Book; being an Attempt to compose some Lessons for the Instruction of the Natives. — Sydney: Printed by G. Howe. — 1815.

12mo. Pp. 54. Bound in strong brown paper.

The first book printed in Sydney specially connected with New Zealand. Thomas Kendall, the missionary, wrote it as a primer and vocabulary. Pp. 1-3, alphabets—Roman, English, and italics (No letterer)—and numerals to 20 (No figuree); pp. 4-7, syllables of two and three letters; pp. 7-21, vocabulary and short sentences; pp. 22-39, longer sentences (Maori and English); pp. 40-51, vocabulary (Maori and English); pp. 52-54, specimens of parts of speech (Maori and English).

The sentences in Nicholas's "Voyage" are the same (p. 342 et seq.), but his list of words or vocabulary is much more numerous. The only specimen I know—probably, the only one now extant—is in the Auckland Museum. It is referred to in the Missionary Register for 1817, at p. 515.

Continued to the present day. Journals and letters from the New Zealand Wesleyan missionaries. Leigh, Lawry, Stack, White, Waterhouse, Buller, &c. Founding of mission at Whangaroa, Hekunga, &c. Well indexed, and occasionally illustrated.

Purdy, John. The Oriental Navigator: or Directions for Sailing to, from, and upon the Coasts of the East-Indies, China, Australia, &c. . . . By John Purdy. | London: | Printed for James Whittle and Richard Holmes Laurie, | Chart-Sellers to the Admiralty, &c. &c., | No. 53, Fleet Street. | 1816.

4to. 3rd ed. Pp. viii, 756.

Interesting notes on Australia, Van Diemen's Land, and New Zealand, with the outlying islands, pp. 58-92. First charts of Chatham Island; also Southern Port (Stewart Island), discovered August 7, 1809, in the "Pegasus," Captain Chase, and surveyed by W. W. Stewart, of that ship, who in 1840 piloted H.M.S. "Herald" whilst procuring signatures to the Treaty of Waitangi, where his own signature as a witness appears; he died at Gisborne in 1855. Remarks by Captain Fearn on passage from New Zealand to China Seas in 1798, p. 697.

"Quarterly Paper."

Commenced in this year, and issued by the Church Missionary Society for Sunday schools and humble contributors, containing letters from missionaries, notices of New Zealand, a memoir of Mowhee, and illustrations. For a short time a Monthly Paper was also issued.

Svo. Pp. 4. London: R. Watts, Crown Court, Temple Bar.

Delano, Amasa. A | Narrative | of | Voyages and Travels, | in the | Northern and Southern Hemispheres: | comprising | Three Voyages round the World; | together with a | Voyage of Survey and Discovery | in the | Pacific Ocean and Oriental Islands. | By Amasa Delano. | Boston: | Printed by E. G. House, for the Author. | 1817.

Svo. Pp. 596. 3 plates (portraits of the author: of Abba Thulle, king of the Pelew Islands; and a chart and views of Pitcairn's Island).

The writer, an intelligent American, gives an account of his three voyages to various parts of the Pacific between 1790 and 1807. Slight description of the Snares, Bounty Islands, New Holland, and Van Diemen's Land.

Nicholas, J. L. Narrative | of a | Voyage | to | New Zealand, | performed in the years 1814 and 1815, | in company with the Rev. Samuel Marsden. |

Principal Chaplain of New South Wales. — By John Luddard Nicholas, Esq. — Uti tati consensens. Gioero de Oficio. | In Two Volumes. | Vol. 1. | — | London. | Printed for James Black and Son, | Tavistock St., Covent Garden. | — | MDCCCXVII.

8vo. 2 vols. Vol. 1: pp. xx, 431. Vol. ii: pp. xii, 398. 4 plates and two objects (New Zealand and Bay of Islands — both after Cook). Vocabulary of 150 words compared with those of Tonga, and a collection of sentences, compiled by Thomas Kendall, and virtually the same as "A Korao no New Zealand" by him (q.v.). The appendix contains Collins's account of the two New Zealanders, Hoodoo and Toogee, taken to Norfolk Island in 1793 (q.v.); an extract from Turnbull's "Voyage round the World in 1801-4," giving an account of the "Boyd" massacre, Tippahoe, and George Bruce; and a memoir of Ouateria, a New Zealand chief, so faithful a helper to Mr. Marsden.

An admirable account of early New Zealand and the natives, also of the introduction of Christianity and civilisation into New Zealand under Mr. Marsden.

Nicholas was a New South Wales landholder, but finally returned to England, and gave evidence on the state of New Zealand before the Lords' Committee in 1838.

Mowhee came to England as a sailor in 1816, and remained under Mr. Woodd's care until his death from a "putrid fever." A protégée of Mr. Marsden, and one of the firstfruits of missionary labour.

Lee, Rev. Samuel, and Kendall, Thomas. A | Grammar | and | Vocabulary | of the | Language of New Zealand. | — | Published by the | Church Missionary Society. | — | London: | Printed by R. Watts, | and sold by L. B. Seeley, Fleet Street; and | John Hatchard and Son, Piccadilly. | — | 1820.

8vo. Pp. 230. Preface, &c. (in p. 5, 6 pages).

Prepared at the instance of the Church Missionary Society by the Rev. S. Lee, Professor of Oriental Languages at Cambridge, conjointly with Thomas Kendall, a New Zealand bay missionary who visited England in 1820 with the chiefs Hongi and Warkato, and who ten five years had been collecting material for the purpose. A vocabulary is included, collected two years previously from Toon and Teeterree (Tin and Titore), who were also native visitors at the Church Society's House in London.

The Maori language is here reduced for the first time to fixed principles, and the open sound of the vowels used. Contains songs, dialogues, Lord's Prayer, and Creed. Many numbers were printed on strong, coarse paper for native use.

Five years later Mr. Kendall proposed the issue of another edition, but beyond a few sheets nothing appeared. He was dismissed from the New Zealand mission in 1823; afterwards traded in timber and other articles, and was drowned with his crew off Port Jackson Heads in 1832.

Instructions of the Committee of the Church Missionary Society, delivered August 6, 1822, to the Rev. Henry Williams, proceeding as a missionary to New Zealand; with Mr. Williams's reply, and an address by the Rev. Edward Garrard Marsh, M.A., Minister of Hampstead Chapel, and Late Fellow of Oriel College. London: Printed for the Church Missionary Society, by Richard Watts. 1822.

8vo. Pp. 27.

Interesting history connected with the early New Zealand mission. Mr. (Archdeacon) Williams was the second ordained New Zealand missionary, the Rev. J. G. Butler being the first. He arrived at the Bay of Islands under the escort of Mr. Marsden, 3rd August, 1823. Died at Pakaraka, 16th July, 1867, æt. 75.

Cruise, Capt. R. A. Journal of a Ten Months' Residence in New Zealand. By Richard A. Cruise, Esq. Captain in the 84th Regt. Foot. — London: printed for Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, Paternoster-Row. 1823.

8vo. Pp. iv, 321. Frontispiece of Tetoro (Titore), chief of New Zealand.

The 2nd ed. appeared in 1824. Same title-page, substituting "Major" for "Captain." Pp. vi, 327. Contains additional 14 pages of quite unimportant matter, and a weather-table is substituted for the remarks upon the weather which in the first edition preface the journal of each day.

Reviewed in the Quarterly Review, lxi; also in the Monthly Review, cxi.

Captain Cruise was in military charge of H.M.S. "Dromedary" whilst procuring kauri spars in 1820. He visited the Bay of Islands, Whangaroa, Hokianga, the Waitemata, and the Thames, and gives an account of the country and the customs of the New-Zealanders; also of the massacre of the "Boyd," an account of which is extracted from the Sydney Gazette, 1st September, 1810.

In the manuscript journal of Edward Markham, who visited the Bay of Islands and Hokianga in 1834, it is suggested that Cruise's Journal was written by a subaltern on board the "Dromedary." If so, the writer must have been Lieut. McCrae, who was a very competent young officer.

Praed, W. M. Australasia. — A Poem, which obtained the Chancellor's Medal at the Cambridge Commencement, July 1823. By Wendthrop Mackworth Praed, of Trinity College.

Svo. paper. Pp. 14. Lines, 298.

Sketches the death of Ruatara (Routara), a New Zealand chief, and the introduction of Christianity into New Zealand, as recorded by Nicholas in his "Narrative of a Voyage," &c. (q.v.).

Second Edition. With Additional Poems. . . . and Archibald Constable and Co. Edinburgh. 1825. Svo. Pp. xxiv, 169.

An ode of 64 pages, with notes, descriptive of the rise, progress, and future of Australia, including New Zealand, "amid a sea of storms."

Thomas Kibble Hervey (1799-1859), for many years editor of the Atlas.

To the People of England! An Address on the Colonization of New Zealand. London: Knight and Lacey, Publishers 24, Paternoster Row; And Sold by every respectable Bookseller and Newsman throughout the Kingdom. 1824. Price Sixpence.

Svo. Pp. 31.

But little information regarding New Zealand—merely a suggestion as to its being suitable for emigration, and perhaps a preliminary to the movement of the company formed in 1825, under Colonel Torrens, the Earl of Durham, and others, which despatched the vessels "Rosanna" and "Lambton," under Captain Herd, to the Hokianga.

Busby, James A Treatise on the Culture of the Vine, and the Art of making Wine; compiled from the Works of Chaptal, and other French Writers: and from the Notes of the Compiler, during a Residence in some of the wine Provinces of France. — By James Busby. — Tot vina, quot agri.—Pliny. Australia: Printed by R. Howe, Government Printer. 1825.

Svo. Pp. xxxiv, 270.

Stated to be the first book printed in Australia. Well printed, on thick paper, in large type, and fully treats the subject. The author considered viticulture specially adapted to the young colony of New South Wales, and devoted much attention to the introduction of this industry.

He published also A Manual of plain Directions for planting and cultivating Vineyards, and for making Wine, in New South Wales. By James Busby. Sydney: Printed by E. Mansfield, for the Executors of R. Howe. — 1830. 8vo. Pp. vi, 96, and index (3). The price was 3s. 6d., and to facilitate its distribution in the interior copies were forwarded, at this price, to district constables. For tying up vines, and for many other similar uses, New Zealand flax is recommended as the best article.

Mr. Busby was born at Edinburgh in 1801, and died at London in 1871. In February, 1831, he left Sydney on a visit to the Home-country, travelling through the vineyards of Spain and France, and returned to Sydney in 1832 with the appointment of British Resident in New Zealand, entering upon his new duties in 1833, which he discharged until superseded by Governor Hobson in 1840. He published Journal of a recent Visit to the Vineyards of Spain and France: forming a Guide to the profitable Culture of the Vine and to the Manufacture of the various Wines of Australia and New Zealand: to rival those of France, Spain, and Portugal: also, Directions for the successful Culture of the Olive, with useful remarks on the Preparation of Raisins, Figs, Almonds, and other dried Fruits, with an Estimate of their Profits as Articles of Merchandise: forming a Guide to the Australian Farmer, etc. By James Busby, Esq., of New South Wales. Third Edition. London: Smith, Elder, and Co., Cornhill. 1840. 8vo. Pp. xiv (and i), 177.

On p. 9 of "Authentic Information," &c. (q.v.), is good prices of the development of viticulture in New South Wales.

Balbi, A. Introduction à l'Atlas Ethnographique du Globe, un Discours . . . Par Adrien Balbi, Ancien Professeur de Géographie, de Physique, et de Mathématiques. . . . A Paris, chez Rayon Gravier, Quai des Augustins. MDCCXXVI.

8vo. Pp. cxliii (Discours préliminaire), 415.

A complete and learned work on languages. The New Zealand belongs to the Grand Oceanic division, the Malay family, and the East Polynesian sub-family, to which latter 30 pages are devoted. The accompanying Atlas Ethnographique du Globe ou Classification des Peuples anciens et modernes d'après leur Langues, . . . is in elephant folio, 18 x 11, non-paginated, containing 41 tables of details, examples, and comparison; 25 words given in 80 languages of above sub-family.

Blosseville, Jules de. Mémoire géographique sur la Nouvelle-Zélande, &c.

In "Nouvelles Annales des Voyages," tom. xxix.

In the "Pièces justificatives" of D'Urville's "Voyage de l'Astrolabe." Vol. iii, pp. 692-700, is that part which refers to the manners and customs of the natives (q.v.).

M. Blosseville was an officer in the "Coquille," and visited the Bay of Islands and its neighbourhood in April, 1824. During his stay there, and previously at Sydney, he was assiduous in collecting from whaling captains, natives, and other sources any information regarding New Zealand, and these are published in the above "Mémoire." One of his chief informants was Captain Edwardson, of the "Snapper," who was sealing for many months in 1822-23 in Foveaux Strait. Reference to this is also in the Revue de Deux Mondes, September, 1861.

Duperrey, Capt. L. I. Voyage | autour du Monde, | Exécuté par Ordre du
Roi, sur | La Coquette de sa Majesté, | La Coquille, | pendant les Années
1822, 1823, 1824 et 1825, | Sous le Ministère de S. E. M. le Marquis de
Clément-Tonnerre, et publiée | sous les Auspices de Son Excellence M.
Le C^{te} De Chabrol, Ministre de la Marine et des Colonies ; | par L. I.
Duperrey, | Chevalier de St. Louis et de la Légion d'Honneur, Capitaine
de Frégate, | Commandant de l'Expédition | Paris, | Arthus Bertrand,
Libraire-Editeur, | Rue Hautefeuille No. 23 | 1826.

This splendid work, published by the French Government, is composed of—1. "Histoire du Voyage," (et Anthropologie) ; 1 vol. 4to ; pp. xlv, 202, and folio atlas of 60 plates, often coloured. 2. "Zoologie," by Lesson and Garnot ; 4 vols. of text, and atlas of 157 coloured plates. 3. "Botanique," by D'Urville, de St. Vincent, and Bognart ; 2 vols. of text, and atlas of 100 plates, of which 25 are coloured. 4. "Hydrographie et Physique," by Duperrey ; 2 vols. in 4to and folio of 52 plates (48 being charts and 4 of capes). 5. "Mémoire" ; 8vo ; pp. 104 ; on the geographical work of the "Coquille's" cruise.

Duperrey visited and remained at the Bay of Islands for a fortnight in April, 1824, bringing with him from Sydney, at the request of the Rev.
S. Marsden, Mr. George Clarke, who was just commencing his missionary labours, and who, in 1840, was appointed Protector of Aborigines by Governor Hobson. As the history of the voyage was never completed, it does not contain the details of this visit ; but M. de Blosseville, one of the officers, has published some particulars of it, q.v. under his name.
D'Urville, then also an officer on the "Coquille," gives an account in his "Voyage of the Astrolabe," Vol. iii, p. 673 (q.v.). The atlas has 8 plates devoted to New Zealand—implements and ornaments of the natives, the waterfall and residence of the missionaries at Kerikeri, natives, and canoes.

a letter to George Brown, Esq., owner of the "Boyd," dated "Lima, Oct. 20, 1810." To this are added further particulars given to Archd. Constable, Esq., and dated "London, Jan., 1819." This is the fullest account; others, with important additions, are in Marsden, Nicholas, Turnbull, Polack, and Dr. Thomson.

Other articles in the volume are "Wreck of the Antelope on the Pelews in 1783," and "Bligh's Voyage, with Mutiny of the Bounty."

Reviewed in the Edinburgh Review, No. xciii.

E. G. Wakefield (1796-1862) was sentenced to Newgate, and his brother to Lancaster Gaol, for three years. Here, contemplating the crime and misery around him, and their causes, he initiated that statesmanlike career which resulted in the improvement of penal laws, of emigration, colonial land-purchase, and that extensive system of colonisation known by his name. His first publication was "Letters from Sydney," 1829 (q.v.).

In John Bull newspaper (1826 ?) is an account, in several close columns, of this remarkable episode and trial, signed by himself. This is availed of in the Liverpool Courier of 25th March, 1899. In Blackwood, May, 1827, is a lengthy discussion upon the Gretna Green marriage aspect. Another account is in the Macclesfield Courier, and is copied into the Hawke's Bay Herald of 25th December, 1862.

Miss Turner, restored to her father, married Mr. Legh, and their son afterwards became Lord Newton.

8vo. 2 vols. Vol. i: pp. lxxviii, 302; plate (Massacre at the Fejee Islands in September, 1823). Vol. ii: pp. 436; plate (Natives of La Pérouse's Island, or Mannicolo = Vanikoro, map of Mannicolo, and canoe of the Isle St. Croix).

A French translation was issued of this work: Voyage | aux Iles de la Mer du Sud, | en 1827 et 1828, | et | Relation de la Découverte | du Sort de la Pérouse. | Dedicé au Roi, par le Capitaine Peter Dillon, Chevalier, etc. A Paris, | Chez Pillet aîné, Imprimeur-Libraire, | Editeur du Voyage autour du Monde, | Rue des Grands-Augustins, No. 7. | 1830. 8vo. 2 vols. Vol. i: pp. lx, 294. Vol. ii: pp. 361. Illustrations as in original. Revue de Deux Mondes, 1st March, 1878, p. 69, refers to this.

Gives short account of La Pérouse's ill-fated expedition and the unsuccessful search for him by D'Entrecasteaux and Kermadec (vide Labillardière). Abounds in references to New Zealand—Marion's massacre, Dr. Savage, Moyhanger, Capt. Herd, the massacre of the "Boyd" (of which full particulars, derived from the natives, are given).

Following up a slight clue, Dillon discovered in 1827 that La Pérouse met his fate on Vanikoro, one of the Santa Cruz Group. For this service he was awarded a life annuity of 4,000 francs and the distinction of the Legion of Honour.

Peter Dillon (1785–1847), a splendid specimen of a wild Irishman and seaman. Visited New Zealand six or seven times, and brought down the brig "Active" from Sydney, with the first missionaries (Kendall and Hall) on board, in 1814. Much reference to him in Bayly's "Sea Life Sixty Years Ago" (q.v.).

J. Cross, 18, Holborn, | opposite Furnival's Inn. | MDCCCXXIX.

8vo. Pp. 70. Map of the world, and plan of settler's cottage.

Relates to the first attempt at special colonisation in Australasia, made chiefly through the efforts of Mr. Thomas Peel and Sir Francis Vincent. It ended disastrously, and supplied E. G. Wakefield, when giving evidence before the House of Lords in 1837, with an excellent illustration of colonising on wrong principles. Peel's life was endangered by the angry, disappointed labourers whom he took out. 13 pages contain interesting report on botanical productions, &c., of Swan River, by Mr. J. Fraser, Colonial Botanist at Sydney.

New South Wales and Van Diemen's Land almanacs and calendars from this date contain occasional reference to New Zealand, such as arrival and departure of vessels.

New Zealand in 1829. From the journal of an officer of the brig "Hawes," describing the capture of that vessel by the natives, and the cruelties exercised towards her crew; with some account of the country.

Article in the United Service Journal, No. 18, June, 1830. Pp. 10. Woodcut of the chief Enararo, & the Lizard.

The "Hawes," a sealer, was seized at Whakatane in March, 1829; several of the crew murdered and eaten, and the writer made prisoner. Amongst much other information is described the mode of preserving human heads.

8vo. Pp. x, 222, xxiv. Map of the world on Mercator's projection.

Written by Edward Gibbon Wakefield whilst an inmate of Newgate Gaol, being the first contribution to his great scheme of colonisation. It first appeared in the form of letters to the Morning Chronicle; these were collected and published under the nom of "Robert Gouger," Wakefield's intimate friend, and afterwards the first Colonial Secretary of South Australia. Written in fluent and interesting style, it attracted much attention. Word-pictures of freedom, bright skies, currency lasses, emigration, convicts, wool-growing, &c.

A German translation: Die Neuseeländer, nach dem Englischen. Mit 1 Karte und 44 Abbildungen. Klein 8vo. Leipzig: 1833.

Published under the auspices of the Society for the Diffusion of Useful Knowledge. Long attributed to Lord Brougham, probably for no stronger reason than that he was president of the society. Now known to be the work of George Lillie Craik, LL.D. (1788-1866), author, and Professor of English Literature at Belfast, who here presents a most valuable compilation of all that was known of old New Zealand and its inhabitants, drawn chiefly from Cook to Cruise and the Proceedings of the Church Missionary Society.

John Rutherford's journal of his ten years' exile in New Zealand is given at great length. In Vol. xxii, 1890, Trans. N.Z. Inst., is a paper by Bishop W. L. Williams casting doubt on Rutherford's narrative.

The [Journal] of the [Royal Geographical Society. — London: John Murray, Albemarle Street.

The Journal was first published in this year, and continued until 1880; 50 vols., with general indexes in 5 vols., and a volume of supplementary papers (1882-85)—in all 56 vols. 8vo. In 1880 the publication ceased in this form, but was continued in roy. 8vo as "Proceedings of the Royal Geographical Society and Monthly Record of Geography," Vols. i-xiv, 1879-92. It was then continued to the present date as the "Geographical Journal," including the "Proceedings of the Royal Geographical Society," commencing 18th January, 1893 (roy. 8vo), and published monthly.

The Journal contains many important contributions to explorations in New Zealand, Australasia, and the Pacific generally — Brunner, Haast, Hector, McKerrow, and others. Many early and important explorations will also be found in the New Zealand Gazette and Wellington Spectator, Nelson Examiner, &c., of early date.

A Statement of the Principles and Objects of a proposed National Society, for the cure and prevention of pauperism, by means of Systematic Colonization. London: published for the Provisional Committee, by James Ridgway, Piccadilly. 1830.

An early contribution to the new art of colonisation. Robert Gouger's name appears as secretary of the committee. Probably E. G. Wakefield was the mover.

Voyage de la Corvette L'Astrolabe exécuté par Ordre du Roi, pendant les Années 1826-1827-1828-1829, sous le Commandement de M. J. Dumont D'Urville, Capitaine de Vaisseau. Publié par Ordonnance de sa Majesté. Paris J. Tastu, Editeur-Imprimeur, No. 36, Rue de Vaugirard. 1830.

The publication, by the French Government, of this magnificent work extended over a period of six years—from 1830 to 1835. In collating and comparing copies it must be remembered that the original issue appeared in parts, in paper covers and boards, which were afterwards variously bound. The work is composed of five divisions.

PREMIÈRE DIVISION.

"Histoire du Voyage." Edited by M. D'Urville. 5 vols. 8vo, with more than 100 wood or line engravings; and 2 folio atlases, containing a portrait of M. D'Urville and 243 lithograph plates, inclusive of 8 charts. The plates of the first atlas are numbered 1-115; of the second, 116-243.

Vol. i: Pp. cxvi, 528; and table of contents, 1 page. 1830. At the end are 8 engravings, illustrative of the customs of the Australian aborigines, reduced from Collins's "New South Wales," 1798. Chapters 1 to 11—from Toulon to New South Wales.

Vol. ii: Pp. 630, and table, 2 pages. 1830. Chapters 12 to 20—from Port Jackson to New Zealand. Also "Notice sur les Iles du Grand-Océan."

Vol. iii: Pp. 796. "Pièces justificatives sur la Nouvelle-Zélande." (Corroborative documents or proofs.) This volume contains enormous extracts from, and often entire translations of, all the publications relative to New Zealand from Tasman's "Voyage," in 1642, to the "New Zealanders," in 1830—Cook, Surville, Marion, Turnbull, Missionary Register, Cruise, Marsden, Nicholas, and others.

Vol. iv: Pp. 760. Chapters 21 to 30—from New Zealand to Tonga-Tabou, Viti, New Britain, New Guinea, Amboyana, and Van Diemen's Land. 1832. An appendix contains that part of Schouten and Le Maire's voyage relating to the coast of New Guinea. It was written in Latin by Nicolas de Wassenauer, surgeon of the expedition, and published at Amsterdam in 1619.

Vol. v: Pp. 716. Table of contents and list of woodcuts throughout the volumes. 1833. Chapters 31 to 40—from Van Diemen's Land to Vanikoro, Guam, Amboyana, Batavia, Isle of France, Cape of Good Hope, and France.

Vols. ii and iii relate wholly to New Zealand, and give a minute and exhaustive account of the country, the natives and their habits, explorations, whalers, missionaries, &c. Stores of information, diffused through various works, many of them almost unknown or forgotten, are here brought together. The journals of the Rev. Samuel Marsden and of the earliest missionaries are extracted from the Missionary Register; the voyages of Tasman, Cook, Surville, Marion, Turnbull, and others have full reference; also the valuable observations of M. de Blossville in 1824, and many letters. 26 woodcuts relate to New Zealand. The atlases contain 30 plates relating to New Zealand, with many figures, and also 2 charts, of which one is of the North Island, as examined by M. D'Urville, and the other of the northernmost part of the island. The whole is enriched by extracts from the journals of the officers of the expedition. Three months—from December, 1826, to March, 1827—were spent in New Zealand.

8vo. Vol. i : pp. xxvii, 472. Vol. ii : pp. iv, 452. 3 charts and 23 illustrations.

Vivid description of a war-dance at Otaheite in April, 1826, by some New-Zealanders who had just arrived in a whaler. This was performed with such effect that the Tahiti natives ran away. Learnt that Hongi was decimating his countrymen, and trading in tattooed heads.

The Sydney Herald.

First number published 18th April, 1831. Has in this and later years frequent references to New Zealand—shipping and whaling news; baked heads; White Island; a New Zealand grammar and vocabulary—by Kendall, Busby, missionaries; &c. Afterwards the Sydney Morning Herald.

Tyerman, L., and Bennet, G., and Montgomery, Jas. Journal of Voyages and Travels by the Rev. Daniel Tyerman and George Bennet, Esq. Deputed from the London Missionary Society to visit their stations in the South Sea Islands, China, India, &c., between the years 1821 and 1829. | Compiled from original documents | by James Montgomery. | — | "Glorify ye" . . . —Isaiah. | London : Frederick Westley and A. H. Davis, Booksellers to the London Missionary Society, Stationers' Hall Court and Ave Maria Lane. | MDCCCXXXI.

8vo. 2 vols. Vol. i : pp. xxiv, 566. Vol. ii : pp. viii, 568. 2 portraits and 12 plates—one, "Wesleyan Mission Station, as seen June, 1824, in Wesley Dale [Whangaroa] in the Harbour of N.Z."

Interesting account by two competent observers. 60 pages devoted to Sydney and to New Zealand. At Whangaroa the vessel was seized and all were put in peril of their lives, but escaped through the intervention of the missionaries, who themselves two years and a half later narrowly escaped massacre. Montgomery, the editor, was the poet, and took a keen interest in the mission. The London Missionary Society was established in 1795, and in 1796 sent its first missionaries to Tahiti and Tonga, in the historic ship "Duff."

2nd ed. appeared in 1832. Same title, with: Appendix | concerning | Murder for the Sale of the Dead Body. | London: | Effingham Wilson, 88, Royal Exchange. Svo.; pp. xii, 213.

Gives a vivid account of dreadful scenes and experiences whilst in Newgate, which led him to disbelieve in the efficacy of capital punishment. "Whilst in Newgate I had occasion to read with care every book concerning N.S.W. and V.D.L., as well as long series of newspapers published in those colonies."

Wakefield, E. G. — Swing unmasked; or, the Causes of Rural Incendiarism. By Edward Gibbon Wakefield, Esq. London: Effingham Wilson, 88, Royal Exchange, 1831.

Fpt. Price 1s.

"A true picture of the state of things in the rural districts."—Spectator, 18th December.

To the pages of the Spectator Mr. Wakefield was a constant contributor on matters of reform, national policy, and his special theories, which he was then developing. In this pamphlet draws attention to the social dangers of the day. In the slang of the day, "Captain Swing" was the perpetrator of these secret incendiarisms.

This and the two preceding were further outcomes of Mr. Wakefield's experience and reflections during his imprisonment in Newgate.

Probably a reprint of an article in an English review.

Dillon, Capt. Peter. Extract of a Letter from Chevalier Dillon to an influential character here, on the advantages to be derived from the establishment of well-conducted Commercial Settlements in New Zealand, dated London, May 1st, 1832. Printed by George Nichols, Earl's Court, Cranbourn St., Soho.

8vo. Pp. 8.

Gives his knowledge of New Zealand from seven visits (1809-27); recommends colonial and mercantile establishments; list of marketable products. Some account of Captain Herd's expedition in 1825-27.

For account of Dillon, see later.

Earle, A. A Narrative of a Nine Months' Residence in New Zealand, in 1827; together with a Journal of a Residence in Tristan D'Acunha, an Island situated between South America and the Cape of Good Hope. — By Augustus Earle, Draughtsman to His Majesty's Surveying-ship "The Beagle." — London: Printed for Longman, Rees, Orme, Brown, Green, and Longman, Paternoster Row. 1832.

8vo. Pp. x, 371. 7* engravings: 1. Aranghie, the tattooer of New Zealand; 2. N.Z. tattooer at work; 3. A tabooed store-house; 4. A dance of New Zealanders; 5. War speech; 6. New Zealand girl; 7. (Governor) Glass and his residence at Tristan d'Acunha. These are poorly executed, not being under the supervision of the author, who had joined the "Beagle" in 1831.

Reviewed in Quarterly Review, Vol. xlviii, 1832; Westminster Review, Vol. xvii, 1832; Monthly Review, No. cxxviii, 1832; Edinburgh Review, Vol. lvi, 1833; and Protestant Journal, 1833, in bitter terms.

Part was translated into German in Hoffmann's "Jahrbuch der Reisen, erster Jahrgang," Stuttgart, 1833, p. 204, under the title, "Begebenisse u. Beobachtungen eines Engländischen Malers auf Tristan d'Acunha und Neu-Seeland."

The author, always a wanderer, sailed from Sydney to Hokianga in the "Governor Macquarie," Captain Kent, in company with some members of the Wesleyan Mission. Gives a general account of the natives, the Church missionaries, Captain Herd's settlement at Hokianga (1825), and, from an actor in the scenes, of the massacre of Marion's crew and that of the "Boyd." H.M.S. "Warspite" was the first man-of-war to sail through Cook Strait. Earle's sketches formed the subject of Burford's panorama (q.v.), exhibited in Leicester Square in 1831.

Sm. 8vo. Pp. vi, 400. Portrait.

Both Drs. Good and Gregory were friends and correspondents of the Rev. S. Marsden, to whom there are references. The appendix gives Dr. Good's "Summary of the Character and Labours of the Rev. Samuel Marsden."

Hay, Robert William. Notices of New Zealand.

A paper of 4 pages and chart of New Zealand in Vol. ii of Journal of Royal Geographical Society, 1832. "From original documents in the Colonial Office, communicated by R. W. Hay, Esq. Read the 9th of April, 1832."

Chiefly topographical information. "In the year 1818, 60 tons of New Zealand flax were sent from Sydney to England, of the value of £2,600."

Mr. Hay was Under Secretary of State for the Colonies from 1825 to 1836, and Vice President of the Royal Geographical Society.

This volume also contains two important articles—"Brief View of the Progress of Interior Discovery in New South Wales," by Allan Cunningham, Esq., and "Recent Information from Australia."

Morrell, Capt. B. A Narrative of Four Voyages, to the South Sea, North and South Pacific Ocean, Chinese Sea, Ethiopic and Southern Atlantic Ocean, Indian and Antarctic Ocean. From the Year 1822 to 1831. Comprising critical surveys of Coasts and Islands, with Sailing Directions. And an Account of some new and valuable Discoveries, including the Massacre Islands, where thirteen of the Author's Crew were massacred and eaten by Cannibals. To which is prefixed a brief sketch of the Author's early Life. By Capt. Benjamin Morrell, Jun. New York: Printed and published by J. & J. Harper, No. 82 Cliff-street. And sold by the Booksellers generally throughout the United States. 1832.

8vo. Pp. xxvii, 492. Engraved portrait of the author.

Full of interesting remarks and observations. 17 pages relate to New Zealand, from the Auckland Isles to the Bay of Islands, up the east coast, which were visited in December and January, 1829-30. Gives a glowing description of "Auckland's Island," which "is one of the finest places for a small settlement that can be found on any island in the Southern Hemisphere above lat. 35°." In 1823 the schooner "Henry" took from these islands 13,000 "of as good fur-seal skins as were ever brought to the New York market." "Scarcely one to be found now." Same at the Snares.

Glindon, Printer, 51, Rupert street, Haymarket.

Svo. Pp. x, 188; index (p. 1). Paper wrapper, with title as above and frigate in full sail.

Mr. Donlan was an extensive rope and sail maker, and had devoted twenty years to experiment on the best mode of preparing flax and hemp. New Zealand flax he considers by far the best. "Mine are the first and only sail-cloths ever made and brought into actual service from Phormium tenax." He angrily describes his ineffectual efforts to induce the Admiralty Board to use his New Zealand manufactures and so save thousands a year. Extensive correspondence and experiments detailed.

Svo. Pp. 10 (in wrapper). Double columns—English and Maori.

Printed for distribution amongst the chiefs, 13 in number, who had addressed a letter to King William, dated Kerikeri, 3rd October, 1831, and delivered by the Rev. Wm. Yate, a returned missionary, asking His Majesty to be their friend and guardian, having heard that the tribe of Marion (the French) was coming to take their land (see this letter, p. 7, parliamentary papers, 13th April, 1840). In reply, Lord Goderich—Colonial Office, 14th June, 1832—assures them of Great Britain's interest and protection, and introduces Mr. James Busby as the British Resident. Both letters are found in parliamentary papers, 13th April, 1840, p. 7.

In his address Mr. Busby introduces himself, explains his position, and invokes the assistance and friendship of the chiefs. Reprinted in Marshall's "New Zealand," 1837.

Capitaine de frégate ; | publié | par ordre de M. le vice-amiral Comte de Rigny Ministre de la Marine et des Colonies. | — | Paris : Imprimerie Royale. MDCCCXXXIII.

History of the voyage, 4 vols. Svo, with general chart of voyage, and folio atlas of 72 plates engraved under the direction of M. de Samson ; hydrography, folio atlas with 11 plans and charts ; zoology, by Eydoux, Laurent, and P. Gervais, with 1 vol. of 60 coloured plates ; and a supplement of Lepidoptera by Feisthamel, 32 pages and 10 plates.

400 pages and 5 plates are devoted to the stay in Van Diemen's Land, Sydney, and the Bay of Islands, which was reached on the 4th October, 1831. The Kawa-kawa, many inlets, Korororeka, and adjacent country were surveyed and mapped with accuracy and artistic taste during a week's stay. Interesting account of the natives and missionaries, and of the massacre of Marion and his crew in 1772. An outcome of the visit was the interchange of letters between 13 New Zealand chiefs and Lord Goderich (q.v.), 1833.

Reference to "La Favorite" in "Life of Henry Williams," Vol. i, p. 92.

The New South Wales Magazine. | August to December, | 1833. | Vol. I. | Sydney : | Ralph Mansfield (Sole Proprietor), Pitt Street ; | J. M. Richardson, London : and | Bell and Bradburne, Edinburgh.

Svo. Pp. xi, 328. Plans and illustrations.

Discussion on Mr. Busby's appointment as British Resident at New Zealand, and criticism on his work on New Zealand, flax, trade, and shipping. Mansfield was previously a Wesleyan minister, and became a politician and writer.

The magazine terminated with its March number of 1834.

[Wakefield, E. G.] England | and | America. | A Comparison of the social and political State of both Nations. | In Two Volumes. London : | Richard Bentley, New Burlington Street. | 1833.

Svo. 2 vols. Vol. i : pp. xii, 331. Vol. ii : pp. 341.

The author of this work was E. G. Wakefield, who writes in a brilliant, vigorous style upon questions of social economy then agitating all classes—the increase of wealth and misery, uneasiness of the middle classes, free trade, superabundant population, and slavery in America. The 2nd volume is chiefly devoted to a consideration of the relief of these conditions by means of his "Art of Colonization," which he now develops at some length, summarising the growing movement on the subject, and giving a list of important pamphlets, &c. The appendix contains correspondence between the Government and some persons desirous of founding a colony in South Australia.

4to. 2 vols. Double columns. Pp. viii, 576, and 584. 152 copper plates, containing about 550 illustrations, inclusive of 6 charts and 2 frontispieces of portraits of celebrated navigators, and many woodcuts. Vol. i: pp. viii, 576; 1834. Vol. ii: pp. 584; 1835.

An imaginary voyage, in which D'Urville, as a modern Anacharsis, skilfully weaves into his own pleasant narration extracts from the voyages of other circumnavigators, the whole forming an admirable résumé. The story of New Zealand is depicted in 76 pages and 30 illustrations, and includes the outlying Macquarie, Campbell, Auckland, Antipodes, Bounty, Chatham, and Kerinadec Islands. Excellent account of manners, customs, natural history, missionaries, &c. Extract from the Rev. H. Williams's journal of his journey to Tauranga in 1832.

2nd ed. in 1 vol., 1840 (pp. viii, 519): London: George Routledge.

The author was the celebrated blind traveller. His account of New Zealand is derived from the information of a friend, the captain of a trading-vessel to that country from Sydney, who describes, as from personal knowledge, the massacre at Akaroa in 1830 by Rauparaha, assisted by Stewart, of the trader "Elizabeth."

A work of extraordinary research, reference, and completeness upon colonial matters and policy. In Vol. iv are slight references to New Zealand.

A 2nd ed., much abridged, appeared in 1838 (8vo; pp. 602, and app. 304; double columns; seals and the charters of the colonies reproduced). Afterwards recast, with additions, under the title of "British Colonial Library, comprising a Popular and Authentic Description of all the Colonies of the British Empire, founded on Official and Public Documents, furnished by Government and the H.E.I.C.;" maps and plates; 10 vols. or parts; 1843.

In 1851(?) appeared a further modified (but the best) edition—"The British Colonies; their History, Extent, Condition, and Resources: by R. Montgomery Martin, Esq., late Treasurer to the Queen at Hong Kong; and member of Her Majesty's Legislative Council in China. Printed and published by The London Printing and Publishing Company, London and New York." 4 vols. Imp. 8vo; double columns. Numerous maps and portraits. Vol. iii is devoted to New Zealand, Tasmania, Auckland Islands, &c., and is most comprehensive.

Excepting that of 1834, the editions are most puzzling to collate. Some are undated, and were issued in parts of 32 pages each, afterwards being bound into volumes of varying thickness. The labour entailed in them is as enormous as it is valuable, and the author keenly felt the little recognition and assistance vouchsafed by the Government. He was born in 1803, and died in 1868.

Yarrell, W. Description, with some additional Particulars, of the Apteryx Australis of Shaw. By William Yarrell, Esq., F.L.S. and Z.S.

Trans. Zool. Soc., Vol. i, 1835. Communicated 25th June, 1833. The first full description, with an excellent plate. The specimen was "brought to England from the south-west of New Zealand by Captain Barclay, of the ship 'Providence,' about 1812," and described and figured by Dr. Shaw in the 24th vol. (1813) of the "Naturalists' Miscellany." It was afterwards purchased by Lord Derby.

In Vol. ii, pp. 257-301, Professor Owen also describes the bird, from the same and other specimens; 9 plates.

Hooker, Sir W. J. Companion to the Botanical Magazine; being a Journal, containing such interesting botanical information as does not come within the prescribed limits of the Magazine; with occasional figures. By W. J. Hooker, LL.D. F.R.A. and L.S., and Regius Professor of Botany in the University of Glasgow. London: Printed by Edward Couchman, 10, Throgmorton Street; For the Proprietor, Samuel Curtis, at the Botanical Magazine Warehouse, Glazewood, near Coggleshall, Essex; &c. 1835.

4to. 2 vols. Pp. 384 and 381, with plates and portraits of celebrated botanists.

This work was continued in the "Annals of Natural History," &c., 1838, &c.

Vol. ii, 1836, contains a portrait and a "brief biographical sketch of the late Richard Cunningham, Colonial Botanist in New South Wales," giving an account of his botanical explorations in New Zealand in 1833-34. On his return to New South Wales he accompanied Major Mitchell's expedition into the interior. Wandering from his party, he was murdered by the blacks in April, 1835, having just attained his 42nd year. His brother Allan, who succeeded him as Colonial Botanist, arranged his New Zealand notes and collections (together with those of his own) in an extensive series of articles. The first three appear in this volume, and are entitled "Floræ Insularum Novæ Zelandiæ Precursor; or a Specimen of the Botany of the Islands of New Zealand. By Allan Cunningham, Esq." (vide Cunningham, 1836). The succeeding articles appear in the "Annals of Natural History," as above stated. In a synoptical form they present the results of all previous botanical explorations in New Zealand.

Island | By the Rev. William Yate, Missionary of the Church Missionary Society. London: Seeley and Burnside. Sold by Hatchard and Son, 8vo. Pp. 310, contents and index (n.p.), 16 pages. Portrait of Rev. S. Marsden, map of New Zealand, and 9 plates, chiefly of the Waikato.

2nd ed. appeared in same year, being rather a reprint on reissue. The title page alone differs: "R. B. Seeley and W. Burnside."

From a copy in my possession, with critical notes, it is plain that the author's brethren considered many of his statements regarding the customs, &c., of the natives and other matters as quite unreliable. The shells collected by him—29, many quite new—are described by Dr. Gray, of the British Museum, in an appendix. From the Sydney press in 1830-33 was issued, under his superintendence, two of the earliest publications in the native language—selections from Scripture, liturgy, catechism, hymns, &c. (which will be elsewhere described); granting of national flag, with illustration. Mr. Yate arrived at the Bay of Islands in 1828, remaining nearly seven years; he then went Home to see this work through the press; on his return to Sydney in 1836 he was dismissed from the mission for misconduct. He was afterwards appointed chaplain to the Sailors' Home at Dover. Numerous references to him and extracts from his journals are in the Missionary Register and Church Missionary Society's Proceedings.

These pious letters from converted natives appear also in Yate's "Account of New Zealand." In this reprint the editor appends a commentary to many. Mr. Yate induced the natives to write to him their religious ideas and feelings, and from the mass of crude correspondence these 30 letters were selected.

Mr. George Bennet, a warm supporter of missions, visited New Zealand in 1824 with the Rev. Daniel Tyerman, as a deputation from the London Missionary Society to their missions.

Cunningham, Allan, F.L.S. Floræ Insularum Novæ Zealandiæ Precursor; or a Specimen of the Botany of the Islands of New Zealand.

This important monograph on the botany of New Zealand appeared as a series of papers in the "Companion to the Botanical Magazine," edited by Sir W. J. Hooker, beginning with Vol. ii, 1836, pp. 223-33, 327-36, 358-78; then continued in the "Annals of Natural History; a Magazine of Zoology, Botany, and Geology," conducted by Sir W. Jardine, P. J. Selby, Dr. Johnston, Sir W. J. Hooker, and R. Taylor—in Vol. i, 1838, pp. 210-16, 376-81, 455-62; Vol. ii, 44-52, 125-32, 205-14, 356-60; Vol. iii, 29-34, 111-15, 244-50, 314-19; Vol. iv, 22-26, 106-11, 256-62. They comprise the plants discovered by Banks, Solander, the Forsters, and Sparrman during Cook's voyages, Allan Cunningham in 1826, the French naturalists attached to the voyages of "La Coquille" and "L'Astrolabe" (q.v.), and by Richard Cunningham in 1833-34, and are arranged and edited by the author. A good description is given of 639 New Zealand species, interspersed with native names, customs, &c., and two plates of Loxosoma.

For biographies of the two brothers, vide Hooker, 1836, and Heward, 1842.

8vo. Pp. xvi, 352, and page of errata. Plate (native village and chapel). Dedicated to Lord Glenelg, Secretary for the Colonies.

H.M.S. "Alligator," Captain Lambert, was detached from the East India squadron to visit Australia and Polynesia. Spent March of 1834 in the Bay of Islands and Whangaroa. Enthusiastic account of the mission and Mr. Busby, the British Resident. Account of the gift of a national flag to the New-Zealanders. Baron Hugel was a passenger. Second visit. Despatched from Sydney to rescue British subjects wrecked in the "Harriet," and made captive by the New-Zealanders at Taranaki. Remained in New Zealand September and October, 1834. Good description of native pa and huts on the Sugar-loaves. The natives treated on this expedition with cruel severity and injustice. Appendix gives Jackey Guard's account of the wreck; contains also Lord Goderich's letter to the chiefs, and Mr. Busby's address to them. See also parliamentary papers, 31st August, 1835. No. 585.

Dr. Marshall lost his life in the Niger expedition, 1841.

Murray, John. An Account | of | the Phormium tenax | or | New-Zealand Flax. | Printed on Paper, made from its Leaves. | With | a Postscript on Paper. | By John Murray, F.S.A., F.L.S., &c. | London: | Henry Renshaw, 356 Strand. | 1836.

8vo. Pp. 34, inclusive of vii. Frontispiece of New Zealand flax plant. List of works (17) by John Murray, with general remarks thereupon. Dedicated to Lord John Russell.

Curious and rare; the paper of a faint brown or cream tinge, and as though peppered. Unrestricted importation of flax would develop intercourse with and civilisation of New-Zealanders. Its cultivation in Great Britain would prove a substitute for Russian hemp. Paper made from it vastly superior to the wretched modern paper, which threatens to sweep away books and records. Description and mode of preparation by the natives. Is reared in the Botanical Gardens of Edinburgh, Glasgow, Guernsey, Paris, and in England. Brought to Ireland in 1798. In 1831 Captain Harris opened a manufactory in Grimsby. Price in British market, £18 to £25 per ton. In 1828, 60 tons imported to England; 1830, 841 tons; 1831, 1,062 tons; 1835, 300 tons. Postscript dwells on the badness and adulteration of modern paper. There was a 2nd ed.

The author was a prolific lecturer and writer on scientific subjects (1786-1851).

The first English book (or pamphlet) printed in New Zealand. The first Maori book was the Epistle to the Ephesians and Philippians, February 1835: Ko nga | Pukapuka | o Paora te Apotoro | ki te hunga o | Epeha, o Piripai. Both were printed by W. Colenso on the Church Missionary Society press, which was landed at Paihia on the 30th December, 1835. The printed notice calling the temperance meeting was: Temperance Society. | Wednesday, the 11th day of May, inst. | A | Public Meeting | will be held in the | Church at Kororarika, | for the Purpose of Establishing a | Temperance Society. | The attendance of all Persons desirous of promoting | Peace, Order, and Sobriety is most earnestly requested. | The British Resident will take the Chair at 12 o'clock. | Dated, May 4th, 1836. | Paihia: Printed at the Press of the Church Missionary Society.

Report | from the | Select Committee | on | the Disposal of Lands | in the | British Colonies; | together with the | Minutes of Evidence, | and Appendix. | Ordered by the House of Commons, to be Printed, | 1 August, 1836.

Almost the first step in the colonisation of New Zealand was taken with this report. E. G. Wakefield was the principal witness, and in his reply to question 961 he recommends this "most beautiful country, with the finest climate and most productive soil," as being the fittest in the world for colonisation. At the close of the examination Mr. H. G. Ward, the chairman, promised to assist Mr. Wakefield in any undertaking of the sort.

Yate, Rev. W. Devotedness to God. | A farewell Sermon | preached at St. Swithin's Church, Cannon Street, January 24, 1836. | By the Rev. William Yate, | previous to his Departure to New Zealand. |

Appears in the Pulpit, Vol. xxvii, No. 697. Pp. 10.

"The first time I ever addressed a Christian assembly was from this pulpit; the last sermon when going to New Zealand was from this pulpit; the first I preached on my return was here." Credited by the ancient people at the Bay of Islands as an eloquent preacher. On his return, via Sydney, he was temporarily appointed to the charge of St. James's Church, vacant by the sudden death of the Rev. Richard Hill.

The "Annals of the Propagation of the Faith" were published annually, containing several monthly numbers. With this, the 10th vol., commences the history of the Roman Catholic faith in New Zealand, under Bishop Pompallier. Throughout the volumes are letters from the Marist fathers who performed the missionary work of the order, with other information. They are equivalent to the "Mission Records" of Protestants.

Busby, J. Letter from James Busby, Esq., British Resident at New Zealand, to the Honourable the Colonial Secretary of New South Wales.

Dated 16th June, 1837.

Describes the warlike and turbulent state of the natives, which requires the control of a paramount authority, supported by adequate force. The chiefs should be induced to lend their aid, under the guidance of the missionaries, and so form a government.

This and other official documents from Governor Bourke, Captain Hobson, and British settlers are printed in parliamentary papers, 7th February, 1838, No. 122, and copied by Dr. Hinds in his "Latest Official Documents," 1838, q.v.

8vo. Pp. 44. Dated 27th November, 1837.

A hostile criticism of and first attack upon the New Zealand Association's "Statement" and "British Colonization." The proposed settlement would be followed by the worst results to the natives, and paralysis of all missionary effort.

Mr. Coates was lay secretary of the Church Missionary Society, and a persistent enemy of the new colonisation scheme.

The Watchman, Wesleyan newspaper, and the Christian Observer followed on the same side.

In 1833, 1836, and 1837 a Committee of the House of Commons was appointed to report on a means for promoting the interests of savage tribes in British settlements, q.v. An incomplete report was issued in 1836, q.v.

Further evidence and the full report were printed in 1837.

This book reprints so much of the evidence as indicates the effectual means to be the Gospel and missionary effort. Dealing chiefly with outrage and the disastrous results of intercourse between the New-Zealanders and unprincipled white men, it may be viewed as the gauntlet thrown down in the coming fray between the missionary party and the band of colonisers under Wakefield.

A most comical and witty skit, with burlesque notes, dedicated to Bilitinka, Professor of English in the University of Kilcockotroni, and apparently aimed at some don's scholarship or scansion. It was written by the Rev. John Hannah, Vicar of Brighton and Archdeacon of Lewes, though "Notes and Queries," 7th series, Vol. viii, p. 271, supposes it by the Rev. T. S. Evans, Canon of Durham. Beyond the title there is no reference to New Zealand.

An eloquent description of the monstrous depravity of the convict settlement and an appeal for assistance. "The first missionary to reach these countries [Australia] was the Rev. Mr. Flinn in 1818," [1817]. Two missionaries are now on their way to New Zealand from the Missions Estrangères [sic], where there is great promise for the natives.

After his return to England Dr. Ullathorne was elevated to an archbishopric in the Roman Catholic Church.

"Consisting of extracts from various publications, by the same author, all of which are out of print." Rare. Many are extracted from his publications already noted; others from the Spectator, to which he was a frequent contributor. Radical reform runs through all. Advocates the rights of the people, universal suffrage, abolition of corn laws and punishment by hanging, &c.

In 1836 Wakefield unsuccessfully contested a seat for Birmingham.

and mode of colonisation and government in New Zealand, including the civilisation of the natives. A description of New Zealand follows—topography, native race, productions, trade, and shipping—derived from many sources, and forming an interesting summary. The appendix has an essay, with several romantic suggestions, on the proper conduct of Europeans towards the natives, written by the Rev. M. J. Hawtrey, q.v. List of ten works on New Zealand, from Cook, in 1770, to “Report on Aborigines,” in 1837.

A smart rejoinder to Mr. Coates's hostile pamphlet. Publishes statements of Mr. Flatt, a returned New Zealand catechist, that Church missionaries there possess large tracts of land and stock; that expenditure on mission is £13,000 a year, with little result; and that a well-organized civil and religious establishment is necessary for the well-being of the country.

From this time the controversy became heated and widespread, reviews and newspapers entering the lists. Blackwood, December, 1837, very favourable to the Association's plans. Eclectic Review, lxvii.

There were three editions or reprints, the second having a terminal note on the Bughis of Celebes, and the third a circular letter of the author's.

An attack on the New Zealand Association's proposals. “Our colonies have been based upon a principle of unrighteousness” and usurpation, which results in the invariable destruction of native races. The recent proposals of the New Zealand Association would have the same result; they are specious and insincere, and merit condemnation.

Mr. Beecham was secretary of the Wesleyan Missionary Society.

Concludes that the plan proposed by the Association is incompetent to remedy the ills of New Zealand. The case cannot be met by any mercantile speculation—only by a Government measure carried out solely by its own officers. A | Bill | for the | Provisional Government of British Settlements | in the Islands of New Zealand. (1 June, 1838.—1 Vict.)

Parliamentary papers, No. 443. Fol. Pp. 25. Prepared and brought in by Mr. Francis Baring and Sir George Sinclair, 19th June, 1838.

Embodies the views of the Association, as modified after discussion with Lord Melbourne, the Prime Minister, and with Lord Howick. Leading features are cession by treaty of New Zealand to the Queen, who should vest the government in Commissioners; systematic sale of land for public purposes; and beneficial provision for the natives. Owing to violent opposition of the missionary party, Parliament threw out the Bill, with disaster to the Association. For debate vide Hansard; also New Zealand Gazette (newspaper), No. 1, August and September, 1839.

Fol. Pp. 908. 3 columns, reduced to 2 columns with the 37th number. A weekly issue of 16 pages, upon Saturdays, changing with its 38th number to Wednesdays. The first number appeared on the 1st December, 1838.

This important journal was published in connection with the Colonial Society, which was formed in July, 1837, for the purpose of watching over the interests of the colonies of the Empire. In August, 1839, it passed into the hands of the conductors of the Spectator, notably Mr. Rintoul. It is replete with the most varied and special information regarding all the British colonies—parliamentary and other news, trade, shipping, and every conceivable question relating to them. Its details connected with the earliest steps of New Zealand colonisation are full and important, and the advent of the New Zealand Journal in 1840 by no means detracted from its special notices of the young colony. In 1847 it changed its title to that of West India Mail and Colonial Gazette.

The Colonization of New Zealand.

Article in Christian Observer, xxxviii, 131.

Opposed to the Association.

Earle, A. New Zealand Association. Sketches | illustrative of the native Inhabitants | and Islands of | New Zealand, | from original Drawings | by Augustus Earle, Esq. | Draughtsman of H.M.S. Oblong folio. Description of the plates, 1 page. 10 coloured lithographs, on thick cartridge paper: 1. Herald, or peace-maker—Awow; 2. The wounded chief Honghi and his family; 3. Slaves preparing food; 4. Village of Parkuni, River Hokianga; 5. Herald, or peace-maker, and Bay of Islands chief; 6. Kororadika Beach, Bay of Islands; 7. Native family; 8. Native village and cowdie forest; 9. War speech previous to a naval expedition; 10. Amoko, Eana, Hepee.

Very rare.

The title-page has view of New Zealand scenery and imprint of the New Zealand Association's device—two shields, one of the British arms, the other with the New Zealand flag surmounted by the British Crown and supported by a New-Zealander and a British seaman; motto, "Ships, Colonies, and Commerce." Plates faithful and well executed.

The society was instituted in 1836 to assist the protection and promote the advancement of uncivilised tribes; T. F. Buxton, Esq., president. The House of Commons "Report on Aborigines" in 1836 gave chief impulse to the society. There were annual reports from this date.

The "Official Documents," of which the originals are to be found in parliamentary papers—Correspondence, 13th April, 1840, p. 8 et seq., and 7th February, 1838, No. 12, are—(1) Despatch from Governor Bourke, Sydney, 9th September, 1837, stating that he had requested Captain Hobson, of the "Rattlesnake," to visit New Zealand, and to suggest the best means of securing the common interests of natives and settlers. This encloses (2) Captain Hobson's reply, dated Port Jackson, 8th August, 1837, containing details of observations, and suggesting a form of British jurisdiction. It also encloses (3) a long letter from Mr. Busby, British Resident at New Zealand, dated Bay of Islands, 16th June, 1837, epitomizing state of natives, Europeans, missionaries, and jurisdiction, and affirming the advantages of established authority. (4.) Petition to the King from 200 British settlers in New Zealand re de Thierry's proposed usurpation, and asking for protection. From these Dr. Hinds, in his "Introductory Observations," supports the proposals of the New Zealand Association, and temperately replies to Messrs. Beecham and Coates.

Dr. Hinds (1792–1872) was afterwards Dean of Carlisle and Bishop of Norwich. A firm friend of New Zealand colonisation.

Parliamentary papers, No. 680. Fol. Pp. iii, 376. Plan of Hokianga.

This Committee was appointed on the motion of Lord Devon, a supporter of the New Zealand Association, and sat from the 3rd April to the 21st May. The evidence abounds in history and information regarding the country, natives, missionaries, traders, and proposed colonisation. The witnesses were J. L. Nicholas, the companion of Rev. S. Marsden in 1814; Watkins, surgeon, 1833–34; Flatt, catechist, 1834–37; Montefiore, Sydney merchant, 1830; Enderby, south whale-fishery, from 1794; Polack, trader, 1831–37; Rev. F. Wilkinson, 1837; Tawell, surgeon, 1837; Nayti, the New-Zealander who returned to New Zealand in the "Tory"; Captain Fitzroy, of the "Beagle"; Rev. J. Beecham, Coates, and Garratt, of the missionary societies; Elliott, Agent-General for Emigration (gives much information on the subject); and Lord Petre, Hinds, Baring, and Dr. Evans, members of the New Zealand Association.

Because of the opposition to the Committee and to the scheme the resolutions were vague—"The question of colonial extension was one of public policy, and for the Government to decide; if support were given, it should be in the direction which had already advanced the native welfare."

Asserts, as result of past experience, that the scheme of the New Zealand Association must probably fail. It lacks justice and the chance of success, and would injure the natives, who are progressing under missionary efforts, which should be supported by some interposition of the British Government.

Mr. Marsh was vicar of Aylesford and Canon of Southwell, cousin and brother-in-law of Archdeacon Henry Williams. Reference is made to him in Carleton's "Life of Henry Williams."

New Zealand Colonization.

The Christian Observer for January and February sketches, and bitterly opposes, the New Zealand Association's scheme, and is especially severe on Mr. E. G. Wakefield, quoting from a letter written in the Watchman (the Wesleyan newspaper) of the 17th January by the Rev. William White, an ex-Wesleyan missionary, who makes disconcerting remarks, derived from personal knowledge of Mr. Wakefield and some of his friends.

8vo. 2 vols. Pp. xii, 403, vi, 441. Map of New Zealand from Cook, D'Urville, Duperrey, and Herd, with additions by J. S. Polack, 1838; and insets of Bay of Islands, Wangari or Bream Bay, and East Cape. 6 full-page engravings and several woodcuts from the author's drawings.

Full of research and observation. History, topography, and natural products of New Zealand; traditions and customs of the natives; first pakehas; missions; and Baron de Thierry's pretensions. Abounds in curious information gathered from the natives whilst travelling. First known reference to the moa is on p. 303, Vol. i. On p. 282, Vol. ii, is a list of numerals in sixty Pacific, Indian, and African languages. The notes give an account of the discovery and productions of the outlying islands of New Zealand and the whale-fishery.

Joel Samuel Polack, a storekeeper and flax-trader, resided at Kororareka (now Russell). Was a Londoner, and gave evidence before the Lords Committee in 1838. He returned to New Zealand after its colonisation and lived in Auckland. Left for Californian gold-diggings in 1849, and there died. By turns had been an artist in Europe, a ship-chandler in Australia, in the Commissariat and Ordnance Departments in Africa, and a traveller in America.

Pp. xiv (1 page of directions to binder), 694 (1 page addenda). 2 charts and 25 plates (1 of "New Zealanders"). The "Beagle" left England 27th December, 1831, and completed her circumnavigation 2nd October, 1836. Mr. Stokes was mate and assistant surveyor; Augustus Earle (q.v.), draughtsman; Charles Darwin, naturalist; Edward Main (Edmund Mein) Chaffers, master (afterwards, in 1839, appointed to command the New Zealand Company's first ship, the "Tory"); and Richard Matthews (q.v.), a missionary to the Fuegians, who afterwards re-embarked and remained in New Zealand. Chapters xxiv to xxvi relate to the Bay of Islands, where the "Beagle" remained for the last ten days of 1835. Short account of the natives, missionaries, and traders. The appendix to Vol. ii forms a separate volume; pp. viii, 352; 2 charts, with insets, diagrams, and plates of clouds. Contains various tables, official correspondence, account of the Fuegians, and a vocabulary of their language; correspondence from and to Mr. Busby, British Resident at New Zealand, relating to Baron de Thierry; declaration of independence; and instructions from Governor Bourke.

Svo. Pp. iv, 120. Appendix.

Written on Dr. Lang's fifth voyage to England, in the "Roslin Castle," which put into the Bay of Islands for a few days in a leaky state in January, 1839: 1st, demoralised Europeans are ruining a fine native race, and it is imperative Government should found a British colony on Christian principles; 2nd, a bitter diatribe on the Church missionaries and their mixed plan of evangelising; 3rd, the high suitability of New Zealand for colonisation; 4th, the best means of colonising. The appendix, "South Sea Islands," gives an account of the treatment of the Tahitians in 1838 by Du Petit-Thouars, captain of the French frigate "La Venus." Contains many little pieces of history and scandal, list of vessels visiting the Bay of Islands in 1838, and 10 pages on the origin of the Polynesians. (Vide Tail's Magazine, n.s., vi, 611.)

Republished at Sydney, July, 1873, "With a preface and appendix for 1873." Pp. vii, 96. Slightly recast, and substituting initials for names. List of vessels (132), Polynesian origin, and appendix omitted, with a sub-

The "Coquille," under the command of Captain Duperrey, visited the Bay of Islands in April, 1824, remaining fifteen days. The official history of the voyage was not published, and the only contributions to it are in these volumes and in the "Observations personnelles" of M. D'Urville, then an officer of the vessel, published in Vol. iii, p. 673, of the "Voyage of the 'Astrolabe,'" q.v. M. Lesson was naturalist of the "Coquille." His observations are general, being almost confined to an account of the natives and the language, of which there is a vocabulary, chiefly taken from Lee and Kendall's grammar, which had been published shortly before.

Treats of emigration and colonisation in an able and philosophical manner, and with special reference to New Zealand, which "should be colonized in preference to every other country," and for which an elaborate plan of settlement is propounded. This "plan, with the exception of several amendments, was laid before a member of the present Government by the writer several years ago" (p. 169). Criticizes unfavourably Wakefield's "sufficient price" system.

This author claims to have anticipated Darwin's theory of natural selection, in his work on "Naval Timber, &c.," published in 1831. The claim was advanced in the Gardeners' Chronicle of 7th April, 1860, a few months after the appearance of the "Origin of Species," and is admitted by Darwin, who considers it "a complete but not developed anticipation" (vide "Life and Letters, &c.," Vol. ii, p. 301 et seq.).

2nd ed., 6th September, with considerable additions.

Forms the first number of the future first New Zealand newspaper, printed in London prior to the departure of the first emigrant-vessels. Contains an historical sketch of the colonisation of New Zealand, and matters connected with the immediate departure of the colonists.

No. 2 was issued at Port Nicholson, Saturday, 18th April, 1840. In No. 20, 22nd August, the additional title of "and Britannia Spectator" was given; altered in No. 33, 28th November, to "and Wellington Spectator." The paper ceased publication with No. 363, 25th September, 1844, and was succeeded by the New Zealand Spectator and Cook's Straits Guardian on the 12th October, 1844. Mr. Samuel Revans was the editor, formerly a Canadian colonist, and the founder, with Mr. H. S. Chapman, of the Montreal Daily Advertiser, and, with him, was one of the so-called "rebels" in the Papineau insurrection. He finally settled near Greytown, in the Wairarapa, and died 14th July, 1888, æt. 80.

Svo. Pp. 30. Also in parliamentary papers, May, 1841, No. 311, pp. 63-78.

New Zealand, then a dependency of New South Wales, was being exploited by land-sharks, some of whom asserted their claim to high blocks of land purchased from the natives. The object of the Bill was to inquire into land-titles and to disallow exorbitant claims. The right of possession following on discovery of a savage country belongs to the sovereign, who alone permits the formation of colonies and the granting of land-titles.

John Walpole Willis, appointed first Judge of the Port Phillip District in 1841, is credited with the preparation of this most able speech.

Government Gazettes (Collation of).

The earliest are difficult to collate. An account of them is in "The Beginnings of Literature in New Zealand: Part ii, the English Section—Newspapers," by Dr. Hocken (Trans. N.Z. Inst., Vol. xxxiv, pp. 99-114). There was also much confusion after the territorial divisions of New Zealand in 1847 into New Ulster and New Munster.

The first Gazettes were printed in the columns of the second newspaper issued in New Zealand—the New Zealand Advertiser and Bay of Islands Gazette, Vol. i, No. 1, Kororarika, 15th June, 1840. In this number appears: "The Gazette. New Zealand. Notice is hereby given that all communications from this Government inserted in the New Zealand Advertiser and Bay of Islands Gazette are to be deemed official. Given under my Hand at Government-House, Russell, this 12th day of June, in the year of our

The first Proclamation, asserting the sovereign rights over New Zealand, is dated the 21st May, 1840. The Gazette publication thus continued until the cessation of the paper, on the 10th December, 1840—its 27th number. On the 30th the Church Missionary Society published one number as below (No. 1). On the 19th February, 1841, was issued at Kororareka No. 2 of the New Zealand Government Gazette, which continued until the 15th July (No. 19). On the 7th July, 1841, was issued at Auckland No. 1 of New Zealand Government Gazette of the folio size and shape it has retained to the present. Many of its contents were copied into the New Zealand Herald and Auckland Gazette, the first Auckland newspaper, which commenced 10th July, 1841.

New Munster Gazette. Published at Wellington. 1847 and 1848—Nos. [A] (Aug. 17) to 26; pp. 139; Vol. i (A to No. 6 entitled "Southern Province," 7 to 26 "New Munster"); regular paging begins with No. 2; No. 1 is not numbered, but is referred to in the index as "A." 1849—Nos. 1 to 27; pp. 160; Vol. ii. 1850—Nos. 1 to 24; pp. 121; Vol. iii. 1851—Nos. 1 to 31; pp. 192; Vol. iv. 1852—Nos. 1 to 32; pp. 203; Vol. v. 1853—Nos. 1 to 7 (Feb. 28); pp. 42; Vol. vi.

After the New Ulster Gazette and the New Munster Gazette ceased issue, on the 2nd April, 1853, and the 28th February, 1853, respectively, the New Zealand Government Gazette resumed publication. There was, however, much irregularity and confusion, from the fact that numbers were issued from both Auckland and Wellington. Hence there are errors in nomenclature, pagination, and even name.

Sm. 8vo. Pp. vi, 140. Appendix.

The noble race of New-Zealanders should be treated by outgoing colonists with justice, equality, and friendship. Numerous suggestions offered with this view. An expansion of the author's essay in "The British Colonization of New Zealand," 1837. Extracts from it are also in his "Justice to N.Z.," 1861. The appendix suggests a form of Constitution for New Zealand, a Lord-Lieutenant, a Senate consisting of landed proprietors and native chiefs, and, in due time, representation.

Whilst a curate in Upper Chelsea, in 1836, Mr. Hawtrey formed a friendship with E. G. Wakefield, and thenceforth took an active and continued interest in the settlement of New Zealand.

Svo. Published monthly from January, 1840, a four months' issue forming a volume of more than 500 pages.

Somewhat puzzling to collate. It was issued monthly from January, 1840, to June, 1842, 30 numbers forming 8 vols.—7 of 4 numbers each, the 8th and last of 2 numbers. It was then continued as Fisher's Colonial Magazine (Vol. i, August to December, 1842; Vol. ii, January to April, 1843; Vol. iii, May to August; Vol. iv, September to December: in all, 17 numbers). A new series commenced in 1844, February to December (11 numbers), forming Vol. i, with the varied title of Fisher's Colonial Magazine | and Journal of Trade, Commerce | and Banking. | New Series—1844. In this year Simmonds's Colonial Magazine (q.v.) became a competitor.

Contains important articles (some of considerable extent) on the colonies by Wakefield and other eminent writers, referring to trade, shipping intelligence, births, marriages, and deaths, general colonial information, with occasional illustrations.

Demy fol. 3 columns. Pp. 4.

The second newspaper issued in New Zealand. Edited by the Rev. B. Quaife, a Congegational minister, and owned by G. A. Eagar, both of Sydney. It was virtually suppressed by the Government in its 27th number, 10th December, 1840, for freedom of criticism. It printed the first Gazette notices and the news of the day.

New Zealand Company. | Instructions | to | Agents. | London : | Printed by Harrison and Co. | 45, St. Martin's Lane. (1840).

Sm. 8vo. Pp. 16. Dated New Zealand Company's Office, 14th January, 1840.

58 articles. Duties ; remuneration (5 per cent. on sale of lands, £2 for every married couple selected, and 10s. for each adult child) ; land-sales ; selection of emigrants ; miscellaneous ; despatch of ships.

New Zealand described ; together with a few words of advice on the subject of Emigration, in a Letter to the Labouring Class. London : G. Mann, 39, Cornhill. 1840.

Ppt. Price 3d. Passed through 3 editions.

Brief, but good, description of New Zealand : a country most suitable for the labourer, whose deplorable condition in England is well drawn.

Reviewed in New Zealand Journal, No. 18.

[New Zealand, Waitemata, and Manakou Company.] Notices of New Zealand. (1840.)

Cr. Svo. Pp. 40. M. Anderson and Company, printers, Edinburgh.

Issued by the above company, which, perhaps, absorbed the Scots New Zealand Land Company. Its headquarters were in Edinburgh, and it would be in rivalry with the New Zealand Company: 1. General description; 2. Trade and shipping; 3. Southern whale-fishery; 4. Flax; 5. Timber trade; 6. Climate and soil; 7. Purchase of waste lands and emigration; 8. Views of natives as to British settlement; 9. List of estates purchased in New Zealand prior to 1836; 10. Descriptions of Waitemata and Manakou; 11. Regulations of the New Zealand, Waitemata, and Manakou Company.

Contains a letter from Captain W. C. Symonds, surveyor and agent of this company, dated Kaipara, 7th February, 1840. The land on which Auckland is built was part of this property, which extended through from the Manukau to the Waitemata. The Township of Cornwallis was projected on the north of the entrance of the Manukau Harbour. For other reference to the company, see parliamentary papers, 22nd April, 1845; 10th April, 1854; July, 1860; and New Zealand Committee papers. 1844.

Vol. xii: 1852, Nos. 309 to 331 (Nov. 6), pp. 545 to 856.

Written in the interests of the New Zealand Company until July, 1850, when that body surrendered its charter to the Government. Contains a most comprehensive, continuous, and often fascinating history of New Zealand affairs from 1840 onward. Its extensive repertory, including the annals and proceedings of the Company and its relations with the Colonial Office, reports of the Imperial and colonial Legislatures, copious extracts from the British and New Zealand Press, extensive correspondence, and journals of expeditions, &c., renders it absolutely necessary for the student of New Zealand history. Many long and important articles, signed "W.," are by Edward Wakefield, the father of Edward Gibbon Wakefield.

Until December, 1843, and prior to his departure for New Zealand, it was edited by Henry Samuel (afterwards Mr. Justice) Chapman (1803-81), of the Middle Temple; then by William Bridges, actuary and secretary of the New Zealand Society (not the Company), and afterwards of the Mitre Life Office, and writer of "New Zealand and Ireland," &c. (q.v.); then by George Butler Earp, a returned New Zealand colonist, member of the Legislative Council, and author of "Handbook for Emigrants" (q.v.); and, last of all, nominally by William Bowler, an officer of the Canterbury Association, but in fact by E. G. Wakefield.

With No. 283, 5th October, 1850, it ceased publication and became amalgamated with the Australian Gazette, under the title of The Australian and New Zealand Gazette (q.v.), whose first number was issued 19th October. The new journal, however, failed to give that support to the Canterbury scheme expected from it, and, moreover, in No. 8 it vented a bitter remark upon Wakefield and his colonising schemes, exasperated, without doubt, by some breach of faith of the old proprietary. This resulted in the Journal resuming publication with No. 284, 1st February, 1851, and it continued until its 331st number, 6th November, 1852, when it again and finally was incorporated with the Gazette.

Sm. 8vo. Pp. 24.

The original prospectus of terms, regulations, &c., before union with the New Zealand Company, dated 19th February, 1840. After union the pamphlet was issued with slight alterations, and with "18th July, 1840," at foot of title-page. There was a large emigration from the west of England.

Polack, J. S. Manners and Customs | of the | New Zealanders; | with Notes corroborative of their Habits, Usages, &c., | and | Remarks to intending Emigrants, | with numerous Cuts drawn on Wood. | By J. S. Polack, Esq., | Author of "Travels and Adventures in New Zealand between the Years | 1831 and 1837." | James Madden & Co., 8, Leadenhall Street, | and | Hatchard and Son, Piccadilly. | MDCCCXXXX.

8vo. 2 vols. Vol. i: pp. xxxiv, 288; map of the Islands of New Zealand from Cook, D'Urville, Duperrey, and Herd, with additions by J. S. Polack, 1838; and insets of Bay of Islands, Bream Bay, and Tokomaru; 47 illustrations, one of which—"Departure of warriors on a predatory excursion"—is on the title-page. Vol. ii: pp. xviii, 304; vignette of "Waterfall at Waitangi River"; 24 illustrations, Nos. 1 and 3 being interchanged.

Illustrations and observations valuable and original, with copious details of all that relates to the native race. Numerous notes and references compare the usages of the New-Zealanders with those of other nations, the Jews especially. In the appendix is a good account of the forest timbers, edible plants, introduced cereals and fruit, animal life, kauri-gum, flax, &c.

These are 35 in number, and are all very rare, dating from 14th May, 1840, to 27th May, 1858, though two or three mere balance-sheets appeared later. At first they were issued annually. The only complete set known to the writer is in the Colonial Office, Downing Street; his own lacks the 28th, 29th, 30th, and 34th. They contain a vast amount of valuable New Zealand history, which is by no means confined to the Company's operations in the colonisation and settlement of the country. The appendix to the 12th report is a special example of this. Many supplements and other documents, noticed below, were issued with them. The New Zealand Journal, Colonial Gazette, Times, Morning Chronicle, and Spectator usually reprinted the reports, with leaders and reports of the meeting. The first governor or chairman of the Company was the Earl of Durham, who died in 1840; the second, Mr. Joseph Somes, an eminent London merchant, who died in 1845; and, last, the Hon. Francis Baring.

(pp. 3). Short history of the Company's formation and principles; difficulties with Government from the outset; Wellington founded. Appendices give particulars of ships despatched to date, and balance-sheets.

Second Report. Presented to an extraordinary general meeting. 15th September, 1840. 8vo. Pp. 10. Arrival and despatch of ships; account of land-sales; consideration of dividend Third Report. Annual general meeting. 1st May, 1841. 8vo. Pp. 61. 5 appendices. Relations between the Government and Company cordial; the second colony (Nelson) despatched—correspondence regarding it; dividend of 10 per cent. declared; further instructions to Colonel Wakefield; Mr. Pennington's award; second colony (Nelson)—terms of purchase; Halswell's appointment as Commissioner for Aborigines; balance-sheets.

Fourth Report. Special court of proprietors. 16th November, 1841. 8vo. Pp. 5. Appendices A and B (pp. 2). Operations successful; dividend declared, 10 per cent. per annum. Appendix: Profit after paying expenses nearly £170,000; particulars of ships despatched to date.

Fifth Report. Annual court of proprietors. 31st May, 1842. 8vo. Pp. 37. Appendices A, B, C, D (p. 1). Favourable account of state and prospects of various settlements—Wellington, Wanganui, Nelson, and New Plymouth. Appendices: Steam navigation; balance-sheets; particulars of ships.

Sixth Report. Special court of proprietors. 10th October, 1842. 8vo. Pp. 7. Land-sales somewhat stagnant; dividend declared, $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. for half-year.

Seventh Report. Annual court of proprietors. 30th May, 1843. 8vo. Pp. 4-34. Appendices A to E. Jubilant account of progress; $2\frac{1}{2}$ -per cent. dividend. Appendices: Balance-sheets; shipping; statement of lands appropriated to each settlement.

Eighth Report. Special court of proprietors. 21st August, 1843. 8vo. Pp. 16. Loan required of £100,000; sites to be chosen for Scotch and Church of England settlements; supplemental charter to be sought empowering raising of loan.

Ninth Report. Adjourned special court. 19th October, 1843. 8vo. Pp. 4. Declare dividend of $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. for half-year; affairs progressing.

Tenth Report. Special court. 15th March, 1844. 8vo. Pp. 4. Operations must be suspended unless arrangements can be made with the Government for pecuniary assistance; so far, the Company's title to land has not received the Crown grant for a single acre.

Eleventh Report. Adjourned special court. 29th March, 1844. 8vo. Pp. 3. Government's reply is unsatisfactory; negotiations are proceeding.

Twelfth Report. Adjourned special court. 26th April, 1844. 8vo. Pp. 38. Appendix. Representations to Colonial Department are entirely without effect, and it is difficult to determine what course to adopt; expenses have continued and resources diminished; the directors have determined to appeal to Parliament for redress. A commentary is given on the documents appended to this report, which has been forwarded to Lord Stanley.

Documents | appended to | the Twelfth Report | of the | Directors | of the | New Zealand Company, | April 26, 1844. | London: | Printed by Palmer and Clayton, | Crane Court, Fleet Street. | 1844. 8vo. Pp. xlvii, 1,150, and map of New Zealand. The appendices contain the charter and supplemental charter, and are lettered from A to K, each section being independently paginated, the whole totalling about 1,150 pages, and issued in this form of conspectus a convenient and forcible method of strengthening the Company's claims upon the Government. This important volume was known, from its thick, clumsy shape, as the "Fat Book." It is reprinted in the appendix to the "Report from the Select Committee on New Zealand," parliamentary papers, 29th July, 1844, No. 556: A. Correspondence with the Colonial Department, 1844; B. Agreement with Lord Stanley, 1843; C. Special correspondence with the Colonial Department, 1840 to 1843; D. General correspondence with the Colonial Department, 1837 to 1843; E. Colonial and supplementary correspondence respecting the Company's land-titles, 1841 to 1843; F. The Company's purchases of land from the natives, 1839 to 1842; G. Endowments for the colonial Church and the natives, 1840 to 1843; H. Intelligence from the colony, 1843, 1844; I. Public documents relating to the Colony of New Zealand, 1838 to 1842; K. Accidental omissions and errors. The above gives a succinct history of the Company and its correspondence to date.

Thirteenth Report. Adjourned annual court. 29th June, 1844. 8vo. Pp. 138. Appendix. Pending the report of the House of Commons Select Committee, no allusion is made to important questions. The long appendix contains full financial statement, and also matters that would have been appended to the 12th report had there been time—viz., correspondence re New Edinburgh Settlement, and with Messrs. de Chapeaurouge and Co. re German emigrants for Nelson; particulars of the 63 vessels despatched to date, representing 29,497 tonnage, and 8,893 passengers.

Fourteenth Report. Adjourned special court. 31st July, 1844. 8vo. Pp. 216. Appendix. Considers the report of the House of Commons, which is given in extenso, as favourable to the views and policy of the Company. Appendix contains full account of the Wairau massacre, its causes, with biographical notice of the victims, and a list of the land-purchases.

Fifteenth Report. Adjourned special court. 15th August, 1844. 8vo. Pp. 84. Appendix. The directors are prepared again to issue land orders if the Crown will guarantee titles, which surely, in face of the Commons report, they cannot refuse. The appendix contains extracts from Bishop Selwyn's letters, and the debates in the French Chamber of Deputies on New Zealand, at full length (pp. 51).

Sixteenth Report. Special court. 30th January, 1845. 8vo. Pp. 10. The position of the Company with the Government is still critical and unsatisfactory; correspondence proceeding with Lord Stanley.

Seventeenth Report. Adjourned special court. 13th February, 1845. 8vo. Pp. 168. Appendix. Relations with the Government are still so unsatisfactory that recourse must be had to presenting a petition to the House. Appendix contains correspondence with the colony re land claims, the natives, the various settlements, steps taken for selection of New Edinburgh, and journal of Colonel Wakefield, and correspondence.

"Petition of the New Zealand Company," presented to the House of Commons by Joseph Somes, Esq., M.P., the governor of the Company, 16th April, 1845; also, "Petition of the Merchants, Bankers, and Traders of the City of London," presented by John Masterman, Esq., M.P., 18th March, 1845. Pp. 40. Asks redress for wrongs done whilst prosecuting the undertaking for which the Company is incorporated; hope Government will grant Company title to their lands, and so help the colonists.

Eighteenth Report. Annual general court. 29th May, 1845. 8vo. Pp. 120. Appendix. Refers to the petitions and to other steps taken in the House; also to further futile correspondence with Lord Stanley regarding a proposed proprietary Government in New Zealand. Mr. Charles Buller will move for a Committee of the whole House to consider the state of New Zealand and the case of the Company. Appendix gives the correspondence.

Supplement to the Eighteenth Report. Pp. 62. Recent information from New Zealand states that on the 9th and 10th June, 1845, the flagstaff at Russell was cut down by Heki; the natives elsewhere are aggressive, and affairs gloomy.

Nineteenth Report. Special general court. 16th October, 1845. 8vo. Pp. 93. Appendix. The efforts made in the House are to an extent successful. Lord Stanley consents to a municipal form of self-government in the various settlements, to concessions as to land-purchase and to titles, and to a Government loan of £100,000. Appendix contains the correspondence with the Government, and information and despatches from the colony. Account of expeditions to the Wairau and Wairarapa districts; threatening attitude of the natives.

Twentieth Report. Annual general court. 29th May, 1846. 8vo. Pp. 264. Appendix and supplement. Directors are tired of a protracted struggle with the Government (Mr. Gladstone, Secretary of State for the Colonies) and constant procrastination, and recommend dissolution, unless relief is secured by immediate legislation. Appendix contains balance-sheets, correspondence, and despatches. For discussion at meeting, vide New Zealand Journal, 30th May et seq.

Twenty-first Report. Special general court. 30th September, 1846. 8vo. Pp. 60. Affairs are more propitious; correspondence with Earl Grey (the new Secretary for the Colonies) satisfactory; suitable Loan Acts have been passed. Appendix contains correspondence and despatches from the colony.

Twenty-second Report. Annual general court. 14th May, 1847. 8vo. Pp. x, 64. Appendix and supplement. Proposed arrangements with the Government for three years give promise of success, and should be accepted. Appendix: Balance-sheets, correspondence, and terms for Otago. Supplement: Particulars of proposed monetary arrangement between Government and Company.

Twenty-third Report. Special general court. 15th October, 1847. 8vo. Pp. vii, 34. Appendix and supplement. Jubilant and didactic. Appendix: The Act (10 and 11 Vic., cap. cxii) promoting colonisation and authorising loan to the Company (£236,000). Supplement: Interpretation of the agreement between the Government and the Company.

Twenty-fourth Report. Annual general court. 31st May, 1848. 8vo. Pp. vi, 67. Appendix and supplement, also "correspondence" privately issued to directors (pp. 114), some of which is in the report. Quiet progress; Canterbury Settlement on foot; arrangements are being made to adjust the land claims in the various settlements, so long a source of annoyance and perplexity. Purchase and deed of grant effected of Porirua, Wellington, and Waitohi (Picton). Appendix: Balance-sheets, correspondence, intelligence from colony.

Arrangements | for the | Adjustment of Questions | relating to | Land in the Settlements | of the | New Zealand Company. | London: | Printed by Stewart and Murray, Old Bailey. | 1848. 8vo. Pp. ii, 75. Referred to in the 24th report. Correspondence on subject, and agreement that Governor Grey shall be the sole arbiter in adjusting land questions. (The Nelson settlers especially were greatly dissatisfied with the Company's land and other arrangements, and requested amendment.)

Twenty-fifth Report. Annual general court. 31st May, 1849. 8vo. Pp. xvi, 102. Appendix. Prefixed is the report of a special general court, convened 27th April, 1849, to adopt means to secure New Zealand from the stigma of being made a penal colony. New regulations regarding the purchase and disposal of lands; death of Colonel Wakefield; progress of settlements; position of Company is good, and will so continue if land-sales progress. Appendix: Balance-sheets, and satisfactory correspondence from all quarters.

Twenty-sixth Report. Annual general court. 31st May, 1850. 8vo. Pp. 11. The three-years arrangement with the Government having nearly expired, further negotiations are in progress; balance-sheets. Meeting adjourned.

Twenty-seventh Report. Adjourned general court. 2nd July, 1850. 8vo. Pp. 24. Draft proof. Is the Company to continue operations? The agreement with Earl Grey is reviewed; Lord Grey cannot accede to the Company's new application; land and other statements given. Meeting adjourned.

Adjourned general court. 2nd July, 1850. 8vo. Pp. 2. After discussion, agreed to adjourn for further consideration whether it is expedient that the Company should surrender its charters to Her Majesty.

Further adjourned annual court, &c. 4th July, 1850. 8vo. Pp. 3. Under cruel necessity, the Company surrenders its charters; a committee is appointed to co-operate with the directors; all but absolutely necessary expenses now cease. Meeting adjourned to 16th.

Further adjourned meetings from 16th July to 31st July, 1850. (Vide New Zealand Journal, 13th and 27th July and 10th August.)

Twenty-eighth Report. Annual general court. 18th July, 1851. 8vo. The now virtually defunct Company reports its unsuccessful efforts towards a readjustment of its claims upon the Government, for which it will still strive; it must liquidate its engagements with the Canterbury Association, and that body must now raise from its lands its own loan. Meeting adjourned to 30th July, 13th August, and 28th November. Seemed to be a deadlock, and that a call must be made. (Vide New Zealand Journal, 26th July et seq.)

Twenty-ninth Report. Annual general court. 7th October, 1852. Sets forth the present position of the Company in reference to the Colonial Office and the Canterbury Association, and considers the best means of meeting its liabilities. The meeting was adjourned to the 21st October, when a committee of shareholders was appointed to examine the accounts and transactions of the Company, and to report thereon.

Thirtieth Report. Annual general court. 31st May, 1853.

Thirty-first Report. Annual general court. 30th May, 1854. 8vo. Pp. 8. Little more than complementary of the balance-sheet. Applications to the Government for settlement of claims under their Loan Act still unsuccessful. (Vide Australian and New Zealand Gazette, p. 521.)

Thirty-second Report. Annual general court. 31st May, 1855. 8vo. Pp. 10. Gratified to say liabilities of the loan at last discharged, and a surplus of £20,000 derived from land-sales effected by the Government on behalf of the Company will be appropriated to the shareholders.

Thirty-third Report. Annual general court. 22nd May, 1856. 8vo. Pp. 20. Appendix. History of further transactions in order to finally close relations with the Government and the colony.

Thirty-fourth Report. Annual general court. 28th May, 1857.

Thirty-fifth Report. Annual general court. 27th May, 1858. 8vo. Pp. 129. The last. After congratulations on repayment of the Company's capital of £200,000 received from H.M. Government for sale of lands at 5s. per acre, the report eloquently narrates with pride the Company's history, gathered from the reports themselves; it refers to the chief actors, and, after proposing resolutions for final items of business, says farewell. The appendices are numerous and valuable—various lists and dates are given from 1825; Acts of Parliament connected with colonies from 1784; list of books, reports, and other publications on New Zealand and colonisation generally; portions of important correspondence throughout the life of the Company; and extracts from the Journal du Havre, 1840, and the Journal des Debats, regarding the French intentions towards New Zealand. (These are given at full length in the 15th report.) Notice is given that on the 30th June the offices of the New Zealand Company will be closed, and that afterwards communications must be sent to the solicitors, Messrs. Few and Co.

The Company's vast correspondence, documents, &c., perhaps weighing some tons, was handed over to the Colonial Office in 1850, at the surrender of the charters. In 1903 the writer spent some months at the Record Office in going through and tabulating the whole of these documents for the British Government, with the agreeable result that this priceless mass of historical material was presented to the New Zealand Government in 1906.

Two or three mere balance-sheets appear after 1858.

Prompted and promoted by the New Zealand Company, an influential meeting of merchants, bankers, shipowners, and others was held at the Guildhall on the 15th April, 1840, to petition Parliament in favour of systematic colonisation of New Zealand and to preserve it to the Crown. The petition was presented to the House of Commons on the 22nd May, and a Committee of inquiry was appointed on the 7th July. This report was the outcome, and was favourable. The witnesses were E. G. Wakefield, Saxe Bannister, John Blackett, R.N., John Ward, Dandeson Coates, Rev. Drs. Hinds and Beecham, Charles Enderby, W. Hutt, and Alex. Busby. Their evidence gives an account of the natives and their lands, mission labours, origin and history of the New Zealand Company, and the necessity for government and regulated colonisation, and is thus valuable and historical. The appendix contains an account of Captain Hobson's transactions, the purchase of Port Nicholson, correspondence with the Government, &c., and a copy of the petition, which will also be found in the New Zealand Journal, No. 6, p. 67.

Demy fol. Pp. 4.

It ceased in December of the same year, but revived in a new series and in an enlarged form, with 5 columns, from November, 1842, to July, 1843. After another stoppage, it reappeared in October, 1843, in a reduced form of 4 columns, and continued until the beginning of 1845, when it expired. Messrs. Kitchen and Barrow were successive editors.

The Australian Colonies.

Dumont D'Urville, | Capitaine de vaisseau. | Publié par Ordonnance de Sa Majesté. | — | Histoire du Voyage, | par M. Dumont D'Urville. | Tome Premier. | Paris, | Gide, Editeur, | Rue des Petits-Augustins, 5, près le Quai Malaquais. | 1841.

1. Histoire du voyage, 10 vols. 8vo, et atlas pittoresque, 2 vols. obl. fol., de 207 planches (1841-46). 2. Anthropologie et physiologie humaine, par Dumoutier, 1 vol. 8vo, et atlas, fol., de 50 pl. coloriées (1846). 3. Botanique, par C. Montague, Hombron et Jacquinot, 2 vols. 8vo, et atlas, fol., de 66 pl. col. 4. Géologie et paléontologie, par J. Grange, 2 vols. 8vo, et atlas, fol., de 13 pl. et cartes (1848). 5. Hydrographie, par Vincendon-Dumoulin, 2 vols. 8vo, et atlas, fol., de 57 cartes (1843-47). 6. Zoologie, 5 vols. 8vo, et atlas, fol., de 140 pl. col. par Hombron et Jacquinot (1846).

Due to Captain D'Urville's calamitous death by cremation in a railway accident, the work of completing the "History of the Voyage" from Vol. iii devolved on his fellow-companion M. Dumoulin. Parts of Vols. viii and ix (from 12th December, 1839, to 4th May, 1840) are devoted to Van Diemen's Land, the Auckland Isles, the claims to Antarctic discovery by Commodore Wilkes in the United States Exploring Expedition, and to New Zealand, and these are supplemented with copious notes by members of the expedition. Four days in April were spent in Port Otago, of which an illustration is given, with an account of the whaling settlement and the wretched condition of the natives and their chief Taiaroa; Akaroa and neighbourhood, and its suitability as a settlement for the expected French emigrants. The Bay of Islands was entered on 26th April, where a week's stay was made during the excitement consequent upon Governor Hobson's arrival and the signing of the Treaty of Waitangi. Account of Kororareka; interview with Baron de Thierry; the missionaries; the whalers; and opposition to the new colonisation.

This was D'Urville's third visit to New Zealand. On the first occasion it was under Duperrey, as lieutenant in the "Coquille," in 1824; then as commander of the "Astrolabe" (which was the "Coquille" renamed), in 1827; and last as above.

du vaisseau, Commandeur de la Légion d'Honneur. | ——— | Paris, | Gide, |
Éditeur, | Rue de Seine-Saint-Germain, 6 bis. | 1840-1.

1. Relation historique du voyage, 4 vols. roy. 8vo. et atlas in-fol. de 70 planches noires et coloriées. 2. Zoologie, 1 vol. 8vo. et atlas in-fol. de 79 planches coloriées. 3. Botanique, atlas in-fol. de 28 planches, par Brogniart et Decaisne. 4. Physique et hydrographie, 5 vols. 8vo. et atlas in-fol. de 19 cartes. 5. Rapport fait à l'Académie des sciences sur les travaux scientifiques exécutés pendant le voyage de la frégate la "Vénus," 8vo, pp. 84.

Like all the voyages published by the French Government, this is a magnificent production. Captain Petit-Thouars spent nearly a month at the Bay of Islands in October and November, 1838.

The 3rd and 4th vols. of the Histoire have about 350 pages relating to New Zealand; to Baron de Thierry, with a long proclamation from him as "sovereign chief," and another in reply from Mr. Busby, the British Resident; the mission under Bishop Pompallier; a translation of Lang's "Four Letters" to the Earl of Durham; list of vessels visiting the Bay; and much about the natives. There is a view of a native village, and an excellent chart of the Bay of Islands.

Grey, Captain. Journals | of | two Expeditions of Discovery | in North-West and Western | Australia, | during the years 1837, 38, and 39, | under the Authority of Her Majesty's Government. | Describing | many newly discovered, important, and fertile Districts, | with | observations on the moral and physical | condition of the Aboriginal Inhabitants, &c., &c. | By George Grey, Esq. | Governor of South Australia; | Late Captain of the Eighty-third Regiment. | In two volumes. | ——— | London: | T. and W. Boone, 29, New Bond Street. | 1841

8vo. Vol. i: pp. xiv, 412. Vol. ii: pp. ix, 482. Two maps and many plates.

Apart from its great special interest, it contains a spirited account of the "overlanders" in the early Australian settlements, characteristics of the natives, and that "Report upon the Best Means of Promoting the Civilization of the Aboriginal Inhabitants of Australia," addressed to Lord John Russell, which is stated to have been the author's stepping-stone to his first appointment as a colonial Governor.

* Hodgskin, Richard. Narrative of eight months' sojourn in New Zealand; with a description of the habits, customs, &c., of the islanders, the climate, soil, birds, fishes, &c. Coleraine, 1841.

P. Svo. Pp. xii, 372. Steel engraving, "Part of the New Plymouth Settlement" (same as in Petre's "Account"). No map. Appendices.

Reviewed in New Zealand Journal of the 30th October and the 13th November, 1841.

The same work appears, but with title-page dated 1842, and with two maps—1, of New Zealand (as in Petre's "Account"); 2, of Australia, New Zealand, and the adjacent islands—and engraving of "Part of Lambton Harbour."

Pleasant account of a ten months' visit to the Bay of Islands and Thames district in 1839-40, at the beginning of colonisation. Good description of Kororareka and its life; sale of Busby's township of Victoria; Treaty of Waitangi; Bishop Pompallier; defends the missionaries from Dr. Lang's charges; life of early settlers in the Thames and Waitemata; principal timber trees and flax; account of Adelaide and Sydney. Appendices (7): Regulations and wages for emigrant labourers; statistics of Port Phillip and New South Wales; arrangements between Government and New Zealand Company; &c.

Te Karere o Nui Tireni. | [Na te Kawana i mea kia taia.]

Much of the New Zealand Messenger is of great rarity, and its collation often difficult. Dr. Edward Shortland was the editor of its first section—that to the end of 1845.

1846. Vol. v. Jan. 15.

Probably publication here ceased owing to the continuance of the war in the north.

In an altered form—demy fol., the size of the newspapers of the day—it was resumed on the 5th January, 1849 (vide the Southern Cross and the New Zealander of this date). The latter paper blames Governor Grey for neglecting the issue of so important and valuable a paper earlier.

The Maori Messenger. | Ko te Karere Maori. No. 1. Auckland, January 5, 1849—Akarana, Hanuere 5, 1849. Vol. 1. Demy fol.; 4 columns, alternately English and Maori; pp. 4. Continued until Vol. vi, 1854 (precise date not ascertained), and was issued fortnightly, Williamson and Wilson being the publishers. It contained short leaders, and very much historical and other matter of interest to both races—Sir George Grey's expedition to Taranaki overland, various lectures, &c. It was partly edited by Mr. David Burn, who came from Tasmania, where he published two vols. of "Plays and Fugitive Pieces." He was connected with the New Zealander, Southern Cross, and New Zealand Herald, and died about 1876.

The Maori Messenger. | Te Karere Maori. This appeared under a new shape, sm. 4to, in bright-coloured wrapper, with table of contents, and was at first issued monthly, until 1858, when it appeared fortnightly; double columns, alternately English and Maori. It contains much important historical matter, native speeches, conferences with Europeans, Kohimarama Conference, &c. Mr. C. O. Davis was the first and principal editor, then Mr. D. Burn; Mr. Walter Buller also edited for some time.

1863. Vol. iii. Printer: W. C. Wilson, except No. 7, which was printed by W. Atkin. No. 1; Feb. 12; pp. 14. No. 2; Mar. 30; pp. 24. No. 3; April 20; pp. 16. No. 4; May 15; pp. 16. No. 5; June 1; pp. 16. No. 6; July 18; pp. 32. No. 7; Aug. 30; pp. 8. No. 8; Sept. 28; pp. 15. No. 8 is misnumbered No. 7.

With the January number of 1856 the type presented to the Maoris by the Emperor of Austria is used. It is easily recognised by its peculiarities, for instance the horned C's = G. At the demise of the Karere Maori this type found its way to Tauranga, and appears in the early numbers of the local paper. The Emperor's gift was intended as a small return for the attention paid by the natives to the officers of the "Novara" expedition.

New Plymouth: New Zealand. | Letters from Settlers, May, 1841. W. Byers, Printer, Fore St., Devonport.

Sm. Svo. Pp. 14. Double columns.
Eleven letters, descriptive, from well-known first arrivals.

Reprinted in 1843 by Johnston and Barrett, 13, Mark Lane, with three additional articles relating to finance.

New Zealand Herald | and | Auckland Gazette. | No. 1. Vol. I. Auckland, Saturday, July 10, 1841. [Price One Shilling.]

Demy fol. Pp. 4.

The first Auckland newspaper, being the third one of New Zealand. Its career was stormy, and closed on the 2nd April, 1842, No. 65. Its editors were successively Messrs. Terry and Corbett and Dr. Martin, two of whom are New Zealand authors. The circulation was 250 copies. The Auckland Standard succeeded it on the 9th April (?), but was extinguished, after four months' struggle, on the 28th August.

Petition for the recall of Governor Hobson.

Martin's Colonial Magazine, vi, 110; also, New Zealand Gazette, 6th, 13th, and 20th February, and New Zealand Journal, 21st August.

From the Port Nicholson settlers, who accuse him of indifference to their interests, and of crimping labourers from them.

Petre, Hon. H. W. An Account of | the Settlements | of the | New Zealand Company, | from Personal Observation during | a Residence there. | By | The Hon. Henry William Petre. | London: | Smith, Elder, and Co., 65, Cornhill. | 1841.

8vo. Pp. 87. Price 3s. 2 steel engravings: 1. Part of Lambton Harbour, Port Nicholson (drawn by Ch. Heaphy); 2. Part of New Plymouth Settlement. Map of New Zealand, from official documents, with arms or emblem of the New Zealand Company. (Vide New Zealand Journal October, 1841.)

5th ed., 1842. Pp. 94. A reprint, but “displayed” into 5 chapters, and with a page of contents. There was also a cheap reprint, with woodcuts only, and without map; price 1s. (Vide New Zealand Journal, 1842.)

Written by Mr. H. S. (afterwards Judge) Chapman from Mr. Petre’s information. Arrival of first settlers; the Hutt abandoned for Port Nicholson; difficulties, progress, prospects, soil, and productions.

Mr. Petre was son of Lord Petre, a director of the New Zealand Company. Arrived at Port Nicholson in the “Oriental,” February, 1840, as one of the “first party,” returning to England in 1841. Afterwards a New Zealand settler for many years. Died in England.

The | Auckland Times. | “Veluti in Speculum.” | As Conscience true, the glass no favour shows. | No. 1—Vol. 1. Monday, August 29, 1842. Price 1s.

Demy fol. 4 columns. Pp. 4. Issued weekly. Owned and edited by Mr. Henry Falwasser.

After the 9th number it was suppressed by the Government, but the resourceful editor collected varied specimens of type, and, with the aid of a mangle, published about thirty successive issues of what must ever remain amongst the curiosities of newspaper literature—coarse paper and printing, mixed type, and literary style in keeping. The motto was changed to “Tempora mutantur,—Nos non mutamur in illis.” The last of these productions was No. 42, 13th April, 1843. Afterwards, on the 7th November, the paper reappeared in legitimate form, and continued until the 17th January, 1846, being its 159th number. Mr. Falwasser died a few days later.

The | Australian | and | New Zealand | Monthly Magazine. | Edited by Henry Capper. | “The world is my country,” &c. | London: | Published by Smith, Elder, and Co., 65, Cornhill. | 1842.

8vo. Pp. 392 [Vol. i].

Many references to New Zealand, chiefly derived from newspapers, criticisms on publications, shipping news.

The Bay of Islands Observer. | Published every Thursday morning. Price One Shilling. | No. 1. Kororareka, New Zealand, Thursday, February 24, 1842. Vol. 1.

The editor was the Rev. B. Quaife, who had previously edited the New Zealand Advertiser and Bay of Islands Gazette, and who for the second time failed in his encounter with the Government. The last number was the 35th, on the 20th October. Much old history and disclosure of abuses. Circulation of 150 subscribers.

Auswanderungen und Colonisation. | Mit besonderem Hinblick | auf die von der | Deutschen Colonisations-Gesellschaft | beabsichtigte | Begründung ihrer ersten Colonie | auf den | Chatham-Inseln, | nebst | der neuesten Charte derselben und Ansicht der Waitangui-Bay, | mit einem Anhang, | enthaltend | die Entwicklung des Wakefieldschen Systems, | die Bilancen der Neuseeland-Compagnie | und | ein Schema der nöthigen Diäten für Auswanderer, | von | John Nic^s Beit. | Hamburg, | bei Perthes-Besser und Mauke. | 1842.

8vo. Pp. vi, 63. Folded plate, "Ansicht der Waitangui-Bay auf der Chatham-Inseln."

Addressed to the German Colonisation Company. Brief account of various colonies; New Zealand is the best, but has been already selected. Chatham Island is most suitable, of which a florid account is given, derived partly from books, but chiefly from imagination. Regulations for settlement suggested; spirits, tobacco, and cards to have prohibitive duty. Approves of the Wakefield system, an account of which is extracted from the Colonial Gazette of the 1st December, 1841.

Mr. Beit was the German Colonisation Company's agent, and in 1843 brought out to Nelson in the "St. Pauli," under arrangement with the New Zealand Company, a band of emigrants (New Zealand Journal, No. 75); amongst them were the missionaries Wöhlens and Riemenschneider.

8vo. Pp. 34.

Short history and extracts relative to New Zealand flax. In 1819 ropes were made at Portsmouth Dockyard. A company with £20,000 would probably be required to develop this splendid industry. Tables appended of quantity and price of flax, tow, and hemp imported into Great Britain from 1831 to 1840.

Mr. (Sir F. D.) Bell was at this time secretary pro tem. of the New Zealand Company; Mr. (Sir F.) Young, now 90 years of age, has always been associated with New Zealand and with Imperial federation.

Several references to his own and Bishop Selwyn's departure for New Zealand. Mr. Cotton accompanied the Bishop as domestic chaplain.

Fisher's] Colonial Magazine.

Vol. i: August to December, 1842. 8vo. Pp. 648.

An evident continuation of R. M. Martin's Colonial Magazine, its title-page being the same, though without Mr. Martin's name. Fisher's name as proprietor of the magazine does not appear on the title-page until Vol. ii, January to April, 1843, although it heads each number. With January, 1844, Vol. i of a new series commenced, which was continued until 1846. Many important articles on New Zealand appear under the signature of "W.," representing Edward Wakefield, the father of the celebrated Edward Gibbon Wakefield.

Mr. (Sir William) Fox, an English barrister, emigrated to the settlement of Nelson in 1842; became the New Zealand Company's principal agent in 1848, upon the death of Colonel Wakefield, and held other important political positions. He died at Auckland in 1893, æt. 81.

Hamlin, J. On the Mythology of the New Zealanders. By James Hamlin, Missionary, Orooa, New Zealand.

Article in Tasm. Journ. Nat. Science, Vol. i, 254 and 342. Cosmogony; arrival of canoes; epidemic of rewharewha (influenza); earliest wars, from about 1750 to those of Hongi; migrations; number of inhabitants; &c.

Came to New Zealand in 1826 as a missionary settler, and died at Auckland in 1865. He was an excellent Maori scholar, and assisted in translating the Scriptures.

Hanson, R. D. Extracts | from a | Letter to Governor Hobson, | from | R. Davies Hanson, Esq. | Crown Prosecutor in New Zealand. | 1842. | (Private.)

8vo. Pp. 8. Dated Wellington, 29th April, 1842.

Details some of the unfair methods to which Colonel Wakefield resorts in his land troubles with the natives; he seeks to involve the Government in them.

Heale, Capt. T. New Zealand | and the | New Zealand Company: | being | a Consideration of how far their Interests | are similar. | In answer to a Pamphlet | entitled | How to Colonize: | the Interest of the Country, and the Duty of | Government. | By | Theophilus Heale, Esq. | London: | Sherwood, Gilbert, and Piper, 23 Paternoster Row. | 1842.

8vo. Pp. 63. Preface.

An accomplished reply. Approves of the Wakefield system and generally of the New Zealand Company's scheme, but points out its defects. The preface gives a little inner history. Considers Auckland superior to Port Nicholson for settlement. (Vide New Zealand Journal, 8th January and 5th February, 1842.)

Capt. Heale was an able mathematician. In January, 1840, he brought out the first emigrant-ship to Port Nicholson, the "Aurora," which was afterwards wrecked on the Kaipara bar when loading spars. He was interested in the Manukau Land Company, q.v. An old colonist, and latterly Chief Surveyor of Southland. Died at Orpington, Kent, 19th May, 1885.

Svo. Pp. viii, 55. Appendix.

A heavy pamphlet. The writer was a shareholder and director of the New Zealand Company, and thus interested; advocates its principles and procedure, contending that the Government should give it every assistance, and not compete with its methods as a rival.

Appendix gives list of vessels (152) which arrived at Port Nicholson from the formation of the settlement there to the 10th April, 1841. (Vide New Zealand Journal, 8th January and 5th February, 1842.)

8vo. Pp. xv, 186. Dedicated to H.E. Capt. Hobson. 20 chapters. List of testimonials and of subscribers. Issued in monthly parts in blue-paper wrappers at 2s. each.

2nd ed., 1862. Published by W. C. Wilson, Shortland Street. Pp. xvi, 168. Principal alteration "is the omission of many passages exhibiting extreme niceties of the language."

3rd ed., 1882. P. 8vo. Pp. xvi, 162. Published by George Robertson, Melbourne and Sydney.

This critical and learned grammar abounds in valuable notes and examples, and is modelled on that of Lindley Murray. The writer, however, invests it with all the moods and tenses of a classical tongue. Of the seven dialects—table and examples of which are given—the Ngapuhi and Waikato are here used.

The Rev. Robert Maunsell (Archdeacon of Waikato) arrived in New Zealand in 1835. An able Maori scholar. He and the Rev. W. Williams chiefly translated the Scriptures. Died at Auckland, 19th April, 1894, æt. 84.

The editor, Mr. (afterward Sir) Richard Davies Hanson, opposed the policy of the New Zealand Gazette as upholding the New Zealand Company's attitude against the colonists. Ably and temperately written, and full of early history. Bad times and a disastrous fire terminated the paper's existence on the 1st August, 1843 (No. 105). Mr. Hanson, who had been Crown Prosecutor, then left for Adelaide, where he became Chief Justice and Chancellor of the University.

Appendix.

Part i: History of colony. Part ii: Land claims. Part iii: Sale of Crown lands. Part iv: Aborigines. Part v: Prospects. Appendix contains Proclamations, treaty, charter, sailing directions, Customs duties, Bill for survey and sale of lands, &c.

Most valuable from its minute and copious historical and statistical information. Rutherford's story in "The New Zealanders" is mostly fabulous, p. 198. The author spent more than a year in 1840-41 in Auckland and its districts, engaged in flax-cultivation.

Mr. Terry contributed an essay "On the Financial Condition of New Zealand" to Mr. H. S. Chapman's "New Zealand Portfolio," pp. 73-96, severely criticizing the colonial estimates.

Dieffenbach, Dr. E. Travels | in | New Zealand ; | with contributions to the | Geography, Geology, Botany, and Natural | History of that Country. | By Ernest Dieffenbach, M.D., | Late Naturalist to the New Zealand Company. | In two volumes. | — | London : | John Murray, Albemarle Street. | 1843.

8vo. Vol. i: pp. viii, 431. Vol. ii: pp. iv, 396. 7 illustrations—Lake Taupo, White Terrace, Mount Egmont, Ruapehu, Te Waro and group of natives, kiwi, and Balæna.

Describes the author's journeyings from his arrival at Queen Charlotte's Sound in the "Tory," in August, 1839, to 1841: Cloudy Bay, Port Nicholson, Taranaki; from the North Cape to the Bay of Islands, Hokianga, Kaitaia, Wangaroa, Kaipara, and the Thames. With Capt. W. C. Symonds, he traversed the Manukau, Waikato, Hot Springs, Taupo, and Tauranga districts. The whole is interspersed with natural-history notes, and references to colonisation, missions, land-purchases, &c. Was the first European to ascend Mount Egmont. He also explored the Chatham Islands in the "Cuba," of which a full account is in the New Zealand Journal for 1841, pp. 125 and 158. Mr. Beit's proposition to found there a German colony is in the New Zealand Journal, 1842, p. 37. (Vide Journal of Agriculture, 1845; Edin.)

The 29th chapter treats of the botany of New Zealand—historical, descriptive, and relative. The 2nd vol. is chiefly devoted to a full account of the natives—race, customs, traditions, tribes, priests, warfare, mission labour, with a table of lands claimed by the missionaries. A philological chapter is followed by a good grammar and dictionary, and specimens of the language. Dr. Gray, of the British Museum, in 120 pages gives account of the fauna, with full references to authors.

Dieffenbach was the son of a Lutheran clergyman and cousin of the celebrated surgeon. Involved in some political movement, he fled to England and was there appointed surgeon and naturalist to the New Zealand Company.

[Domett, Alfred.] Narrative of the Wairau Massacre, and Proceedings connected therewith.

Issued in a special supplement to the Nelson Examiner and New Zealand Chronicle, No. 94, 23rd December, 1843.

Written by Mr. Alfred Domett, the editor. A plan of the scene is prefixed. By far the best and fullest account, and occupying 12 closely printed demy-folio pages of 4 columns each, and divided under 13 heads, with numerous footnotes.

This narrative, considerably curtailed, is in the New Zealand Company's 14th report, July, 1844, pp. 131–97; also, in a "Letter to the Earl of Devon," &c., q.v.; in Appendix H of the 12th report; in House of Commons Report (parliamentary paper), 1844; and in supplement to the New Zealand Gazette and Wellington Spectator, 2nd September, 1843.

The | First Annual Report | of the | Agricultural and Horticultural Society
| of Auckland. | Auckland: | Printed at the office of the "Southern

2nd report, 24th September, 1844. Wheat, 5s. a bushel; potatoes, £3 a ton. 1,200 acres under cultivation. Estimates of outlay for purchasing and farming 100 acres.

The Foreign and Colonial Quarterly Review.

First number appeared January, 1843; the last, probably, October, 1845.

Has numerous notices of the various New Zealand settlements, and an elaborate historical survey of the country in a number for 1844, which is reprinted in the New Zealand Journal, v and vi. (Vide "New Zealand," 1844.)

Jennings, John. New Zealand Colonization; | Details of the System of | the New Zealand Company, | and of the Proceedings of | the Local Government; | with Objections stated, and Remedies proposed | in a Plan for | the next Settlement; | suggested with the View of preserving all the Advantages of | Colonization to the Colonists themselves. | By | John Jennings, | New Zealand Agent. | London: | Pelham Richardson, Cornhill. | 1843.

Svo. Pp. 60.

Concise history of Government measures and the Company's operations in New Zealand. Able criticism of the latter's weak points: absenteeism is unfair to colonists, as is also the bait of a town section to induce purchase of rural lands; order of choice by lottery is gambling, and unworthy. Proposes that colonists with capital should associate and conduct the business of colonisation. Full of common-sense. (Vide New Zealand Journal, 4th February, 1843.)

Sent a collection of fruits and vines about 1815 to the Church mission at the Bay of Islands. Considers the climate very favourable for the growth of tobacco, as well as of grapes.

Arrived at Sydney in 1800 as a "collector of plants." After an eventful career, died in 1859, æt. 83. A well-known New South Wales colonist.

The Wellington Almanack | for | 1843, | calculated for the Meridian of Wellington; | First Year of Publication. | Wellington: | Printed and published by Samuel Revans, New Zealand Gazette and Wellington Spectator | Office, Manners Street.

12mo. Pp. 16.

The first almanack published in Wellington, followed by various others—the Cook's Strait Almanack (first, 1846), Southern Province Almanack (first, 1849), Royal New Zealand Almanack, &c. (first, 1857). These are mines of information of all kinds—lists of societies, directories, harbours from earliest surveys, naval and military establishment, government, itineraries, and notabilia of New Zealand events. The first New Zealand almanack was issued in Auckland on a large sheet, 30 in. x 23 in.—Moody's Royal Almanack for the Year 1842; it contains a directory, official and general, and a variety of information. Moody was an accountant and general agent.

8vo. Pp. 66.

Vigorous and bitter indictment of the New Zealand Company and its treatment of the settlers. Much curious information and history. The author returned to India. (Vide Colonial Gazette and New Zealand Journal.)

Yate, Rev. W. A Letter | to | the Committee | of the | Church Missionary Society. | To which is added | a Statement, | by the Reverend William Yate. | Printed for the author, | by John Sydenham, Poole & Bournemouth. | 1843.

8vo. Pp. 50. Dated September, 1843.

Returning to New Zealand in 1836, via Sydney, the writer was there dismissed from the mission. After his return to England he wrote this denial and defence regarding the charges brought against him, and it contains much side-history. Despite its force and asseverations, he was guilty. Eventually he became chaplain to the Sailors' Home at Dover.

Svo. Pp. 95.

A most captivating account of this observant writer's exploration, extending from November, 1841, to February, 1842, from the Bay of Islands to Hicks Bay by sea, thence overland to Poverty Bay, inland to Waikaremoana, Rotorua, Tauranga, Matamata, the Waikato, to Manukau, Kaipara, Whangarei, and so home. Abounds in interest of all kinds, especially native and botanical. A portion is incorporated in his two New Zealand Exhibition essays, 1869—"The Native Races" and "The Botany of the North Island"—but the whole is well worthy of annotated republication. (Vide also Hooker's Lond. Journ. Bot., iii, 1–62.)

New Zealand.

Colonial Quarterly Review, 1844. Also in New Zealand Journal, 7th December, 1844 ; 4th and 18th January, 1845.

A lengthy narrative, with copious notes and references, from the discovery by Cook to the Governorship of Capt. Hobson.

Parliamentary Papers | relating to | the Colony of New Zealand. (1844.)

8vo. Pp. 108.

Consists wholly of extracts from the blue-books, presented thus in an accessible shape to the public, but evidently by some one opposed to the New Zealand Company. Arranged under four heads : 1. System of colonisation ; 2. Agreement between Lord John Russell and the New Zealand Company ; 3. Interpretation of agreement by principal agent of the New Zealand Company ; 4. Mr. Spain and his report.

Report | from the | Select Committee | on | New Zealand ; | together with the | Minutes of Evidence, | Appendix and Index. | Ordered, by the House of Commons, to be Printed, | 29 July 1844.

Fol. Pp. xxxii, 256 ; appendix, pp. 826. Large folding map of New Zealand, by John Arrowsmith, with inset of world on Mercator's projection. Parliamentary paper 556.

Due to embarrassments and impending suspension of the New Zealand Company (vide their 11th and 12th reports), this Committee was appointed on petition "to inquire into the state of the Colony of New Zealand, and the proceedings of the New Zealand Company." It reported, on the whole, favourably to that body. Its members were fifteen in number, and Lord Howick was chairman. The chief witnesses were Lieut. McDonnell, Messrs. Brodie, Earp, F. A. Carrington, J. C. Crawford, C. H. Kettle, Molesworth, Capt. Heale, and Lieut. Wood. Information most valuable and varied—the natives, missionaries, land claims, language, minerals, flax and other productions, Manukau Company, colonisation, French claims, the Wairau massacre, and the Treaty of Waitangi. Appendix reprints the New Zealand Company's "Appendix to the 12th Report" ("Fat Book"), correspondence with the Company, land claims and list of claimants, Wairau massacre, and letters and despatches containing a perfect mass of history.

Richardson, Dr. J., and Gray, Dr. J. E. The Zoology of the Erebus and Terror. London: 1844-75.

4to. 2 vols., with plates. Vol. i contains mammals and birds; Vol. ii, reptiles, fishes, crustacea, insects, and mollusca.

The publication of the zoology of this voyage was discontinued in 1845, but afterwards resumed, and contains not only the original matter, but additions from Buller's "Birds of New Zealand," the "Transactions of the New Zealand Institute," and other sources. The fishes are described by Dr. Richardson; the reptiles by Dr. Gray; and the New Zealand insects, in a long list, by Messrs. White and Butler.

S., W. H. A brief survey of the northern districts of New Zealand.

Simmonds's Colonial Magazine, May, pp. 28-43, and map.

Valuable description of places and settlers north from Kaipara, including Waimate, the Bay of Islands, Hokianga, and Wangaroa, with a considerable notice of the timber and other productions.

Simmonds, P. L. Simmonds's | Colonial Magazine | and | Foreign Miscellany. | Edited by | P. L. Simmonds, Esq. | Hon. and Cor. Member of the Statistical and Geographical Societies of | Paris; the Lit. and Histor. Society of Quebec; &c. | January-April, 1844. | Vol. I. | — | London: | Foreign and Colonial Office, 18, Cornhill.

8vo. Pp. xi, 506. Occasional illustrations.

Published monthly, four months' issue forming a volume. Continued until 1849, when 16 vols. had been issued. Occasional valuable articles on New Zealand affairs and prospects, whaling, the Colonial Office and the Company, and colonial intelligence.

Stokes, R. A | Letter | to | The Right Hon. The Earl of Devon, | on the late | Massacre at Wairau. | "Exoriare aliquis" . . . | London: | Longman, Brown, Green, and Longmans, | Paternoster-Row. | 1844.

8vo. Pp. 96. Dated Wellington, 30th October, 1843.

An appeal, on behalf of the settlers, for justice and retribution. Gives an account of the massacre, and the depositions of witnesses. Written by Robert Stokes at the request of a meeting of colonists.

Mr. Stokes, formerly on the survey staff, was editor of the New Zealand Spectator and Cook's Straits Guardian. Lord Devon was president of the New Zealand Society.

Tuckett, Frederick. Diary of Mr. Tuckett.

8vo. Pp. 23 to 55.

Forms part of: Documents | relating to the | Purchase of the Otago District | for the site of the | Scotch Settlement in New Zealand—17th report of the New Zealand Company. The diary is, however, of such rarity that the writer has seen but one copy of it. It extends from 28th March to 1st June, 1844, whilst Tuckett, under direction of the New Zealand Company, was exploring for a suitable site from Nelson to the Bluff. Much of the journey was on foot, from Port Cooper to Otago Harbour, and thence to the Bluff and Ruapuke; with valuable descriptive matter throughout. It is reprinted in Hocken's "Contributions to Early New Zealand History," Appendix A, 1898, q.v.

Williams, Rev. W. (first Bishop of Waiapu). A | Dictionary | of the | New-Zealand Language, | and | a concise Grammar; | to which are added | a Selection of colloquial Sentences. | By | William Williams, B.A., | Archdeacon of Waiapu. | Paihia: | Printed at the Press of the C.M. Society. | MDCCCXLIV.

8vo. Pp. xli, 195.

The grammar is short, and suited to beginners. The dictionary contains about 5,500 words.

2nd ed., 1852. Pp. xxxix, 323. London: Williams and Norgate. Contains an English-New Zealand part, and many additional words.

3rd ed., 1871. Cr. 8vo. Pp. xv, 267. "With numerous additions and corrections and an introduction by the Ven. W. L. Williams, B.A., Archdeacon of Waiapu" (son of Bishop W. Williams). The grammar is omitted. A new arrangement of those words, and their derivatives, which have the prefix "whaka." 1,200 new words added.

4th ed., 1892. Pp. xv, 325. Auckland: Upton and Co. London: Williams and Norgate. Many additional words.

The author came to New Zealand in 1826, joining his brother Henry (afterwards the well-known Archdeacon). He translated the New Testament into Maori. Died at Napier in February, 1878, æt. 78.

The 5th ed. is now (1908) in progress, and will contain many thousand additional words and examples by the Rev. H. W. Williams, of Gisborne, a grandson of the original author.

[Woolls, Rev. Dr.] A | short Account | of the | Character and Labours | of | the Rev. Samuel Marsden, | formerly Principal Chaplain of the Church of | England, in New South Wales; | written for the express Purpose | of | raising Funds towards the Erection | of a Church | in the | Parish of Marsfield, | Parramatta. | Printed and published by B. Isaacs, George-Street, | Parramatta. | 1844.

Sm. 8vo. Pp. iv, 84. Price 3s.

Sketch of Mr. Marsden's labours in aid of the South Sea missions, and of his seven visits to New Zealand. The work was printed on the very press which Mr. Marsden introduced into New Zealand in 1830 under the Rev. William Yate, and which was afterwards sold by the Church Mission to Mr. Isaacs, of Parramatta.

The Rev. William Woolls, Ph.D., F.L.S., was a schoolmaster at Parramatta, and a good botanist. Died, 1883, æt. 79.

Brodie, W. Remarks | on | the past and present State | of | New Zealand, | its Government, Capabilities, and Prospects; | with | a Statement of the Question of the Land-claims, | and Remarks on | the New Zealand Land Company; | also, | a Description (never before published) of its | indigenous Exports, | and | Hints on Emigration, | the Result of Five Years' Residence in the Colony. | By Walter Brodie. | London: | Whittaker and Co., Ave Maria Lane. | 1845.

8vo. Pp. viii, 171. Postscript and appendices (two). Dedicated to Lord Stanley, Secretary for Colonies. Dated Eastbourne, 1st January. 1845.

Value of exports from New Zealand to New South Wales in 1838. £140,000; of land and buildings at Kororarika, £25,000. The Treaty of Waitangi is absurd and mischievous. Gives an account of Government land-jobbing and general blundering; the Chatham job; best policy to natives, and non-settlement of land claims. Flax, bark for tanning, and dyes; native mode of using the latter. The hot lakes. Commencement of Heke's war. Traditions as to Maui, and origin of the land. Account of Mr. Puckey's (catechist) visit to Te Reinga. (See New Zealand Journal, 29th March, 1845.)

Brown, Archd. A. N. Brief Memorials | of | an only Son, | in | a Letter to his surviving Sister. | "And hast borne" . . . | [Not published.] Printed at St. John's College Press. | (1845.)

Sm. 8vo. Pp. 70.

Pious memories of Alfred Marsh Brown, son of Archdeacon Brown, of Tauranga. Honi Heke's visit to him, and incidents at the destruction of Kororareka. There is also a translation into Maori. A "Marsh Scholarship" was founded at St. John's College, Auckland, in his memory.

Archdeacon Brown arrived in New Zealand in 1831; died, 1884. A notice of him is in the Missionary Intelligencer, 1844, p. 761.

Brown, W. New Zealand | and | its Aborigines: | being an Account of | the Aborigines, Trade, and Resources | of the Colony; | and the Advantages it now presents as a Field for | Emigration and the Investment of Capital. | By | William Brown, | lately a Member of the Legislative Council of New Zealand. | London: | Smith, Elder, and Co., 65, Cornhill. | 1845.

8vo. Pp. viii, 320. Appendices (four). Postscript.

Champions the native cause. The Treaty of Waitangi is unjust. The Hobson-Shortland rule has blighted both settlers and natives. Wakefield theory is full of fallacy. Practical illustrations of farming and rearing stock in New Zealand, and table of barter in use amongst the Thames natives. Appendix contains Rev. Henry Hanson Turton's three able and notable letters to Bishop Selwyn, dated April, 1844, in which he accuses the Bishop of exciting division and strife amongst the natives with respect to the Wesleyan and Anglican Churches; also, land and property regulations, and Native Trust Bill. Postscript: Progress of the country depends on free trade and representative—not municipal—government.

Mr. Brown arrived in New Zealand in January, 1840. Was a member of the mercantile firm of Brown and Campbell, and a proprietor of the Southern Cross. He returned to England.

2nd ed. (an exact reissue), 1851; published by J. and D. A. Darling, 126, Bishopsgate Street.

[Churton, Henry.] Letters | from | Wanganui, | New Zealand. | "I much wish" . . . —Extract from a letter to the Publisher. | London: | E. Churton, 26, Holles Street. | 1845.

8vo. Pp. 42. Nine letters.

Six were written in 1844 by Mr. Henry Churton, who settled at Wanganui in 1841 and there died in 1885, and one by E. J. Wakefield. Capital account of sufferings and losses, land claims, troubles with natives, natural history, &c. In September, 1843, there were in New Zealand 299 horses, 3,095 cattle, and 10,000 sheep; in Wanganui, 192 of a white population.

Much opposed to the missionaries and the Maoris. The writer was brother of the Rev. J. F. Churton, of Auckland.

Coates, D. (C.M.S.). The New Zealand Company and the | New Zealand Missionaries. | — | Two Letters | to | Sir Robert Harry Inglis, Bart., M.P., | in reference to | the New Zealand Company and the New | Zealand Missionaries. | By Dandeson Coates, Esq., | Lay Secretary of the Church Missionary Society. | London : | 1845.

Svo. Pp. 36. Dated 22nd March and 21st April, 1845.

Bitterly reviews the origin and progress of the New Zealand Company, which seeks to coerce the Government and to annex native lands. Doubts the bona fides of the recent petition to Parliament, and defends the small purchases of land by the missionaries.

Colenso, W. A | Classification and Description | of some | Newly-Discovered Ferns, | collected in | the Northern Island | of | New Zealand, | in the Summer of 1841-2 | By William Colenso, Esq. | Launceston, V.D. Land : | Printed at the office of the Launceston Examiner. | 1845.

Svo. Pp. 29. Dated Pailia, 3rd January, 1843.

Describes 33 new species, 6 of which had already been described in the "Tasmanian Journal," Vol. i, q.v. Total number of New Zealand ferns now known numbers about 140 species.

A Corrected | Report of the Debate | in the | House of Commons, | on the 17th, 18th, and 19th of June, | on the | State of New Zealand | and the | Case of the New Zealand Company. | London : | John Murray, Albemarle Street. | 1845.

Svo. Pp. 287. Appendix.

In accordance with a resolution contained in the New Zealand Company's 18th report, 29th May, 1845, Mr. Charles Buller, M.P. for Liskeard, opened this debate in an eloquent speech, and moved, "That this House resolve itself into a Committee to consider the state of the Colony of New Zealand, and the case of the New Zealand Company." The motion was lost by 233 against 172. Monckton Milnes, G. W. Hope, Capt. Rous, Aglionby, Barkly, Sir R. Inglis, Hawes, Sir H. Douglas, Lord Howick, Ellice, Cardwell, Mangles, Colquhoun, Lalor Shiel, Sir J. Graham, Lord John Russell, and Sir R. Peel also spoke. Appendix: 1. Petition of New Zealand Company, 16th April, 1845; 2. Petition of New Zealand colonists, 7th July, 1845; 3. Resolutions of House of Commons Select Committee, 29th July, 1844; 4. Division-list. (Vide New Zealand Journal and Colonial Gazette, 21st June, 1845; also Times, Morning Chronicle, and Spectator, for further reports and opinions on this important debate.)

Correspondence between Her Majesty's Secretary of State for the Colonies and the New Zealand Company, relative to the establishment of a Proprietary Government in the the Islands of New Zealand.

Parliamentary papers, 357. Printed 6th June, 1845. Map.

A proposition by the Company to Lord Stanley to leave the northern portion of the North Island to the influence of the missionaries, who had always opposed colonisation, and to place the remaining part of New Zealand under a proprietary company and Government, after the manner set forth in the Pennsylvania and Maryland charters and in Lord Glenelg's proposal of 1838. This was refused. The details and interesting correspondence are found in the New Zealand Company's 18th report, May, 1845, and in the New Zealand Journal of the 7th June.

Dieffenbach, Dr. E. On the Geology of New Zealand.

Proc. Brit. Ass. Abstract in report, ii, 50.

Documents relating to the Purchase of the Otago District for the Site of the Scotch Settlement in New Zealand.

Svo. Pp. 55. Printed by Stewart and Murray, Old Bailey. (1845.)

Reprinted from the 17th report of the New Zealand Company, but with the addition of the excessively rare "Diary of Mr. Tuckett," which is almost invariably omitted. Mr. Tuckett, who was the Company's chief surveyor, selected the Otago site, and the diary gives an account of his exploration from Nelson to the Molyneux, March to June, 1844. He was a native of Bristol, a Quaker, and member of the Aborigines Protection Society. Died at London in April, 1876, æt. 69.

Papers and correspondence re foundation of Otago Settlement are found in the New Zealand Company's reports (Nos. 13, 17, 19, and 22), New Zealand Journal, and parliamentary papers; also in Dr. Hocken's "Contributions to the Early History of New Zealand (Otago Settlement)," 1898, which contains reprint of Tuckett's rare journal, as well as that of Dr. Monro.

In the Nelson Examiner from 20th July to 5th October, 1844, are "Notes of a Journey through a part of the Middle Island of New Zealand," by Dr. (Sir David) Monro, who accompanied Mr. Tuckett. These are highly valuable, and are reprinted in the New Zealand Journal, 1845.

[Domett, Alfred.] Petition to Parliament | from the | Inhabitants of the Southern Settlements of New Zealand. | Supplement to the Nelson Examiner and New Zealand Chronicle, Nelson, New Zealand, November, 1, 1845. One shilling.

Fol. Pp. 34.

Also appears in the correspondence (No. 10) appended to the New Zealand Company's 20th report, May, 1846, pp. 107-99. It was reprinted with a title-page: Petition to Parliament | for the recall of Governor Fitzroy; | together with a narrative | of the Wairau Massacre. | By | Alfred Domett. | Published by the New Zealand Company. | London. Svo. Pp. 107-99.

Describes the ruinous state of the colony, caused by the policy and proceedings of the local Government, and concludes by a prayer for Governor Fitzroy's recall. Full of notes and references. Barely had the petition been printed before news arrived of Governor Fitzroy's replacement by Capt. Grey.

Martin, Dr. S. McD. New Zealand; | in a Series of Letters: | containing | an Account of the Country, | both before and since its occupation by the British Government; | with | Historical Remarks | on the | Conduct of the Government, the New Zealand | and the Manakau Companies; | also | a Description of the various Settlements, | the Character of the Aborigines, | and the Natural Productions of the Country. | By | S. M. D. Martin, M.D. | Lately a Member of the Legislative Council of New Zealand. | London: | Simmonds & Ward, 18, Cornhill. | 1845.

Svo. Pp. xii, 379. Appendices.

These sixteen letters and "Concluding Remarks," from Sydney, Bay of Islands, and Auckland, contain a mine of valuable history for the period 1839-44, written with trenchant, even libellous, force. Excellent account of de Thierry, Hobson, Shortland, Fitzroy (whose difficulties are stated and policy defended), Spain, Clarke, Rauparaha, Heke, Selwyn ("who was sincere, zealous, and intolerant"); also of early Kororareka, the Thames, Port Nicholson at the arrival of the settlers, land troubles (with much reference to Governor Gipps's attitude and speech), society and institutions of early Auckland, critical description of natives, &c. Appendix contains official and exact translations of the Treaty of Waitangi; protest of land-claimants against Sir George Gipps's Land Act; Land Ordinance; address to Governor Fitzroy; &c.

On the 22nd July, 1845, Dr. Martin and Mr. W. Brown presented a petition to the House of Commons to inquire into the grievous wrongs of the natives at the hands of the settlers, and especially of the New Zealand Company. (Vide New Zealand Journal, 16th August, 1845.)

The same work appears in stiff paper back, with altered title-page, no date, published by John and Daniel Darling, Bishopsgate Street, and "By D. Martin, Esq., M.D."

Dr. Samuel McDonald Martin was editor of the first Auckland newspaper—the New Zealand Herald and Auckland Gazette—in which he boldly denounced the Government mismanagement. Though passionately fond of New Zealand, he felt compelled to leave it. He was a Stipendiary Magistrate at Berbice, British Guiana, and died there on the 22nd September, 1848. Born at Kilmuir, Isle of Skye.

Montague, Camille. Voyage au Pôle Sud. Bot. Crypt. Paris, 1845.

Description of the cryptogamia of the Auckland and Campbell Islands, visited by Admiral d'Urville in his "Voyage au Pôle Sud et dans L'Océanie," 1837-40.

The | New Zealand | Church Almanac, | for the Year of Our Lord, | 1845.
Published under the direction | of the Visitor and Tutors of St. John's College. | Bishop's Auckland : | Printed at the College Press. | 1845.

12mo. Pp. 45 (n.p.).

First year of publication. Contains a list of members of the Government an itinerary of New Zealand from Auckland to Stewart Island, by Bishop Selwyn, measured by Payne's pedometer, and amounting to 1,051 miles; together with complete ecclesiastical information. With after yearly issues the almanac varied in size to 8vo, was paginated, and was always full of historical matter. 1846-47 has St. John's calendar, with full and quaint details of its college, school, hospital, and industrial system; list of the vegetable food-productions of New Zealand. 1851 contains list of St. John's associates; beginning of the Melanesian mission, with voyage; pastoral letter; Auckland Corporation. 1853, list of ordinations from 1843, Melanesian mission, and 5th voyage. 1856, draft of a constitution for the Church, with signatures, dating 1852; pastoral letter; circular to clergy re Marriage Act. 1859, the Melanesian mission. 1860 (pp. 82, and appendices), recites the various trusts. 1869 (pp. 88; app., 40), seems to be the last. All full of special information.

The New Zealand Company: | its Claim | to Compensation considered.
| London: | Seeley, Burnside, and Seeley, Fleet Street; | Richardson, Cornhill; and Dalton, Cockspur Street. | MDCCCXLV.

8vo. Pp. 71. Appendix.

Severe criticism of the Company, which was formed as a speculation. It has been mismanaged, has not kept faith with its customers, and is entitled to no consideration from the public or compensation from the Government. The appendix gives a copy of the purchase deed of land from the natives, and a copy of the New Zealand Company's land order.

The New Zealander. | No. 1. Auckland, Saturday, June 7, 1845. Vol. 1.

Demy fol. 4 columns. Pp. 4.

Issued weekly until June, 1847; then twice weekly; daily from January, 1863; closed publication in 1866; and had the distinction of being, from April, 1863, the first morning penny paper in New Zealand. It belonged to the well-known printing firm of Williamson and Wilson, and amongst its editors and contributors were Drs. Bennett and Giles, Messrs. Gorst (Sir John), Forsaith, and others of public note.

The | Petition | of the | New Zealand Company, | presented to | the House of Commons, | by | Joseph Somes, Esq., M.P., | the Governor of the Company,
| 16th April, 1845. | London: | Printed by Stewart and Murray, Old Bailey.
| 1845.

8vo. Pp. vi, 40.

Presented in accordance with the suggestion of 17th report. The Company's operations and progress have always been thwarted, to the great detriment and danger of distant colonists. It prays for justice, protection, and assistance in the great work of colonisation.

Appended is also a petition from the merchants, bankers, and traders of the City of London, presented by John Masterman, Esq., M.P., 18th March, 1845, praying that the colonists may be secured just law and government, and that the Company may be aided in their sphere of usefulness and placed in possession of their land. (Also found in New Zealand Journal, 26th April, 1845, and in the "Three Days' Debate in the House of Commons," June, 1845.)

Svo. Pp. 52. 2 sketch-maps: 1. Map of New Zealand; 2. District intended for the Settlement of Otago.

First document of the Lay Association of the Free Church of Scotland, for promoting the settlement, and a list is given of the fifty members of the association. It contains general observations on and description of New Zealand and this special scheme, extracts from official documents, and arrangements as to purchase of lands, &c. 5,000 copies were printed in 1845, but owing to the disastrous news of Heke's war they were reserved and not distributed until 1847, when the roman numeral II was added in ink to the V.

[Wakefield, E. G.] Rough Draft of the Petition presented to the House of Commons April 16th, 1845.

Fol. Pp. 49. Single column.

Valuable, as differing very materially from the petition finally presented, which will be found in the New Zealand Journal of the 26th April, 1845, and also in the "Three Days' Debate in the House of Commons," June, 1845.

Fol. Pp. 24. (With the week's Spectator, one shilling.) A special supplement.

Doubtless compiled by E. G. Wakefield from various sources, with full references and footnotes, and gives an admirable précis of New Zealand history to date. It is opposed to the Colonial Office, and favourable to the New Zealand Company. Wakefield was a constant friend of Mr. Rintoul, and a contributor to his paper. (Vide Colonial Gazette, 11th January, 1845, and New Zealand Journal, 18th January, 1845.)

Wakefield, E. J. Adventure | in | New Zealand, | from 1839 to 1844 : | with some Account of the Beginning of the British | Colonization of the Islands. | By | Edward Jerningham Wakefield, Esq. | In Two Volumes. | London : | John Murray, Albemarle Street. | 1845.

2 vols. Svo. Vol. i: pp. x, 482. Vol. ii: pp. x, 546. Appendix. Fold ing map in pocket "to illustrate Adventure in New Zealand."

As a youth of nineteen Mr. Wakefield formed one of the "Tory" expedition. The work is full of minute incidents in the early history of the settlements—natives, whalers, daily life, explorations, missionaries, and government. A most graphic and valuable journal for reference. Appendix contains a short biography of his uncle, Captain Arthur Wakefield, who was killed in the Wairau massacre; also rough statistics.

The author was the only son of Edward Gibbon Wakefield. After an eventful but wasted career, he died at the Old Men's Home, Ashburton, March, 1876, æt. 56.

The magnificent "Illustrations to Adventure in New Zealand" were published separately from this.

Vol. iii: Pp. xi, 438. Map of Fiji. Tonga and Hawaiian Groups.

Vol. iv: Pp. xiii, 539. 3 maps: 1. Hawaiian Group; 2. Island of Hawaii; 3. Oregon Territory. Hawaiian Group continued, and Oregon Territory.

Vol. v: Pp. xii, 558. 4 maps: 1. Islands in Western Pacific; 2. Upper California; 3. Sooloo Sea and Archipelago; 4. Currents and whaling-grounds. Ellice and Kingsmill Groups, Columbia River, California, Southern Oregon, Straits Settlements, and Cape of Good Hope.

Another edition is in 5 large imp. 8vo vols., with 64 engravings, 47 steel vignettes, 250 woodcuts, and 14 folded maps and charts, and also a chart with 5 folded maps. There was also a small issue in 4to of 250 copies. Letter-press of all the same.

Connected with the expedition are 9 vols. imp. 4to and 5 vols. folio: 1. Zoophytes, with atlas of 61 plates, by J. A. Dana; 2. Mammals and birds, with atlas, by John Cassin; 3 and 4. Crustacea, with atlas of 96 plates, by J. D. Dana; 5. Mollusca, with atlas, by Dr. Gould; 6, 7. Geographical distribution of animals and plants, by Dr. Pickering; 8. Herpetology, with atlas, by Charles Girard; 9. Ethnography and philology, by Horatio Hale.

The first national expedition undertaken by the United States. Account of the Polynesian groups full and interesting. Fifty pages are devoted to New Zealand (Bay of Islands), which was visited in February to April, 1840, at the time of Governor Hobson's arrival. Contemptuous reference to the Treaty of Waitangi, which "was signed entirely through the influence of Mr. Clendon, the American Consul." Generally unfavourable account of New Zealand, which was left without any regret. Commodore Wilkes was prominent in the American Civil War.

Williams, Rev. W. Three Letters | addressed to | The Right Hon. the Earl of Chichester, | President of the Church Missionary Society, | relative to the charges brought against the | New Zealand Mission. | By William Williams, B.A., | One of the Society's Missionaries in New Zealand. | "Permit us then" . . .—Jewel's Apology. | London: | MDCCCXLV.

8vo. Pp. 44. Addressed to Lord Stanley, and dated Poverty Bay, February, 1842, though not forwarded at the time in deference to Bishop Selwyn's request. Afterwards addressed to Lord Chichester, as above.

Temperate reply to charges made by Mr. Somes, chairman of the New Zealand Company, of obstruction and inciting the natives; also to strictures of Rev. Dr. Lang and Colonel Wakefield, as to land-purchasing and want of success, which are repeated in the recent petition of the New Zealand Company to the House of Commons. The possession of land by the missionaries is justifiable and proper.

The Affairs of New Zealand.

Article in the Westminster Review, No. lxxxviii, March, 1846.

Svo. Pp. 90. Sketch-map of New Zealand.

Forms quite a manual of New Zealand history, abounding in notes and other references. Favourable to the Company's system of colonisation. Contains a list of 66 works relating to New Zealand.

[Bannister, Saxe.] Colonial Reform; | its Prospects, Means, and Principles. | A Letter | to the | Right Hon. Svo. Pp. 24. By Saxe Bannister, formerly Attorney-General of New South Wales.

Shows what, and how little, has been done, and how grievously ignorant of requirements and indifferent to them is the Colonial Office. Beggars Mr. Gladstone, as the new Minister, to undertake much-needed reforms, for want of which the colonies are in a deplorable state, and instances the recent debate on New Zealand. Numerous references.

Cargill, Capt. William, and others. A Letter from certain New-Zealand Colonists to Mr. Hawes, Under Secretary of State for the Colonies.

Forms Appendix No. ii of E. G. Wakefield's "Art of Colonization." Pp. 13. Dated "70, Jermyn Street, 5th Oct., 1846," and is signed by W. Cargill, E. S. Halswell, H. Moreing, and E. J. Wakefield.

Views and suggestions as to the formation of Municipal Corporations and a House of Representatives. Objections to Governor Grey's Act.

Large 8vo. Pp. 87, xxx.

Sections xii and xiii are devoted to Australia, New Zealand, and the Pacific Ocean and its islands. Those portions relating to New Zealand date from 1769 (Lauriston Bay—French) to 1840; Wangeroa, Shouraka, Kiahow, Shookianga, Wakaroa, Rouabouki, &c.

Clarke, G. [Private.] Extracts | from | the Final Report | of the | Chief
Protector of Aborigines | in | New Zealand. | March, 1846.

8vo. Pp. 15. Dated "Auckland, Protector's Office, March 30th, 1846," and signed "George Clarke."

Written before Mr. Clarke resigned his office. Able statement of the unfair treatment the natives have received from the date of the Treaty of Waitangi onwards. Defends and praises Capt. Fitzroy; disapproves of Capt. Grey's high-handed policy, which bodes more disaster.

Mr. Clarke was a Church missionary from 1823; was appointed Protector by Governor Hobson in 1840, holding the office until 1846; he then resumed Church mission work; afterwards was made a Judge of the Native Land Court; and died July, 1875, æt. 78. His son George was Sub-Protector under his father, but afterwards settled at Hobart Town as a Congregational minister.

[Despard, Col.] Colburns' United Service Magazine and Naval and Military Journal.

Nos. 213–16, from August to November, 1846, contain a "Narrative of an Expedition into the Interior of New Zealand during the months of June and July, 1845. With some account of the Attack on the Native Fortress of O Haiowai, on the 1st of July, by the Troops under the command of Lieut.-Colonel Despard, 99th Regt., acting as Colonel on the Staff."

About 67 pages 8vo. Sketch of Kawiti's pa, Ruapekapeka.

Excellent account of Heke's war in the north, from the cutting-down of the flagstaff at Kororareka, in June, 1844, to the taking of Ruapekapeka, in January, 1846. Written by Colonel Despard, who commanded the troops, but with little credit or success.

By | Robert Fitz-Roy. | London : | W. and H. White, 24, Pall Mall. |
1846. |

8vo. Pp. 67. It is stated that 60 copies only were issued.

Concise view of the history and occurrences before and during his Governorship. Depicts his helpless position amidst unusual difficulties, and ably defends his policy. Some account of Heke's war.

Fitzroy succeeded Governor Hobson in 1843, and held office until 1845, when he was superseded by Capt. Grey. He commanded the "Beagle" when circumnavigating the globe in 1831–36 with Darwin on board. Afterwards was appointed to the charge of the British Meteorological Department. Died April, 1865, æt. 60.

4to. Pp. xii, 666. 3 maps.

Contains an account of the Polynesians and their migrations, and a comparative grammar of their dialects, with vocabulary. Some reference to New Zealand and the Chatham Islands.

Hanson, R. D. [Private.] | Extracts | from a | Letter to Captain Fitz-Roy, R.N. | from | R. Davies Hanson, Esq. | Lately Commissioner of Requests in New Zealand. | 1846.

8vo. Pp. 16. Dated "Adelaide, South Australia, July 24, 1846."

States that he left New Zealand (Wellington) because he entirely disapproved of Capt. Grey's policy in dispossessing the Hutt natives of lands they had cultivated for many years, and in otherwise treating them with severity. Most of the New Zealand Company's land-purchases are unsound and arbitrary, and to this is attributable the native outbreaks. The Gillespies have been murdered, and other reprisals must follow. Defends Captain Fitzroy's policy as sound and humane, though so systematically misrepresented.

Mr. Hanson was editor of the New Zealand Colonist, 1842-43, and Crown Solicitor; then left for Adelaide, where he became Chief Justice of South Australia and was afterwards knighted. Died 1876, æt. 71.

Stokes, Spectator Office, Manners-Street, Te Aro. | 1846.

8vo. Pp. 48. Dated 23rd September, 1846, and signed with 45 names.

An eloquent and bitter indictment of broken promises against the Company; full of history. The Company has failed to put them in possession of their lands, treating them with indifference, and does not hesitate to undertake the founding of new settlements.

Pp. viii, 174. Appendix (n.p.), 4 pages.

Sailed for Port Nicholson from Glasgow, October, 1839, in the "Bengal Merchant." Rev. Mr. McFarlane, the first Presbyterian minister, also a passenger. Account of the early settlements, natives, productions, Wairau massacre. Chatty book, giving amusing glimpses of every-day life. Appendix gives account of the interview between Governor Fitzroy and Rauparaha after the Wairau massacre, which interview gave so much offence to the colonists.

 Marsden's missionary visits to New Zealand. Christian Observer, xlv, 10, 75, 145.Merrett, Joseph. A Visit to Heki and Kawiti.A paper in the New Zealand Journal, 5th December, 1846.

Written by Merrett, the interpreter, after the close of the war. Gives Heke's account of the war, and also much new information.

"Le Moniteur" of the 14th October, 1846, has two reports, occupying 10 columns, by Capt. Bérard, of "Le Rhin" (commanding the New Zealand station at Akaroa), on the events which took place at the Bay of Islands between the 4th July, 1844, and the 31st January, 1846. An abridged translation is in the New Zealand Journal of the 21st November and 5th December.

Criticism of operations in the war. References to French settlement at Akaroa. Account of Roman Catholic mission, founded in 1838 by Bishop Pompallier with a priest and catechist; now there are two bishops, sixteen priests, and eight friars, all in the North Island, and five thousand who have been baptised, whilst five or six times this number use the Roman Catholic form of prayer. Captain Bérard returned to France in 1846.

2nd ed., 1847. Precisely the same, excepting that some of the woodcuts are enumerated as plates in the "List of Illustrations."

Vivid description of adventure in South Australia, New Zealand, and New South Wales during 1844 and 1845. Collected abundant material for his great illustrated works, for which this work, indeed, forms descriptive letter-press. Travelled through interior of North Island and districts of Cloudy Bay and Queen Charlotte Sound. Gives a valuable account of the natives and their customs. Mode of preserving heads, Vol. ii, p. 48 : if they were those of enemies, the lips were sewn apart ; if of friends, together. Account of the armour given to Hongi in 1820 by George the Fourth, p. 86. Appendix gives plates and descriptions of aboriginal carvings in caves near Sydney.

The author afterwards lived in South Africa for two years ; settled in Sydney for seven years, where he was Director and Secretary of the Museum ; then resided for three years in South Australia. Died in London, October, 1886, æt. 64. Was eldest son of George Fife Angas, the "Father and Founder of South Australia."

8vo. Pp. 81. In 3 parts. Part i: Proof that Earl Grey's instructions involve a breach of the national faith of Britain. Part ii: Proof that Earl Grey's instructions involve a violation of established law. Part iii: A protest against the general doctrine put forth by Earl Grey, as the principle upon which colonisation should be henceforward conducted by Britain. Together with an appendix of practical considerations.

Controverts the position that native lands belong to the Crown. An important pamphlet. (Vide parliamentary papers, January, 1847, p. 68: July, 1849, pp. 34, 46, 52, and 123; also, "The New Zealand Question," p. 330 et seq.)

Sir W. Martin was Chief Justice of New Zealand from 1841 to 1857, when he was succeeded by Sir George Arney. An able man, and champion of the native race. Died at Torquay, November 1880, æt. 73.

Report of a Sub-Committee, appointed by the Committee of Correspondence, in reference to the remuneration claimed by Sampson Kempthorne, Esq., in respect of services rendered in New Zealand to the Church Missionary Society. Amended and adopted by the Committee of Correspondence, on the 20th of July, 1847.

8vo. Pp. 40.

Visiting New Zealand on his own business, the Church Missionary Society accepted Mr. Kempthorne's offer to report on their properties there. For this service he made a claim considered by the committee to be out of the limits of their arrangements with him, and it was therefore refused. Some interesting details of the mission.

In all, there were 5 parts of Bishop Selwyn's visitation journals, which were published for the years 1842, 1843, 1844, and 1848, and form respectively Nos. 4, 7, 8, 12, and 20 of the "Church in the Colonies." The 1st edition appeared August, 1844; August, 1845; September, 1845; April, 1846; and March, 1849. The 2nd and 3rd editions (1851) are reprints. The preface (Part i), by the Rev. C. B. Dalton, gives a short account of former mission effort, and the foundation of the see. Then follows the Bishop's description of his organization and journeys by sea and land. Part ii (pp. iv, 64): His visits to various stations throughout New Zealand, to the Bluff, Ruapuke, and Chatham Islands. Part iii (pp. 48): Visit to the South and to Stewart's Islands. Part iv (pp. 40): Account of the affray at Kororareka, with sketch-plan. Part v (pp. 136): Through the diocese and to the Chatham Islands. Full of interest. Appended are contribution-lists, and an account of St. John's College, Auckland.

Enderby, C. Proceedings | at | a Public Dinner | given to | Charles Enderby, Esq., F.R.S., | at | the London Tavern, | Bishopsgate Street, | on | Wednesday, the 18th of April, 1849. | London: | Pelham Richardson, Cornhill, | and sold by | T. Ollivier, Pall Mall. | 1849.

8vo. Pp. 24.

A farewell on his departure for the Auckland Islands. Mr. Enderby's speech gives some account of the southern whale-fishery. In this year, whilst the United States had 596 whale-ships, of 190,000 tons and 18,000 seamen, English whale-ships were only 14. Revival of trade was imperative. Names of guests (400) and stewards printed.

Enderby, C. The | Auckland Islands: | a short account | of their | climate, soil, and productions; | and | the advantages of establishing there | a Settlement at Port Ross | for carrying on the | Southern Whale Fisheries. | By Charles Enderby, Esq., F.R.S. | With a Panoramic View of Port Ross, and a Map | of the Islands. | London: | Pelham Richardson, 23, Cornhill; | and sold by | John Ollivier, 59, Pall Mall. | 1849

8vo. Pp. vi, 57. Appendix. Panorama, 6 ft. long, folded in pocket.

Digest of previous accounts of the islands. Sketches the plan of the Southern Whale Fishery Company, whose charter is dated the 16th January 1849, and capital is £100,000.

The British Government granted these islands to the Messrs. Enderby on advantageous terms. Expedition landed 4th December, 1849. The scheme failed. (For further accounts of it vide Wellington Independent, 23rd April, 1851; New Zealand Journal, No. 287; Australian and New Zealand Gazette, 30th November, 1850, 8th March and 12th July, 1851, and 6th March, 1852. 8vo. Pp. xv, 501.

Chapter viii is devoted to the inception of the New Zealand mission and to the Rev. S. Marsden, with letters from him.

Mr. Pratt was a firm opponent of the New Zealand Company, and inspired many articles and pamphlets against it.

Report | of | Proceedings of the Legislative Council | of | New Zealand, | by | an Old Colonist. (1849.)

8vo. Issued in 6 numbers of 8 pages each, the first dated Auckland, 13th August, 1849; the last, 17th September, 1849. No imprint or name of author.

A clever, good-humoured skit on Governor Grey's high-handed procedure in the session of the Legislative Council, August, 1849, and on the transaction of the business generally.

Roebuck, J. A. The | Colonies of England: | a Plan | for | the Government of some portion | of our | Colonial Possessions. | By | John Arthur Roebuck, M.P. | A land there lies . . . | London: | John W. Parker, West Strand. | MDCCCLXIX.

8vo. Pp. xi, 248. Map of North America. Appendix. Dated Ashley Arnewood, 23rd April, 1849.

History of English colonisation in America from Virginia in 1606. Indicates the mischief of the indifference exhibited by Great Britain towards her colonies, and insists on self-government for them, suggesting a suitable form, which would also attach them to the Home-country. His important private memorandum, written for Lord Durham on his departure for Canada as Governor-General, is appended.

Mr. Roebuck was an ardent colonial reformer.

These letters, which originally appeared in 1842-43-44, forming part of a volume of tracts on colonial and commercial policy, urgently treat upon the national distress, organization of industry, criticize Government measures, and advocate emigration as the solution of pressing problems.

Mr. (afterwards Sir) Robert Richard Torrens, son of the above, settled in South Australia, and was author of the well-known Land Transfer Act which bears his name.

Wakefield, E. G. A | View | of the | Art of Colonization, | with present
Reference to the | British Empire ; | in Letters between a Statesman and a Colonist. | Edited by | (one of the writers) | Edward Gibbon Wakefield.
| London : | John W. Parker, West Strand. | MDCCCXLIX.

Svo. Pp. xxiv, 513. Appendix. Dedicated to John Hutt, Esq., lately Governor of Western Australia. Dated Reigate, 30th January, 1849.

Under the device of imaginary letters between colonist and statesman, Wakefield fully develops his cherished theories. He describes the rise and growth of colonisation from 1829, when he and other reformers discussed it in Rintoul's Spectator. Dr. Hinds' (Bishop of Norwich) "Essay on Colonisation," which was published in 1832 as an appendix to Archbishop Whately's "Thoughts on Secondary Punishments," is reprinted, as are also 6th and 7th chapters of Charles Buller's "Responsible Government for Colonies," 1840 (q.v.). The appendix contains Buller's speech in the House of Commons (6th April, 1843) on Systematic Colonisation; also a "Letter from certain New Zealand Colonists to Mr. Hawes" (Under-Secretary), dated the 5th October, 1846, criticizing the recent New Zealand Government Act of Governor Grey, which is a mere substitute for real self-government.

Amidst his numerous valuable contributions, this is Wakefield's chief work. Ever since its publication controversy has never ceased to defend or to denounce the author's propositions, which it is but fair to say have never been fairly carried into practice. The most temperate opponent is Merivale, in his "Lectures on Colonization." To-day the balance of opinion is again favourable.

Wakefield, E. G. The | Southern Colonies ; | their Municipal Annexation, or their National Independence : | in | a Letter | from | Mr. Edward
Gibbon Wakefield | to | Mr. Henry Petre.

Svo. Pp. 14. Dated Reigate, 20th September, 1849.

Parliament never seriously attends to colonial questions unless for party purposes. Self-government must be conceded, or else separation. Petitions are useless; the colonies must exhibit passive resistance to Downing Street.

Wakefield, Felix. Colonial Surveying | with a view to the | disposal of Waste Land : | in a report to the New-Zealand Company. | By | Felix
Wakefield. | London : | John W. Parker, West Strand. | MDCCCXLIX.

Svo. Pp. v, 89. Dated Nayland, 10th September, 1849.

The Government having at length granted the Company power to deal freely with waste lands, and so to promote colonisation, this scheme was drawn up to give the best effect to the concessions, and full directions to the surveyors. There were 50,000,000 acres to deal with, and the author was offered the post of Surveyor-General to the New Zealand Company, which he declined. The subject is divided into — (1) Mode of sale; (2) of surveying, describing, and mapping; (3) selection, giving possession, and completing titles. The first draft proof formed the instructions to Captain Thomas when surveying the Canterbury Block.

Felix (an engineer) was the youngest of the four celebrated Wakefield brothers, and was one of the earliest Canterbury settlers. Died at Sumner on the 24th December, 1875, æt. 68.

telligence from New South Wales, Van Diemen's Land, | South Australia,
Port Phillip, Western Australia, and New Zealand. | No. 1. London, Satur-

Fol. Pp. 16. Double columns.

This important paper succeeded the New Zealand Journal (q.v.), and continued publication until 1882. Its sub-title varied more than once, and in September, 1855, it assumed the additional one of "and Colonial Chronicle" upon adding to its repertory news from the Cape, North America, and the West Indies. From 1853 it was issued weekly. It was edited by Mr. G. W. Earp, for some time a merchant and member of the Legislative Council of New Zealand. The numbers contain a copious summary of news extracted from the colonial papers, and, whilst lacking the special character and literary quality of the New Zealand Journal, it discusses all important colonial questions, and is especially full in commercial matters.

Svo. Pp. 318. Folded map of site of the Canterbury Settlement, and 4 folded illustrations, with description: 1. Port Lyttelton. 2. Landing of passengers from the "Cressy." 3. Part of the Great Plain. 4. The Rivers Courtenay and Hinds.

Issued at no regular dates, but as found expedient for exhibiting progress of the scheme. Twelve numbers appeared at 6d. each, excepting No. 11, containing the illustrations, which was 1s. 6d. In 1850 Nos. 1 and 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6, 7, 8; in 1851 Nos. 9 and 10, 11; in 1852 No. 12. The wrappers often contain special information and advertisements. In 1859 a "new series" commenced, of but two numbers (q.v.).

A most important and varied historical collection of details relating to New Zealand's youngest settlement. Accounts of meetings, despatches, various schemes for the settlement and for funds, practical advice, and general description of the Canterbury site.

Canterbury Settlement. | A full and accurate | Report | of | the Public Meeting | which was held in St. Martin's Hall, on the | 17th April, 1850, by the Association for founding | the Settlement of Canterbury in New Zealand | The Right Hon. the Lord Lyttelton in the chair. | London: | Published for the Canterbury Association, | By J. Roy. 8vo. Pp. v, 480. Numerous maps and illustrations.

The first number appeared in May, 1849, and the publication continues to the present day. The references to New Zealand are copious, and may be said to contain an early history of the Maoris; they abound in information of a varied and unique kind, and are often of a high order, dealing with linguistic, political, and geographical matters of various countries.

Svo. Pp. (n.p. 21) 88, A to K (being divisions of the Ordinances), lx, (n.p. 9).

This important work was prepared chiefly by Mr. Alfred Domett, and is replete with history. Appendix gives Ordinances repealed or disallowed, and Proclamations and notices under the New Zealand Charters and Ordinances.

First | Annual Address | of | the Society | for the | Reform of Colonial Government. | London: | John W. Parker, West Strand. | MDCCCL.

Svo. Pp. 12. Signed by James Edward FitzGerald, Secretary, 6, Charing Cross, 29th January, 1850.

The first prospectus—December, 1849—says, "The general object of the society is to aid in obtaining . . . the real and sole management of all local affairs by the colony itself, including the disposal of the waste lands." Bitter indictments of neglect, misgovernment, and general wrong are laid against the Colonial Office. Names of eminent statesman are on the committee.

Tract describing and praising the advantages of the settlement. "Perry engaged in erecting a blast furnace for smelting the ironsand."

Jackson, Rev. T. Colonization of New Zealand. | The Speech | of the | Rev. Thomas Jackson, M.A. | Prebendary of St. Paul's, | and Principal of the Training College, Battersea, | at | the Ipswich Meeting | of | the Canterbury Association, | Held on Thursday, May 30, 1850. (John W. Parker, Strand.)

8vo. Pp. 8. Also in No. 4, "Canterbury Papers."

Mr. Jackson was Bishop-Designate of Lyttelton, though his appointment was not confirmed. His services as a splendid platform orator were much availed of by the association. He visited his proposed diocese in 1853, but soon returned, and became rector of Stoke Newington, where he died in 1886.

Letter | to | the Right Rev. | The Lord Bishop of New Zealand, | from the | Members of the Church of England | in that Colony. | Auckland: | Williamson & Wilson. | 1850.

Sm. 8vo. Pp. 10.

Recommending a form of self-government for the members of the church in New Zealand.

Lowe, R. Speech | on the | Australian Colonies Bill, | at a Meeting | at the rooms of the Society for the Reform | of Colonial Government, | June 1st, 1850, | By Robert Lowe, Esq., | late Member of the Legislative Council of New South Wales. | Reported by the "Morning Chronicle." | The Government have stated . . . | Printed for the Society for the Reform of | Colonial Government.

8vo. Pp. 32.

Present undignified mode of government; faults of proposed Bill; states what the colonists require; is opposed to intercolonial federation.

Mr. Lowe was a New South Wales colonist, barrister, and politician from 1842 to 1850; also, in 1844, chief founder of the Atlas newspaper, which he edited for two years. As Lord Sherbrooke, he died at Warlingham, July, 1892, æt. 81.

Lyttelton, Lord. Lord Lyttelton's Speech | in the House of Lords | on the Third Reading | of the | Australian Colonies | Government Bill, | July 5, 1850. | Published for the Society for the Reform of | Colonial Government. | London: John W. Parker, West Strand. | MDCCCL.

Svo. Pp. 13.

Opposed to the Bill, as not granting sufficient self-government, evidenced, amongst other disabilities, by the power of disallowance extending over even local enactments.

Conference regarding many debatable points connected with the Church of England in Australasia. Bishop Selwyn was one of the six bishops taking part.

Molesworth, Sir W. Speeches | of | Sir William Molesworth, Bart., M.P., | in the House of Commons, | during | the Session of 1850, | on the | Bill for the Better Government | of the | Australian Colonies. | London: | James Ridgway, Piccadilly. | Price one shilling.

8vo. Pp. 75. Appendix.

Five speeches, 8th February to 6th May. Broken promises of successive Governments, and increasing discontent against the Colonial Office and Earl Grey; hence the formation of the Colonial Reform Association. The present Bill is a bungle. Discusses the theory of representative government as applicable to the colonies. Proposes a suitable form of Constitution for them, which is sketched in the appendix.

Articles special to New Zealand: The whale and whaling, by Dr. Knox; Visit to Roto-Mahana, by Rev. R. Taylor; Geology of the Middle Island, by W. B. Mantell; Native waiata; Glance at the history of New Zealand as a British colony; Review of Wakefield's "Art of Colonization"; Geology of New Zealand by Rev. R. Taylor; The southern colonies; Experiments on New Zealand flax.

The first magazine published in New Zealand. It was discontinued from lack of subscribers and the expense of printing. The editor was Mr. W. E. Grimstone, a Government official, who wrote the "Southern Settlements of New Zealand," &c., 1847.

*New Zealand Zauberflöte. Household Words, ii, 75, 128.

The Polynesians: and New Zealand. Edinburgh Review, Vol. xci, pp. 443 to 471; 1850.

Able article by a New Zealand colonist. From their customs and contact with ourselves, the writer deduces the future decay of the race, which may yet be arrested by our own generous care.

Published for the Committee of the | Emigrants' School Fund. | Emigrants' Letters: | being | a collection | of | recent communications from Settlers | in | the British Colonies. | London: | Trelawney Saunders, 6, Charing Cross. | 1850.

Fcp. Svo. Pp. viii, 130. Sketch-map of world.

The letters from New Zealand are nowhere else published, and contain much information.

Steam to Australia | and New Zealand. | A collection of letters, &c., which have recently | appeared in the public journals | relative | to the various routes proposed for | steam communication with | Australia and New | Zealand. | With an appendix. | London: | Effingham Wilson, 11 Royal Exchange. | 1850.

Svo. Pp. iv, 91.

During this year there was extensive agitation in England and in the colonies for steam communication, the matter being finally remitted to a House of Commons Committee.

Taylor, Rev. R. Christian Unity. | A Sermon, | preached at Tauranga, | before the Central Committee of the Church | Missionary Society, | April 15, 1849. | By Richard Taylor, M.A., | Church Missionary. | New Zealand: | Printed by R. Stokes, Wellington, and sold | by Messrs. Williamson & Wilson, Auckland. | MDCCCL.

Svo. Pp. 27.

Refers to the sectarian spirit then rife in New Zealand.

Thomson, Dr. A. S. On the Influence of the Climate of New Zealand in the production of Disease among Emigrants from Great Britain. By Arthur S. Thomson, M.D., Surgeon 58th Regiment.

The Medico-Chirurgical Review, Vol. lxxiv, No. 184, 1850, pp. 82 to 91. Sketch-map of New Zealand, with military stations.

The statistics adduced show that there is less than half the disease found in Great Britain. Diseases slight. A few cases of ague in the bush. Table of climate and meteorology for 1849.

Tuckett, F. Do not emigrate | until you can possess | that Portion of the Land | which should be your's. | Being | a few remarks | on the sufferings of emigrants in ships and colonies: | addressed | to the People. | By Frederick Tuckett. | "Let others flatter" . . . | London: Charles Gilpin, 5, Bishopsgate Without. | Edinburgh: A. and C. Black. Dublin: J. B. Gilpin. | 1850. | Price Threepence.

Svo. Pp. 16, 4.

The present system of emigration is full of mistakes and injury, especially to women. On arrival emigrants should receive 50 acres of land on very easy terms. New Zealand has been vastly overrated. Extract from Brunner's journey to West Coast.

Mr. Tuckett, of the New Zealand Company's survey staff, left New Zealand in 1846 a disappointed man. He selected the site for the Otago Settlement.

[Wakefield, E. G.] Counsel | to | Canterbury Colonists, | as respects the Purchase of Land for | Investment.

8vo. Pp. 7. Printed by Savill and Edwards, 4 Chandos Street, Covent Garden.

Gives many reasons why those who propose to become settlers should buy land, and justifies the price asked—£3 per acre.

Wynter, Rev. J. C. Hints | on | Church Colonization. | By | James Cecil Wynter, M.A. | Rector of Gatton. | Plantations are amongst . . . | London: | John W. Parker, West Strand. | MDCCCL.

Cr. 8vo. Pp. 31.

Learned dissertation on the "duty of the church in regard to the colonies." Church colonization is the only sound form. Written to further the Canterbury scheme.

Wynter was offered the bishopric of Lyttelton in 1849 (vide "The Founders of Canterbury," p. 103).

Bowler, W. The | Management of Shipping | for | Emigration: | in a Report | to | the Canterbury Association. | By | William Bowler. | Smith, Elder, and Co., Cornhill. | MDCCCLI. | Price sixpence.

8vo. Pp. 28.

Second edition, much amplified from the first, in Nos. 9 and 10, "Canterbury Papers."

A history of emigrant-vessels. Written by E. G. Wakefield. The ships were sent out at a great loss to the association, though the report states otherwise.

Brandes, K. H. Neuseeland in geschichtlichen Umrissen | von seiner Entdeckung bis zur | Gegenwart. | Von Dr. Karl Heinrich Brandes, | Custos der Königl. Bibliothek zu Berlin. Druck von F. L. Brockhaus in Leipzig.

Sm. 8vo. Pp. 125.

Excellent history of New Zealand, for which the author had consulted 130 works, a list of which is given at the end.

Brodie, W. Pitcairn's Island, | and | the Islanders, | in 1850. | By Walter Brodie, | author of "The Past and Present State of New Zealand." | Together with extracts from his | private journal, | and | a few hints upon California; | also, | the Reports of all the Commanders of H.M. Ships that have | touched at the above Island since 1800. | Third Edition. | London: | Whittaker and Co., Ave Maria Lane. | 1851.

8vo. Pp. iv, 260. Portrait of the author.

Mr. Brodie and four Auckland people—Baron de Thierry, Messrs. Hugh Carleton, Webster, and Mitchell—were accidentally marooned on the island from the 23rd March to the 12th April, 1850, and then escaped in a passing vessel to California and home, amidst immense danger and difficulty. Full history and account of the "Bounty" islanders and the settlement, with a copy of the Pitcairn's Island Register from 1790 to 1850, and a list of all vessels that have visited the island.

Brunner, T. Journal of an Expedition to Explore the Interior of the Middle Island of New Zealand. By Mr. Thomas Brunner. (Communicated by the Colonial Office.) Read 11th March, 1850.

"Journal, Royal Geographical Society," Vol. xx, pp. 344 to 378. Map, with route.

The journal was first published in the Nelson Examiner, 30th September to 21st October, 1848, and reprinted, with additions, in folio, pp. 17, double columns, by Charles Elliott, the printer. It does not appear in the Government Gazette.

A splendid piece of exploration, full of hardship and danger, extending over sixteen months, and recognised by the Royal Geographical Society with an award of £25. Starting from Nelson on the 3rd December, 1846, Mr. Brunner explored the Buller from its source, near the Rotoiti Lake, to the West Coast, and the Grey from its mouth to its source, viewing the broad country afterwards known as the Canterbury Plains, and going as far south as the present township of Weld.

Buddle, Rev. T. The | Aborigines of New Zealand. | Two Lectures | delivered by | The Rev. Thos. Buddle, | Wesleyan Minister, | at the Auckland Mechanics' Institute, on the | Evenings of the 25th March and 12th May, 1851. | Published by request. | Auckland:—Williamson and Wilson, | MDCCCLI.

Svo. Pp. 51.

Also in the New Zealander of the 5th, 9th, and 12th April, 17th, 24th, and 31st May; and in the Maori Messenger of the 11th September et seq.

Their origin (Asia), religion and superstitions, priesthood, war customs, cannibalism, tatu, preserving heads, social and domestic condition, interspersed with songs, laments, and incantations. An excellent short account, with much new and forgotten matter.

Mr. Buddle came to Hokianga as a Wesleyan missionary in 1840, and died in 1883, æt. 71.

12mo. Pp. 310.

The English account and its Maori translation are on alternate pages, the first being written by Mr. George Sisson Cooper, Assistant Private Secretary (later the Colonial Secretary), and the translation by Mr. C. O. B. Davis. The journal abruptly terminates on the 8th January, 1850, as the concluding portion was lost; it is, however, completed by Captain J. J. Symond's journal, in Dr. Hocken's possession. Contains native traditions, karakia, songs, and legends, besides the interesting incidents of the journey. First printed in the Maori Intelligencer newspaper from the 15th August, 1850, to the 14th August, 1851.

There is also a rare 4to edition, double columns, English and Maori; pp. 78 (vide "The Library of H.E. Sir Geo. Grey—Philology, Vol. ii, Part iv; New Zealand; W. H. I. Bleek; 1858; No. 104"). The journal is also transcribed in the New Zealander, 17th August, 1850, et seq., and the Wellington Spectator, May, 1851. The expedition reached Taranaki on the 19th January, 1850.

Information as to the trade with New Zealand. Captain Frederic George Moore, ten years resident in New Zealand, thinks that two steamers of 300 tons and 50-horse power could do the New Zealand trade, and that two of 600 or 800 tons, 450-horse power, could connect with the general steam communication at Sydney.

Captain Moore died at Wellington in 1893, and was the original owner of Gilfillan's painting, "Interior of a Native Village or Pa in New Zealand," which was exhibited at the Great Exhibition of 1851, and of which 100 litho-graphic copies were taken.

[The treasured things and wild chaunts of the Maoris. A thing collected together by Sir George Grey, &c., from this old man and from that old woman, in his many journeys to all parts of these islands.]

Roy. Svo. Pp. xiv, 432, cxii, 20. The end of the preface, p. xiii, contains some notes on Maori poetry, by the Rev. R. Maunsell.

A labour of inestimable value, extending over many years, whilst it was still possible to rescue from loss these fading records of the native race. The chief Te Rangikaheke was a principal contributor to this collection; his originals, with very much other Maori matter, are in the Grey Library at Cape Town. The pieces of poetry are 509 in number, and are followed by "He korero apiti ana no nga waiata nei" (a narrative joined to these poems), containing a summary of native cosmogony from the creation onward, &c. Much of this prose was transferred, with alterations, to "Nga Mahinga" (p. 177). No complete translation of the poems has been made; many of the words are obsolete, and the allusions forgotten or uncertain. Many, however, lie translated in manuscript in the Cape Town Library, and the transference of the whole to New Zealand is a great desideratum. (Vide Rev. H. W. 8vo. Pp. iii, 227.

Presented from tribes and individual natives to Governor Grey on his departure from New Zealand in December, 1853, in recognition of his services and love for the native race. They abound in imagery, and old songs, or waiata, are introduced. In addition there are speeches and discussions on other occasions, and a collection of old songs, laments, stories, and hymns.

The translator, who was an accomplished Maori scholar, does justice to his work, and adds many notes.

There is also an address from the Bishop and clergy.

A complete list of the 45 items is given under No. 120 of Part iv, Vol. ii, "Philology of New Zealand," &c., in the catalogue of the Grey collection presented to the Public Library at Cape Town ; edited by Dr. W. H. I. Bleek.

Grey, Sir G. Polynesian Mythology, | and | Ancient Traditional History | of the | New Zealand Race, | as furnished by their Priests and Chiefs. | By Sir George Grey, | late Governor-in-Chief of New Zealand. | London: | John Murray, Albemarle Street. | 1855.

Svo. Pp. xiii, 333. 14 illustrations. Appendix.

This is chiefly a translation of "Nga Mahinga" (p. 177), and contains 23 of its legends in English dress, amongst them being the Children of Heaven and Earth, the legends of Maui and of Tawhaki, discovery of New Zealand, and Hinemoa. The appendix contains a learned essay "On the Native Songs of New Zealand," by Mr. J. A. Davies, of Trinity College Cambridge, comparing their intervals, system, harmonics, and modulation with European notation.

The preface gives an interesting account of the difficulties encountered and mode adopted in procuring this information from many various sources.

A 2nd ed. appeared in 1885, q.v.

A cheap but accurate reprint of this expensive book appeared in 1906 (price 1s.), published by George Routledge and Sons, London. 12mo. Pp. xiv, 247.

Schirren, C. Die | Wandersagen der Neuseeländer | und | der Maui-mythos. | Von | C. Schirren. | Riga, | Verlag von N. Kymmel. | 1856.

Roy. 8vo. Pp. iv, 209.

Schirren's theory is entirely at variance with the conclusions of Hale, Shortland, Fornander, Percy Smith, and others. He contends that to the myths of Maui and the Polynesian cosmogony generally must be relegated the traditions of Hawaiki and the stories of the migrations therefrom. Hawaiki has no geographical existence, and merely denotes the lower regions, the realm of departed spirits, from which the race came, and to which it returns. He further considers that there is no evidence to point out the original "whence" of the Maori, or to fix any date of departure. Hochstetter discusses this matter, and agrees with Schirren (vide his "New Zealand," p. 202 et seq., and his "Neu-Seeland," p. 54).

12mo. Pp. viii, 326. Portrait.

An excellent account, gathered from letters and manuscripts of Mr. J. L. Nicholas and Lieut. Sadlier, of Parramatta. Sketches his difficulties and labours amidst the convict scenes of New South Wales; his labours for the missions, especially those of New Zealand, and his seven visits there, well entitling him to the appellation of the "Apostle of New Zealand." The Church Missionary Society's Proceedings and Missionary Register have long reference to him and to his journals, some of which are printed in part.

A further issue appeared in 1858, with trifling alterations connected with his earliest life.

Imp. 8vo. Pp. i, 17. Double columns.

It is impossible to administer the Constitution Act with advantage and justice to the community. The provincial system is most mischievous, splitting up the country into sections whose interests have little or nothing in common, and developing a spirit of selfishness and indifference to the requirements of others; and, further, the provinces come into conflict with the General Government, producing serious entanglement.

London : | Printed for the Hakluyt Society. | MDCCCLIX.

Svo. Pp. xii, cxix, 200. 9 outline maps or charts.

Tends to show, from recently discovered maps and from other sources, that Australia and New Zealand had been discovered very much earlier than the usually assigned dates of the 16th century. Gives large extracts from the writings of early discoverers, and discusses them. In Vol. xxxviii, p. 149 (1860), of the Society of Antiquaries, "Archæological," Major gives an account of his later discovery of a map in the British Museum, which transfers the honour of the first authenticated discovery from the Dutch to the Portuguese. A copy of the north-west portion of Australia is given. This and a condensed description are also given in Heyward's "Vacation Tour to the Antipodes," 1863 (q.v.). Earlier maps have since been found in the British Museum, and have been reproduced in part jointly by the Governments of New South Wales, South Australia, and Victoria. These should be examined.

An important continuation of these researches is to be found in Dr. Heeres's "Part borne by the Dutch in the Discovery of Australia, 1606-1765," 1899, Luzac and Co., London; and Collingridge's "Discovery of Australia," Sydney, 1895, of which a more recent edition has appeared.

Stones, W. New Zealand, | (the Land of Promise) | and its Resources. | By | William Stones. | To this Essay the Council of the Society of Arts | awarded the Silver Medal. | 1859.

12mo. Pp. viii, 86. Map of the world and sketch-map of New Zealand.

The Society of Arts, "which is in union with several hundreds of the mechanics' and literary institutions throughout Great Britain, invited the author to contribute a paper on New Zealand," which was printed in their journal of the 26th February, 1858. This is an enlargement, issued by Shaw, Savill, and Co., and went through several editions, which give an excellent condensed account of New Zealand, with statistics.

A 5th ed. appeared in 1862, with postscript of Otago Goldfields.

Swainson, W. New Zealand | and its | Colonization. | By | William Swainson, | formerly, and for upwards of fifteen years, Her Majesty's | Attorney-General for New Zealand. | With a Map. | London: | Smith, Elder & Co., 65, Cornhill. | 1859.

8vo. Pp. viii, 416. Coloured map of New Zealand.

Severe strictures upon the New Zealand Company's methods, which left a debt of £268,000; the native difficulty; bush travelling; and old New Zealand days. Definition of a suitable Constitution, and the early difficulties of founding one in New Zealand; provisions and defects of that just granted; speculations as to its success, and that of Responsible Government. History of the Church in the colony. An able contribution to New Zealand history.

Mr. Swainson died in 1884.

Thomson, Dr. A. S. The Story | of | New Zealand: | Past & Present—Savage and Civilized. | By Arthur S. Thomson, M.D., | Surgeon-Major 58th Regiment. | ——— | In Two Volumes. | London: | John Murray, Albemarle St. | 1859.

8vo. Vol. i: pp. x, 331. Vol. ii: pp. viii, 368. Map and 19 illustrations.

This work must remain one of the best-written histories of New Zealand. It contains a full account of native origin, customs, mythology, poetry, proverbs, language; the whalers; earliest settlement; missionaries; colonisation; native troubles; Heke's war; Government; Press; and natural history. It is written in charming style, and a full bibliography is given of about 1,600 items.

The author was eleven years in New Zealand, and was present throughout Heke's war, of which he gives a full account. He lived much amongst the natives, and was keenly interested in his subject. He died suddenly at Tien-tsin in 1860.

8vo. Pp. xii, 456. Illustrations.

Full of information. Many references to New Zealand. The tui, reed-warbler, apteryx ; the karaka, rata, flax, pines, &c. ; and an interesting chapter on medicinal remedies used by the Polynesians, and plants used by them for other purposes—coprosma, puriri, tutu, &c. Dr. Bennett died at Sydney in 1893.

Browne, Rev. E. H., B.D. The Case of the War | in New Zealand. | From authentic documents. | By | E. Harold Browne, B.D. | Norrisian Professor of Divinity in the University of Cambridge, | and Canon Residentiary of Exeter Cathedral. | Cambridge : | Deighton, Bell, & Co. | London : Bell & Daldy. | 1860.

8vo. Pp. 51.

Some early copies have but 48 pages, being curtailed of part of the Governor's Instructions to Colonel Gold, and wanting the 3-page appendix referring to the later publications which attack the conduct of the Governor.

Ablly vindicates the policy of the author's brother, Governor Gore Browne. A great value to the historian lies in the complete list of references to the profuse literature of this subject.

Buddle, Rev. T. The Maori King Movement | in | New Zealand, | with a | full report of the Native meetings | held at Waikato, | April and May, 1860. | By the | Rev. Thomas Buddle. | Auckland : Published at the "New-Zealander" office. | Sold also by Mr. Maberly and Mr. Chapman, Booksellers, Queen Street, and at Mr. Law's, Parnell. | 1860.

8vo. Pp. 72.

The author was present at this important attempt of the natives to form a Government amongst themselves, and divides it into its origin, objects, professed principles of action, progress, results, and probable future. He considers that Potatau's sudden death should prompt energetic steps for averting so serious a scheme, which imperils the peace of both races.

Mr. Buddle was an able Wesleyan missionary ; born in 1812, and died in 1883.

One of the best accounts of this movement, which should be read in conjunction with the Kohimarama Conference, is in the Maori Messenger, June to December, 1860.

Busby, J. Remarks | upon a pamphlet | entitled | "The Taranaki Question, by Sir William | Martin, D.C.L., late Chief Justice of | New Zealand"; | by | James Busby, Esq. | Formerly H.M. Resident in New Zealand. | Auckland: | Printed by Philip Kunst, "Southern Cross" office. | 1860.

8vo. Pp. 14.

Asserts that Sir W. Martin's notions of "native tenure" and "rights" are quite unfounded. Might was right with the natives, and our different opinion has suggested to the natives ideas quite new and dangerous for them to hold.

Printed also in Appendix to Journals, House of Representatives, 1860, E.

Busby, J. The | Right of a British Colonist | to the | Protection of the Queen & Parliament | of | England | against the illegal and unjust acts of a colonial | legislature or government; | A Letter | to His Grace the Duke of Newcastle, | Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for | the Colonies, | by James Busby, Esq. | Auckland: | Printed by Philip Kunst, Shortland St. | 1860.

8vo. Pp. 12.

Mrs. Smithson, a widow, having failed in her constant efforts to secure the title to land purchased by her husband in 1844, Mr. Busby here champions her cause, and indirectly his own, which was of a somewhat similar character.

Busby, J. Illustrations | of the | System called Responsible Government. | In a Letter to His Excellency | Colonel Gore Browne, C.B., | Governor-in-Chief, &c. &c. &c. | By | James Busby, Esq. | Auckland: | Printed by W. C. Wilson, Shortland St. | 1860.

8vo. Pp. 427, vi.

Airs the author's land grievance, with Responsible Government as a text, which he derides as a system opposed to the British Constitution, invented by E. G. Wakefield, and first introduced into Canada to allay rebellion.

Cargill, J. Otago, New Zealand. | Information for the guidance of | intending Emigrants. | By | John Cargill, Esq., J.P., | Late Member of the House of Representatives, New Zealand, | and of the Provincial Council of Otago. | Edinburgh: | Bell and Bradfute, | &c. | MDCCCLX.

Cr. 8vo. Pp. iv, 52. 2 tinted illustrations—(1) Dunedin in 1848, and (2) in 1859. Coloured maps of Otago, with inset.

8vo. Pp. 42. A letter, January, 1860, to "My friends and fellow-colonists."

Contains much of the earliest Taranaki history, and reprints of various correspondence. Continuous depression of the settlement, degraded native state, and present bloodshed are due to the conflicting policies of Government interfering with purchase of land, and to uncertain dealing with the natives.

Frederick Alonzo Carrington was Chief Surveyor of the settlement.

St., Edinburgh. | MDCCCLX.

Svo. Pp. 58. Appendix.

The Governor, and not the colonists, is responsible. The latter have not the control of native affairs, and very many think the war unjust. The country lost prestige, and hope lies in removing native control from the Governor and his Commissioners, and placing it in the hands of the colonists, whom the natives better trust.

The conference lasted from the 10th July to the 11th August, 1860, and was attended by about 200 chiefs (whose names and abodes are given), under the presidency of Mr. Donald McLean, who led and directed the discussions. Governor Browne opened it, saying it was an opportunity for discussing various matters connected with the welfare and advancement of the two races. Many spoke on administration of justice, education, native title, tribal rights, grievances, &c. Mr. Martin, ex-C.J., forwarded a code of rules or laws suitable for adoption. About 120 signed the final resolutions, which were of a loyal and pacific character.

PUNCH IN NEW ZEALAND.

Taranaki Punch. [Printed by G. W. Woon for the Publishers, Devon Street, New Plymouth.]

4to. Illustrated. Vol. i, No. 1, 31st October, 1860. Published fortnightly. Pp. 8. No. 4, Vol. ii, 7th August, 1861, states that, "owing to the present dearth of incident, it is intended for a time to publish Punch only once a month, instead of fortnightly."

Considerable ability, but the illustrations are atrocious.

Punch | in | Canterbury.

4to. Published weekly. Pp. 8. Price 6d. Ward and Reeves, publishers, Gloucester Street and Cathedral Square, Christchurch. The first number appeared on the 8th April, 1865, and the 20th on the 19th August.

Clever, and fairly well illustrated.

Revived as New Zealand Punch, with No. 1, 21st July 1866, "aspiring to gather jokes all over New Zealand, instead of in Canterbury only." 3rd number, 4th August.

[Torlesse, C. O.] The New Zealand War.

8vo. Pp. 20. Christchurch: Printed at the Union Printing-office, Gloucester Street. Reprinted from the Lyttelton Times of May and June, 1860; signed "Suaviter-Fortiter."

[Torlesse, C. O.]—continued.

The opposing interests of Home Government, missionaries, and the New Zealand Company have culminated in the present disorder. Drastic measures taken with the natives is the solution; the avoidance of trade and intercourse with them until they agree to a new treaty, to the sale of their lands, and to become loyal fellow-subjects, and then they shall be treated as ourselves.

The writer was a nephew of E. G. Wakefield.

Aborigines' Friend and the Colonial Intelligencer. London: Printed and published for the Aborigines' Protection Society; and sold by W. Tweedie, 337 Strand.

No. xiii, January to December, 1861, pp. 173-204, notices at length Sir W. Martin's pamphlet, the blue-book, events of past year, Sir G. C. Lewis's despatch, letters from Archdeacons Hadfield and Kissling, &c., on the Maori-war question.

Martin, Sir W. Remarks | on | "Notes published for the New Zealand Government," | January, 1861. | And on | Mr. Richmond's Memorandum | on the Taranaki Question, | December, 1860. | By | Sir W. Martin, D.C.L., | late Chief Justice of New Zealand. | Auckland : | Printed at the Melanesian Press. | 1861

8vo. Pp. 48. Dated Taurarua, February, 1861.

A general reply. In deference to the Governor's wish, these "Remarks" had no publicity in the colony, but they were reprinted in London by W. H. Dalton in 1861, and distributed (pp. v, 52). Another reprint was issued by Dalton in 1861 without Richmond's "Memorandum" (pp. 32).

Mr. Richmond's "Memorandum in reply to a pamphlet by Sir W. Martin, D.C.L., on the Taranaki Question" appears in the Appendix to the Journals of the House of Representatives, 1861, E, No. 2, p. 27.

Merivale, H. Lectures | on | Colonization and Colonies | delivered before the University of Oxford | in | 1839, 1840, and 1841 | By Herman Merivale, A.M., | Professor of Political Economy. | New Edition. | London : | Longman, Green, &c. | 1861.

8vo. Pp. xix, 685.

Greatly modified, and rewritten in accordance with the changes of twenty years. Sets forth the views of the colonial reformers, who desire, instead of casting the colonies adrift from the parent country to strengthen the bonds between them and the Empire. Discusses the Wakefield theory at great length, giving it a very qualified approval. An interesting history of England's lukewarm attitude to her colonies.

New Zealand. | Memorial | to His Grace the | Secretary of State for the Colonies | together with | a Memorandum | on | New Zealand Affairs. | London : | Church Missionary House, Salisbury Square. | 1861.

8vo. Pp. xi, 46. Memorial dated Church Missionary House, 4th January, 1861, and signed by the Earl of Chichester, president.

The memorial hopes the Government will again declare its recognition of tribal rights, adjudicate on the Waitara case, and explain that the proclamation of "fighting law" does not preclude peaceable adjustment. The memorandum and appendix amplify the foregoing, and give a history of the whole circumstances of the war, also of tribal tenure. The "Memorandum" is sometimes found separate from the "Memorial," with the parenthesis "(To accompany the Memorial to the Secretary of State for the Colonies)."

New Zealand. | A Vindication | of | the character of the Church Missionaries | and | Native Christians. | London: | Church Missionary House, Salisbury Square. | 1861.

8vo. Pp. 35. Dated 11th February, 1861. Three letters from Wi Kingi to Archdeacon Hadfield about the Waitara dispute, &c.

Valuable services of the missionaries acknowledged on all sides. Nearly all the missionaries are adverse to the war. Defends Archdeacon Hadfield. A tabular statement is given of the native state and progress in 1770, 1836, and 1859.

In some copies the "Memorial to His Grace the Secretary of State for the Colonies" (pp. xi) prefaces the "Memorandum on New Zealand Affairs," and also this "Vindication."

The New Zealand War of 1860; An inquiry into its origin and justice, together with some remarks on the Land Question in relation to the Natives. Copied with additions from the "Colonial Intelligencer," the organ of the Aborigines' Protection Society. Published by W. Tweedie, 337 Strand. Price One Shilling.

8vo. Pp. 52.

1. Colonization: the land question and the natives. 2. What the missionaries say of the New Zealand war: an inquiry into the origin of the war. Appendix has an extract from Bishop Selwyn's pastoral letter, also Archdeacon Hadfield's remarks on the Land League.

New Zealand. | Further Remarks | on | New Zealand Affairs. | London: | Church Missionary House, Salisbury Square. | 1861.

8vo. Pp. 30. Dated 23rd April, 1861.

Discusses the Treaty of Waitangi and tribal rights in connection with the disturbances at Taranaki. Renata's speech is reprinted.

The editing of the history of the "Novara's" voyage round the world was intrusted to Dr. Scherzer, who used the comprehensive journals and reports of the commander, Von Wüllerstorff-Urbair. The English translation will be found under "Scherzer," 1861. The 3rd vol. contains the New Zealand portion of the voyage.

Renata. Renata's | Speech and Letter | to the | Superintendent of Hawke's Bay | on the | Taranaki War Question; | in the original Maori, | with an English translation. | Ko te Korero me te | Pukapuka | a Renata Tamakihikurangi, | no te pa whakairo; | ki a te kai-whakahaere tikanga o | nga Pakeha ki Ahuriri; | ko te reo Maori, me te reo Pakeha, | erua tahi. | 1860-61. | Printed at the "Spectator" office, Wellington, New Zealand. | 1861.

8vo. Curiously paged—S., 24; 1., 24 = pp. 48.

A magnificent and logical defence of the Maori position, and a severe indictment of the pakeha's conduct towards the natives. The Superintendent's letter (Thomas Fitzgerald), to which Renata thus forcibly replies, is also given. The "Letter" is reprinted in Hadfield's "Second Year," &c.

[Richmond, C. W.] [Revised Copy.] | Notes | on | Sir William Martin's pamphlet | entitled the | Taranaki Question. | [Published for the New Zealand Government.] | Auckland, January, 1861.

8vo. 64 leaves (n.p.), with one side of each printed, the other blank.

Issued by the Government to justify their policy, and written chiefly by Mr. (afterwards Mr. Justice) Richmond, the Native Minister. The first edition of "Notes" was described as "by the Governor," who certainly never wrote it, and it was withdrawn for this "revised copy." Sir W. Martin's pamphlet is dismembered, and the paragraphs subjected to hostile and sometimes sarcastic criticism.

Translated into Danish by Bishop Monrad, and thence into German by Dr. A. W. Peter. The translations are very feeble.

The author came to the Hokianga from Hobart Town in 1833, and thoroughly identified himself with the Maoris, whose customs, mode of thought, and life are here drawn with great power and spirit. He was appointed Judge of the Native Land Court in 1865, and two judgments of his containing much Maori history were printed in "Important Judgments" (q.v.). He died in London in 1883, æt. 71.

8vo. Pp. xiv, 514.

An able and instructive relation of the times between 1829 and 1859. Chap. xvii deals with the affairs of New Zealand whilst it was an appanage of New South Wales, especially as regards the purchase of lands from the native chiefs by Messrs. Busby and Wentworth. This was denounced by Governor Gibbs in a speech so severe as to destroy his friendship with the latter.

2nd ed. the same year, with corrections and a pocket map with tracings of Australian discoveries by recent explorers. Pp. xiv, 522.

The | Waikato and Ngaruawahia, | the proposed | New Capital | of New Zealand; | with | a railway from Auckland to the proposed New Capital, and thence | to Wellington, with branches to Hawke's Bay and Taranaki; | to be called | the Great Trunk Railway of New Zealand, | by | a Settler. | Auckland: | Wilson and Burn. | Price one shilling. | 1863.

8vo. Pp. 25.

Recommends the removal of the capital to Ngaruawahia, as being so central for war purposes and for the diverging of a railway system.

Wakefield, E. J. What will they do | in the | General Assembly? | A pamphlet | by | Edward Jerningham Wakefield. | Price sixpence. | Auckland: | Creighton & Scales, publishers, | O'Connell Street. | 1863.

8vo. Pp. 37. Dated Coldstream, near Christchurch, 8th October, 1863.

Shows that selfish interests add seriously to the native difficulty. Discusses the motives and capacities of prominent men, who should be watched in Parliament. Is opposed to the idea of separation of the two islands.

Ward, C. Letter | to the | Right Honorable | the | Lord Lyttelton, | on the | Relations of Great Britain | with | the Colonists and Aborigines | of | New Zealand. | By | Crosbie Ward, | a member of the Government and of the House of | Representatives of the Colony. | London: | Edward Stanford, 6, Charing Cross. | 1863.

8vo. Pp. 82. Dated London, April, 1863. The appendix has an Address to the Queen, dated August, 1862, from the House of Representatives.

Contents that the outcry against the New Zealand colonists is unjust and insulting. They were always excluded by the Imperial Government from the management of native affairs; hence they are not responsible for the war and kindred troubles, which really arose from this error. The Imperial Government is therefore bound to assist.

The writer was a Canterbury settler, and an able writer and politician; he died in 1867.

Warren, Rev. J. The Christian Mission | to the | Aborigines of New Zealand, | its connection with | the colonization of the country, and the | results which have followed. | A lecture: | by the | Rev. John Warren, | twenty-four years a Missionary in New Zealand. | . . . Auckland: | Creighton & Scales. | MDCCCLXIII.

8vo. Pp. 37.

Much old history and anecdote. The writer was present at the signing of the Treaty of Waitangi, and denies the existence of any tribal tenure. A patriotic and militant address.

The Rev. Mr. Warren was a Wesleyan missionary, and died in 1883.

Williams, Archdeacon Henry. The Fall of Kororareka | in | 1845.

8vo. Pp. 7.

A letter for the New Zealander, written in 1847, but suppressed at Bishop Selwyn's request, and now published, "as the war with Taranaki and Wai-kato has revived certain idle statements relative to the war in the Bay of Islands in 1845." Sets forth the faithful warnings and assistance the writer rendered at that time.

Sm. 8vo. Pp. x, 409. Portrait of Tamihana te Waharoa and map of Waikato.

The writer sustained the difficult position of Civil Commissioner of the Waikato for eighteen months from 1861. History of the rise and development of the Land League and King movement, and the increasing dislike to the colonists, which ended in war. Condemns the attitude of the Colonial Government, settlers, and the Press. History of the Hokioi and Pihoihoi newspapers.

Grant, J. G. S. The Saturday Review. [

Fol. Pp. 4. Double columns. Issued at Dunedin.

The 2nd number had additional title, "Of Politics, Literature, Philosophy, Science, and Art." The 1st number was issued on the 20th February, 1864, and the 119th on the 3rd June, 1871 ; at first weekly, then irregularly.

A smartly written periodical, with articles on current events and politics, often so cynical and libellous as to land their writer in trouble, and more than once in the gutter. A diary of events from 1855 begins in No. 7, and there is throughout much early incident.

Busby, Esq. | London. | 1865.

8vo. Pp. 11.

Responsible Government for colonies is a mistake, and is quite opposed to constitutional principles. Responsibility should rest with the Governor alone, as of yore.

Busby, J. The | Rebellions of the Maories | traced to | their true origin.
| In two Letters | to the | Right Honorable Edward Cardwell, | Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Colonies. | By James Busby,
Esq. | Her Majesty's Resident at New Zealand from 1832 to 1840, and a settler there since that period. | " If there is one," &c. | London : | Printed by Strangeways & Walden, | Castle St., Leicester Square. | 1865.

8vo. Pp. vii, 52.

Under this misleading title the writer sets forth the history of a land-purchase made by him from the natives in 1839 at Whangarei, and the continuous injustice of the Government since in refusing to complete his title. Similar injustice caused the native outbreak.

8vo. Pp. xii, 114.

Treats in Part 1 of the Constitution and political transactions of New Zealand, and in Part 2 of the land question. Considers that the so-called system of Responsible Government has wrought mischief to the colonists, and that the land question is the original cause of all the misgovernment and the deplorable results of which have afflicted the colony. The previous system was much superior.

Mr. Busby's land grievances were ever present.

Sm. 8vo. Pp. xvi, 268.

Written in England, to allay the great outcry of the public against the expense incurred in sending troops to New Zealand. Disapproves of our attitude in the Taranaki outbreak, but warmly defends it in the case of the Waikato and later outbreak. Drift of the Land League and King movement. Criticizes operations, the quarrel between Governor Grey and General Cameron, and policy of British Government. Rise of Hauhauiism. Condemns the Aborigines Protection and Church Missionary Societies for their mischievous and incorrect strictures. Full references to the British and colonial parliamentary papers.

The Polynesians came from the eastern archipelagoes of Asia, settled at Samoa and Tonga and other groups of islands, some of which were occupied by a dark or negritic race, with whom they intermixed. This occurred first about the Christian era, and afterwards at later periods. The Maoris are a blend of Sandwich-Islanders with the darker Melanesian race.

These views are also developed by the author in the Revue des Deux Mondes, 1st and 15th February, 1864, and in Vol. xxvi of the International Scientific Series (1890)—“The Human Species: their Unity, Origin, Antiquity,” &c.

This matter is further dealt with by the author in “Hommes Fossiles | et Hommes Sauvages: | Etudes d'anthropologie, | &c. | Paris | Bailliére et Fils. | 1884.” 8vo. 209 illustrations and map. Chapter ix treats of the Maoris and Morioris.

8vo. Pp. 83. Dated Rotherwas, near Hereford, 9th Feb.

Of special interest, as treating of the beginning of Responsible Government, native questions, and his own self-reliant policy in relation to the war, which he claims deserves the sympathy and support of the Home-country, rather than its aloofness.

Sir F. A. Weld (born in 1823, died in 1891) explored in 1850 and 1855 the unknown mountainous districts between Nelson and Canterbury. He was a valued settler and eminent politician, and later was Governor successively of Western Australia, Tasmania, and the Straits Settlements.

8vo. Pp. 511. Numerous notes at end.

A charming love-story, full of stirring scenes and brilliant description, surrounded by a network of philosophical disquisition. The scenes are laid on the banks of Rotorua Lake, and the story is full of reference to native customs and songs. Sidney Colvin says, "The poem is a sort of New Zealand 'Atala,' without the Christianity, the self-denial, and the tragic end."

Mr. Domett was the bosom friend and the "Waring" of Robert Browning. He was an early editor or contributor of the Nelson Examiner, which is enriched with much of his writing.

A new edition appeared in 1883 in 2 vols. (q.v.).

Sq. 8vo. Pp. 22. Double columns.

Appears also in the Trans. N.Z. Inst., Vol. vii, 1875, p. 54.

A sequence of these excavations and the premature issue of this pamphlet gave rise to a very pretty quarrel, in which several persons became engaged. Some of the particulars are set forth in the same vol. of Transactions, p. 534. Dr. Haast's theory was that the moa-hunters were a prehistoric race, whilst that of one of the excavators, who also prepared a paper, considered them identical with the Maoris.

8vo. 3 vols. Vol. i : pp. xvi, 247. Vol. ii (1880) : pp. vii, 399. Vol. iii (1885) : pp. xiii, 292.

Vol. iii has additional title, "Comparative Vocabulary | of the | Polynesian and Indo-European Languages, with a Preface by Professor W. D. Alexander, of Punahou College, Honolulu." Issued in the English and Foreign Philosophical Library series.

A laborious work, of great research, to prove that the Polynesian race is intimately connected with the foremost races of antiquity—the Aryan and Cushite; that it occupied the Asiatic Archipelago long before the Malay family, and that it peopled the Pacific by travelling eastward by Sumatra and Java. The volumes abound in legends, chants, manners and customs, and genealogies collected from many islands through a period of years. The 3rd vol. is devoted to a comparative vocabulary, which seeks to connect the Polynesian dialects with the Aryan family of languages, an attempt which a writer in the Saturday Review of the 9th January, 1886, severely characterizes as a substitution of etymological for modern scientific philological method. Pp. 157–200, Vol. ii, gives the Hawaiian native accounts of Capt. Cook's visit and death.

Brett, Star Office.

8vo. Pp. 18, 1.

Land must be nationalised, and yearly valued, two-thirds of the unearned increment going to the State. Money should be borrowed at a cheap rate from the colonists and lent at a cheap rate—2 or 2½ per cent. Luxury, great wealth, and poverty would thus be avoided, and all would thrive.

Centenaire de la Mort de Cook | célébré le 14 février 1879 | à l'hôtel de la Société de Géographie.

8vo. Pp. from 401 to 540. Folded map of Cook's voyages.

This forms the May number of the Bulletin de la Société de Géographie, published in Paris by Ch. Delagrave, 15 Rue Soufflot. It reports the séance held by this distinguished society in honour and commemoration of Captain Cook's centenary, and forms a most valuable contribution to the knowledge of his life and labours. Eloquent addresses were delivered relating to Cook, Dalrymple, and Hawkesworth, and they review the rapidly increasing knowledge of Oceania. An extensive collection of articles which had belonged to Cook or was in some way connected with his discoveries was exhibited, and a full cartography and bibliography issued, which it is important to consult.

1. Address of Vice-Admiral Baron de la Roncière-le Noury, president of the society. 2. Cook, by William Hüber. 3. Cook and Dalrymple, by Dr. E. T. Hamy. 4. Recent Oceania, by C. de Varigny. 5. Address by Admiral Roncière-le Noury. 5. Descriptive and classified catalogue of the exhibition organized by the society. (The exhibition, which contained 355 exhibits, remained open for eight days, and was visited by many thousand visi.o.s.) 6. Cartography and bibliography, by James Jackson, archivist of the society. This contained 10 items, including numerous maps, charts, and atlases, and a list of nearly 450 works relating to Cook—often remotely. They contain many verbal and literal errors, and are not always otherwise correct; a careful revision, with additions, would amply repay the labour.

Roy. 4to. 2 vols. Vol. i : Text ; pp. x, 465, 48 ; woodcuts. Vol. ii : plates ; pp. xiv, and 125 plates.

Contains Sir Richard Owen's revised and numerous contributions to the subject. The Apteryx, Notornis, Harpagornis, and other birds have memoirs, besides the several species of Dinornis contained in the genus. Portion of a moa's femur was brought from New Zealand to England in 1839 by a sailor, who stated it was the bone of a huge eagle called "Movie," and asked £10 for it. It was first thought to be an ox-bone, but finally Professor Owen recognised its avian character, and described it, with his conclusions and figures, in the Proc. Zool. Soc., part vii, 1839. Further specimens, sent by the Rev. W. Williams, who wrote a long historical letter, and from others, enabled him to write his monograph on "Dinornis, &c.," in the Trans. Zool. Soc., Vol. iii, part iii, 1843. Then followed his later contributions (of which there are 41), here collected. One is on the food and nests of the moa, and the traditions of the natives, and he adduces proof from Sir George Grey's "Poems, Traditions," &c., of old Maori references to and acquaintance with this long-extinct bird. Other references of the sort are found in the Trans. N.Z. Inst. A splendid drawing of the Notornis is in the plates.

A good account of Dinornis, and of its discovery, is in Chambers's Journal, 15th April, 1848.

The Trans. N.Z. Inst. have many papers on the subject, especially important ones by Professors Hutton and Parker.

The "Tasmanian Journal" Vol. ii, p. 81 (1843) has a paper, with illustration, by W. Colenso of the first native account of the moa, in 1838, with subsequent finding in 1839 of the bones.

A bibliography of the Dinornithidæ, by Mr. A. Hamilton, is in Vols. xxvi, p. 229, and xxvii, p. 228, Trans. N.Z. Inst.

Tucker, Rev. H. W. Memoir of the Life and Episcopate | of | George Augustus Selwyn, D.D. | Bishop of New Zealand, 1841-1869; | Bishop of Lichfield, 1867-1878. | By the | Rev. H. W. Tucker, M.A., | author of "Under His Banner," "Memoir of Bishop Field," &c. &c. | with two Portraits, Lithographs, and Maps. | "Implesti meritis solis utramque domum." | In Two Volumes. | London: William Wells Gardner, 2, Paternoster Buildings. | 1879.

Vol. i: pp. xii, 399. Vol. ii: pp. vi, 393.

The author, not personally acquainted with Bishop Selwyn, skilfully compiled this work chiefly from letters, from which valuable extracts are made. Bishop Selwyn's attitude in the Taranaki war is especially interesting. Pastoral addresses to the clergy, and building up the Church constitution; St. John's College; Sir William Martin; general attitude and connection with public questions; founding the Melanesian mission; but an insufficient delineation.

A worthy life of this most eminent bishop in relation to his beloved New Zealand yet remains to be written. He died at Lichfield in April, 1878, æt. 69.

Autobiography in the Otago Witness, commencing on the 26th November, 1881, and continuing for 22 chapters. Perhaps the same as "Scenes from the Life of John Marmon": Auckland; 1880 (New Zealand Herald?).

Many positive misstatements, and much that is doubtful.

Marmon was a Botany Bay convict and whaler, and settled finally in New Zealand in 1817. He died at Hokianga on the 2nd September, 1880, æt. 81.

Massey, G. A | Book of the Beginnings. | Containing an attempt to recover and reconstitute the lost origins | of the myths and mysteries, types and symbols, religion and language | with Egypt for the mouthpiece and Africa as the birthplace. | By | Gerald Massey. | Volume I. | Egyptian Origins in the British Isles. | London: | Williams & Norgate, &c. | 1881.

Imp. 8vo. Pp. viii. 503.

Vol. ii: "Egyptian Origins in the Akkado-Assyrian and Maori." Pp. vi (n.p.), 684.

A work of enormous labour. From a vocabulary of 1,000 Maori words, paralleled with the same number of Egyptian, concludes the primal identity of the two languages. This is elaborated in the subsequent extensive commentary, where it is especially attempted to show, from mythology, rites, and ceremonies, the Egyptian origin of the Maori, as in the chapter on the "African Origins of the Maori." This heterogeneous assemblage of words and facts is, however, enlisted to do duty for scientific philology and ethnology.

The Polynesians are not of Asiatic origin, nor descended from the Malays, nor emigrants from America. They are the "spontaneous product" of one island, called Hawaiki, which is the Middle Island of New Zealand. Thence they spread, at an uncertain date, over the Pacific, and to Africa, America, and Asia. The Maoris are therefore the ancestors of the Polynesians, and Maori is the mother-tongue of all the Polynesian dialects.

Ferguson, D. Castle Gay, | and other poems. | By | Dugald Ferguson. | — — | Dunedin | N.Z.: | Printed by John Mackay, Moray Place. | MDCCCLXXXIII.

8vo. Pp. xiv, 304.

Fox, Sir W. A Chapter in the History of New Zealand. The Treaty of Waitangi. Proc. Roy. Col. Inst., xiv, 100-24, with the discussion.

Considers that, though the Crown's possession of New Zealand rests more strongly on the "right of discovery" than upon the Treaty of Waitangi, the latter has gained validity through the lapse of time. Hence the confiscation of lands from natives recently engaged in the war was a proper punishment for rebellious subjects.

notes on Maori customs. Report, ii, 590, Proc. Brit. Assoc.

Quatrefages, A. de. Les Moas et les chasseurs de Moas. "Journal des Savants," 1883.

Controverts Haast's theory of the "Moa and the Moa-hunters," which was that the moa belonged to the Post-Pliocene period, was hunted by a race of primitive men, and that both became extinct long before the advent of the Maori.

Rusden, G. W. History | of | New Zealand. | By | G. W. Rusden. | In
Three Volumes. | London: | Chapman & Hall, Ltd. | Melbourne & Sydney:
George Robertson. | 1883.

8vo. Vol. i: pp. ix, 655. Vol. ii: pp. 606. Vol. iii: pp. 540.

A full and scholarly work, abounding in laborious research and criticism, discounted by strong philo-Maori views, and censure on the treatment adopted towards the natives since our first contact with them, and especially during the war of 1860-69. An outcome of this was that the author was tried for libel in the case Bryce v. Rusden, and was mulcted in heavy costs, his "History" being also suppressed. Some choose to view the work as a "bitter political libel" rather than a philosophical history.

2nd ed. appeared in 1889, as a reprint, with the previous objectionable passages excised.

Scandrett, W. B. Southland and its Resources, being a Paper by Mr. W. B. Scandrett, read at a meeting of the Southland Institute, Sep. 18th 1883, together with comments by members.

"Evening Star" office. | 1885.

8vo. Pp. iv, 132. Illustration, Tetoro, Chief of Ngapuhi.

An assemblage of facts and suggestions from numerous sources. Concludes that the ancestors of the Maori "walked with Abraham," formed a branch of the Cushite migration to southern Arabia (the Sabaians), progressed eastward to the Indian Archipelago, Sumatra, and Java, and then peopled the Pacific. The appendix has Maning's "Legend of Maui," an ancient calendar, and a table from Wallace of 17 words in 35 languages.

Filhol, Dr. Henri. Mission de l'Isle Campbell.

4to. Pp. 576 (zoologie), 23 (botanique), 180 (géologie). Atlas des planches; 4to: Anatomie et zoologie, pl. iv; géologie, pl. xiii.

Forming Dr. Filhol's report to the Académie des Sciences on the zoology, botany, and geology of Campbell Island. This was part of the work undertaken by the French expedition to observe the transit of Venus on the 9th December, 1874, at that island. It forms the second part of the 3rd vol. of the collection of memoirs, reports, and documents of the expedition. The zoological part is almost confined to the anatomy of the penguins, and a description of the New Zealand and Campbell Island Crustacea, Mollusca, and Cœlenterata. The botanical section is chiefly a list of plants taken from Hooker and Kirk, and of diatoms. The geological portion discusses various New Zealand regions beyond Campbell Island. The plates are of great beauty, and the rock sections are coloured.

8vo. Pp. xxiii. 255.

Contains also a reprint of the original Maori, "Nga Mahinga," &c., 1854, of which the above is the translation ; and there is a trifling alteration from the illustrations in the 1st ed. Pp. 19.

The preface reviews the changes that have occurred amongst the Maori chiefs in thirty years by wars and death ; also tabulates the books in Maori which have been given to Cape Town, adds others to the list, and expresses the hope that in time these may be returned to New Zealand, perhaps in exchange for South African literature deposited in the Auckland Library.

The 12mo reprint in 1906, by Routledge and Sons, does not contain the original Maori or the illustrations.

Large fol. Pp. xxxi, 681, 5 (n.p.). Double columns. Portrait of Malaspina, track of the voyage, and illustrations.

Apparently the first complete account of this able but unfortunate seaman's voyage round the world. Cast into prison, his extensive manuscripts, ready for publication, were suppressed, and this volume must be viewed as really forming the first edition. The writer describes his unsuccessful efforts during a couple of days in February, 1792, to enter Dusky Bay. A translation of this portion is in McNab's "Murihiku" (pp. 49-56), q.v. He then bore away for Botany Bay.

This interesting circumnavigation is worthy of an English translation. The sketches, charts, and scientific details are now in the Hydrographic Office of Spain, whilst copies seem to be in private hands in Chile.

A clear statement of a difficult question in quaint and vigorous language. From 1840 to 1856 the position was one of change and confusion, fraught with mischief to both races. Then a Commission of inquiry and other measures grappled with the difficulty. In 1865 and onward Native Land Courts and better legislation were instituted, and the writer points out defects in these, and suggests improvements for the future.

A review appears in the Saturday Review of the 17th November, 1888, bound in with Vols. iii and iv.

In 1891 a volume of illustrations to the work was issued (q.v.).

The author of this work arrived at Hokianga with his father in 1835, as a boy of six years old. His knowledge of native habits and customs, and mode of thought, was most profound, and for many years he was engaged in the preparation of this work, very much of which yet remains in manuscript. He died at Auckland in 1891, æt. 70.

8vo. Pp. 27, 4 (n.p.). 4 drawings showing "The Ships of the Future."

In 1867 the author wrote "The | Ships of Tarshish : | a sequel to Sue's 'Wandering Jew.' | By 'Mohao.'" | London : | Hall & Co., 25, Paternoster Row." 8vo. Pp. (preface n.p.), 104. Picture of the author's battleships on the cover. A clever story, culminating in a catastrophe resulting from England's unpreparedness for war. Entirely new lines are suggested for the construction of battleships which curiously foreshadow those on which modern ironclads are built. This book, though printed, was not published until 1884, when it was issued with a Prologue of 32 pp., wherein the author's ideas of seventeen years previous are amplified and otherwise modified. In the Epilogue above they are still further modified. Mr. Fairburn was a son of one of the earliest New Zealand missionaries.

Tregear, E. The | Maori-Polynesian | Comparative Dictionary | By | Edward Tregear | F.R.G.S. ; F.R.Hist.S. ; &c. &c. | "Manus manum lavat." | Wellington, N.Z. : | Lyon & Blair, Lambton Quay | 1891.

Large 8vo. Pp. xxiv, 675. Double columns.

Preface gives works consulted—about 160. Introduction of 12 pages gives letter-changes taking place in 11 Polynesian languages. Dictionary proper compares with Samoan, Tahitian, Hawaiian, Tongan, Rarotongan, Marquesan, Mangarevan, Paumotan, Moriori, and extra-Polynesia, such as Fijian, Malay, and Malagasy. Gives examples of a word's use, and contains much mythological reference. At the end is a partial Anglo-Maori vocabulary. A work of great research and labour, though the philological conclusions are not always trustworthy or justified.

Hocken, Dr. T. M. Old Maori Drawings by Tui (Tooi) and Teeterree (Titiri).

An account of these and of the chiefs themselves, who visited England in 1818, is given in the New Zealand Herald, Auckland, 10th April, 1897. The drawings are now deposited in the Free Public Library, Auckland. Small oil portraits of these chiefs were painted by Mr. Charles Barry, of London, in 1818, for the Church Missionary Society, and were presented to the New Zealand Government by the committee in November, 1906. For three-quarters of a century these remained at the Church Missionary House unidentified.

Colenso, Rev. W. A | Maori-English Lexicon : | being a | Comprehensive Dictionary | of the | New Zealand Tongue ; | including | mythical, mythological, "taboo" or sacred, genealogical, proverbial, poetical, | tropological, sacerdotal, incantatory, natural-history, idiomatical, abbreviated, | tribal, and other names and terms of and allusions to persons, | things, acts, and places in ancient times ; | also, | showing their affinities with cognate Polynesian dialects and foreign languages ; | with copious pure Maori examples. | Part I.—Maori-English. | By the | Rev. W. Colenso, F.R.S., and F.L.S. ; &c. | Wellington. | By Authority : | John Mackay, Government Printer, | 1898.

Roy. 8vo. Pp. xi, 111 ; English-Maori (Part ii), and addendum, pp. 21. Proceeds as far as the word "Angutu." The English-Maori part gives less than 100 disconnected examples. This specimen was the sole one issued, excepting a few pages in G.-6, Vol. ii, of the Appendix to the House of Representatives, 1880, and again in G.-2, Vol. ii, 1882.

The work was commenced in 1865, under Government auspices, but was resultless, perhaps owing to the ponderous method adopted, which evidently it was impossible to carry out. Hence there was no progress, but much strife, of which the preface and addendum give some account.

Garnett, Dr. Richard. Edward Gibbon | Wakefield | the Colonization of South Australia | and New Zealand | By | R. Garnett, C.B., LL.D. | With Photogravure Frontispiece and Maps | London | T. Fisher Unwin | Paternoster Square | MDCCCXCVIII.

8vo. Pp. xxvii, 386.

A fairly complete biography of a genius, great Empire-builder, and coloniser on a system of his own devising and known by his name.

Wakefield, who was born in 1796, died at Wellington on the 16th May, 1862, in chagrin, ill health, and solitude, after a life of conspicuous activity.

Hocken, Dr. T. M. Contributions | to | the Early History | of | New Zealand | [Settlement of Otago] | By | Thomas Morland Hocken, M.R.C.S. Eng., F.L.S., | Member of the Otago University Council. | ——— | With Portraits and other Illustrations | London | Sampson Low, Marston & Co. | &c. | 1898.

8vo. Pp. xv, 342. 7 appendices.

Some preliminary and concurrent history of the New Zealand Company from 1839, and a sketch of the Middle Island, with its old whalers, and first missionary, Mr. Watkin ; struggles of early settlement. Brings the history down to the time when gold-discoveries and an influx of population changed the old life. The diary and journal of Mr. Tuckett and of Dr. (Sir David) Monro in 1844 ; official correspondence of Colonel Wakefield and the New Zealand Company in 1844 ; list of vessels and emigrants from 1847 to 1850 ; and a précis of principal events from 1840 to 1897. Portraits of principal leaders of the settlement, and several very early views.

Hudson, G. V. New Zealand | Moths and Butterflies | (Macro-Lepidoptera). | By | G. V. Hudson, F.E.S., | Author of "An Elementary Manual of New Zealand Entomology." | With 12 Plates. | London : | West, Newman & Co., 54, Hatton Garden, E.C. | 1898.

4to. Pp. xix, 144.

The introduction treats of the metamorphosis, anatomy, origin, classification, and distribution of the New Zealand order. Full descriptions given. Appendix gives a brief descriptive list of the plants which supply the food of these insects.

Toenga Pou, the Wizard Priest ; the Bishop among the Whalers ; and other tales, which are recitals of old history, well told.

Morris, Professor E. E. Austral English | a Dictionary of | Australasian Words | Phrases and Usages | With those Aboriginal-Australian and Maori Words which | have become incorporated in the language and the | commoner Scientific Words that have had | their origin in Australasia | By | Edward E. Morris | M.A., Oxon. | Professor of English, French, and German Languages and Literatures | in the University of Melbourne | London | Macmillan and Co. Ltd. | New York : The Macmillan Company | 1898.

8vo. Pp. xxiv, 525. Double columns.

By no means a dictionary of slang, but a description of the new words and the new uses of old words developed amongst colonists, whose surroundings are new. Gives their origin and derivation, accompanied by examples taken from well-known writers. Many such words and phrases are peculiar to New Zealand.

The Official Record | of | the Otago | Jubilee Industrial | Exhibition. | Held in Dunedin, New Zealand, | from March 22nd to June 4th, 1898, | to Celebrate the Completion of the First Fifty | Years of the Province of Otago. | Dunedin : | Mills, Dick & Co., General Printers, Octagon. | 1898.

Smith, S. P. Hawaiki : | the Whence of the Maori ; | with a Sketch of Poly-nesian History ; | being an Introduction to the Native | History of Rarotonga.
| He ahunga mai, &c. | By S. Percy Smith, F.R.G.S. | (From the Journal of the Polynesian Society.) | Whitcombe & Tombs Ltd. | &c. | 1898.

Roy. 8vo. Pp. 128.

A scholarly examination of the question, with an account of the author's researches at Rarotonga, his conclusion being that the last Maori migration (nearly 600 years ago) was from Tahiti, with a prolonged interval by the way at Rarotonga. There were previous migrations, and it seems probable that earlier still the Polynesian race originated in the Gangetic basin, at intervals migrating eastward.

2nd ed. in 1904 (q.v.).

Published originally in Vols. vii and viii of the "Polynesian Journal."

Pp. 35-75. Plates 101-243.

Part iii: 1905. Pp. 6 (n.p., introduction), 77-102. Plates 244-318, also 45a and 122, previously omitted. 3 maps of the Australian coast and New Zealand, as reproduced from Captain Wharton's "Captain Cook's Journal," of 1893. An inset directs the binder as to arrangement of the final title-page, introduction, &c. The printer has blundered over the pagination.

These volumes contain the reproductions made, by order of the Trustees of the British Museum, from the plates, engraved at Sir Joseph Banks's expense, of the beautiful drawings of plants made during Cook's First Voyage.
The descriptions are printed verbatim from the original manuscripts, and to them Mr. Britten has added such notes and an introduction as add to the value and interest of this important work, and bring it up to the requirements of present botanical knowledge.

8vo. Pp. viii, 203.

This is an abridged translation into German by Professor Dr. H. Gravelius from the Russian of Bellingshausen's Voyage to the South Frozen Sea in 1819–21. The original was published at St. Petersburg in 1831, in 2 vols. 4to, and is as rare as it is important. After a stay at Sydney, the expedition left on the 8th May, 1820, for New Zealand, entering Queen Charlotte's Sound via the west coast, where they remained for nearly a fortnight, thence sailing for Tahiti. Returning to Sydney, they proceeded south on the 31st October, sighting Macquarie Island on the 17th November, remaining there three days making scientific observations and collections. Sailing still south, they advanced to the ice-wall and discovered land, their furthest latitude being 69° S. Interesting references to Sydney, the Rev. S. Marsden, the stay at New Zealand, and a good account of Macquarie Island and the fisheries. A translation of the last into English is in McNab's "Murihuku," p. 190, q.v., 1907. A translation of the whole of Gravelius's abridgment is in preparation.

8vo. Pp. 32.

Such of the official publications which appeared to be of special interest and importance have been noted throughout this bibliography at length. Others which are chiefly of a purely governmental character have not always been noted: such are the volumes of Statistics, Statutes, Parliamentary Debates, Parliamentary Papers, various Acts, regulations, and rules, and others of a similar class, all of which will be found in the above list. It should be mentioned that the Statistics of the colony first appeared in 1858, in a volume for the years 1853 to 1856. Previous partial ones are noted in this bibliography. The Parliamentary Debates from 1854 to 1866 were compiled by Mr. Maurice FitzGerald, who gathered them from newspapers and original sources, and they were published in 1885-87. The Blue-books, or Appendices to the Votes and Proceedings of the House of Representatives and to the Legislative Council, have been published from the first session in 1854.

An interesting and complicated native-land case in which Sir Walter Buller was involved. He was summoned before the bar of the House, a Royal Commission was set up, lasting for many weeks, and there was much newspaper discussion. Sir Walter published in 1896 his address to the Commission as counsel for Major Kemp (Te Rangihwinui) and the Muaupoko Tribe in an 8vo pamphlet of 33 pages, followed by another containing his "Objections to the Report of the Commission." An opposite statement of the case is given at great length in the Manawatu Farmer and Horowhenua County Chronicle of the 4th March, 1896, stated to be written by Sir William Fox.

MAORI BIBLIOGRAPHY.

GREAT difficulty attends the classification and bibliography of the Maori section.

Many publications were issued without title, date, or imprint; leaflets of different size and date and on diverse subjects were often bound together, and sometimes even those on the same subject were printed in parts and at distant intervals.

The best method of grouping seems to the author to begin with Scripture translation and religious matter generally, as being the first in point of time; and then to follow with educational issues, general literature, and much that is difficult to define. Overlap is unavoidable, and must often necessitate the student's scrutiny.

A method of identification resorted to in the case of many tiresome publications is the use of millimetric measurement (μ). This is applied solely to the area of the printed matter—the perpendicular measure including the page-number, and the horizontal a complete-line length.

As also of some assistance, the author suggests the perusal of his paper on "Some Account of the Beginnings of Literature in New Zealand" (Trans. N.Z. Inst., Vol. xxxiii, p. 472), and also a paper by him presented to the Maori Congress in July, 1908 (and printed in their Proceedings), on "The Maori Newspaper Literature of New Zealand."

From the first, and especially after the date of colonisation, earnest efforts were made to cultivate in the native a taste for reading and knowledge.

For the advantage of those unacquainted with the Maori tongue English translations are appended to most of the original titles.

A list likely to be useful is given of the Maorified names, with their English equivalents, of places of publication.

400 copies were printed, at a cost of £41. (Vide Missionary Register, April, 1828, p. 214, and Coleman's "Memoir of Rev. R. Davis," p. 96.)

The first translation of Scripture into Maori.

[1830.]

Kenehi [1st, 2nd, and 3rd chapters of Genesis]; Matiu [first 9 chapters of St. Matthew]; Hoani [first 4 chapters of St. John]; Koriniti I [first 6 chapters of Corinthians 1st]; ko te Inoinga i te Ata [Morning Prayer]; ko te Inoinga i te Ahiahi [Evening Prayer]; ko nga Ture o te Atua [the Ten Commandments]; ko te Katikihama I [the 1st Catechism]; ko te Katikihama II [the 2nd Catechism]; ko nga Himene [hymns, 19 in number].

Sm. 8vo. Pp. 117. μ 150 x 75. Sydney: Printed by R. Mansfield for the executors of R. Howe. Scripture portion in double columns.

Put through the press by the Rev. William Yate, who was six months in Sydney for the purpose. 550 copies were printed (vide Missionary Register, January, 1831, p. 67). No date and no title-page. Translations from the Scriptures, &c. (1831: July.)

Forms the second translated portion of the Scriptures.

Mr. Yate brought back with him a small press, on which he printed one or two leaflets or slips containing a few hymns and a small catechism, the only specimen of which known to the author is in the possession of the Church Missionary Society in London.

Ko te Tahi Wahi o | Te Kawenata hou | o Ihu Karaiti te Ariki, | to tatou Kai Wakaora. | Me nga upoko e waru | o te Pukapuka o Kenehi. | Ka oti nei te wakamaori ki te reo o | Nu Tirani. | — | Hirini: | Kua oti te ta e te Tipene raua ko te Toki. | — | 1833.

Sm. 4to. Pp. 170. Double columns. μ 163 x 120.

Contains the first 8 chapters of Genesis, the Gospels of St. Matthew and St. John, Acts of the Apostles, Romans, and the 1st Epistle to the Corinthians.

The Rev. William Yate superintended the printing of this at Sydney in 1833, as well as the Liturgy, 27 hymns, and catechisms, &c. (Vide Yate's "New Zealand," p. 231; Missionary Register for 1833, p. 471; and Carleton's "Life of Williams," Vol. i, p. 138, and Appendix D, p. x.)

This formed the third translation of Scripture into Maori.

Ko te | Pukapuka Inoinga | me nga karakia | Hakarameta, | me era Ritenga hoki o te Hahi o | Ingarani. | — | Hirini : | Kua oti te ta e te Tipene raua ko te Toki. | — | 1833.

Sm. 4to. Pp. 88. μ 163 x 120. Double columns.

Contains Morning and Evening Service shortened and adapted; sacrament of the Lord's Supper; infant and adult baptism; marriage, churching, and burial services; 4 catechisms; and 27 hymns.

Seen through the press by Rev. William Yate at the same time as those portions of Scripture noted above. The two publications consisted of 3,300 copies, and cost £500.

Ko nga | Katikihama | ewa; | ka oti nei te wakamaori | ki te reo o | Nu Tirani | — | Hirini : | Kua oti te ta e te Tipene raua ko te Toki | 1833.

12mo. Pp. 55. μ 118 x 58.

4 catechisms. Printed at Sydney by Stephens and Stokes (Tipene e Toki), under Mr. Yate's supervision, as above.

1835.

Ko nga pukapuka | o Paora te Apotoro | ki te hungao | Epeha, o Piripai. | — | Paihia : | He mea ta i te perehi o nga mihanere o te | Hahi o Ingarani. | 1835.

Sm. 8vo. Pp. 16. μ 147 x 90. Double columns. On title-page a woodcut of Christ healing the blind.

The Epistles to the Ephesians and to the Philippians.

The first-fruits of the Church Missionary press which was landed at Paihia on the 30th December, 1834. Printed by William Colenso, who came out as the Church Missionary Society's printer and in charge of this press. William Richard Wade came out at the same time as superintendent of the press, but speedily relinquished his duties for those of a catechist. Adopting Baptist views he left for Hobart in 1842, assuming charge of the Baptist Church there. (Vide Wade, p. 107.) In 1842 John Telford was sent out as printer, superseding Colenso, who was ordained deacon in 1844.

Ko te | rongo pai | i | tuhituhia | e | Ruka. | — | Paihia : | He mea ta i te perehi o nga mihanere o te | Hahi o Ingarani. | 1835.

Sm. 8vo. Pp. 67. μ 147 x 90. Double columns. On title-page a woodcut of Christ in the temple. Upoko 2, 46.

The Gospel of St. Luke.

Colenso completed printing this in December, and bound it in with the Epistles above.

1837.

Ko te | Kawenata Hou | o | to tatou Ariki te Kai Wakaora | a Ihu Karaiti. | — | He mea wakamaori i te reo Kariki. | — | Paihia : | He mea ta i te perehi o nga Mihanere o te Hahi | o Ingarani. | — | 1837.

Demy 8vo. Pp. 356. μ 186 x 114. Double columns.

The first complete New Testament; 5,000 copies printed. Translated by the Rev. William Williams, afterwards the first Bishop of Waiau, his chief helpers being Messrs. Puckey and Shepherd. The letter "w" is non-aspirated, as was always the case with the earliest publications.

In 1841 an edition was printed in London with the same title, excepting that after "Kariki" was "Ranana | He mea ta i te perehi o Wareta Makaro-vera ma te peretihī | me te Poreni Paipera Hohaieti. | ——— | 1841." [London: Walter McDowall, for the Foreign Bible Society.] Sm. 8vo. Pp. 387. Double columns. "W" non-aspirated.

In 1842 an edition was printed with the same title as the 1841 ed. Sm. 8vo. Pp. 371. Double columns. "W" non-aspirated.

In 1844 there was another edition, with the same title as the 1841 ed., except that after "Ranana" is "He mea ta i te Perehi o T. R. Harihona ma te Peretihī | me te Poreni Paipera Hohaieti | 1844." Sm. 8vo. Pp. 360. Double columns. μ 160 x 90. At the end is "London: Harrison and Co., Printers, St. Martin's Lane." "W" non-aspirated.

In 1852 another edition was printed, with the same title as the 1841 ed., excepting that after "Ranana" is "He mea ta i te Perehi o T. R. Harihona raua ko tana tama | ma te Huihuinga ta Paipera mo Ingarani mo te Ao katoa. | 1852." Large 8vo. Pp. 371. μ 192 x 110. Double columns. At the end is "Printed by Harrison and Son | London Gazette Office, St. Martin's Lane; | and | Orchard St., Westminster." This is a very different translation from the preceding ones, and the letter "w" is aspirated. It also differs in translation from the succeeding New Testament in the Paipera Tapu of 1868.

In 1840 portions were bound up with the title-page, "Ko tetahi wahanga | o te Kawenata Hou | o | to tatou Ariki te kai wakaora | a Ihu Karaiti. | He mea wakamaori i te reo Kariki. | Paihia: | He mea ta i, &c. | 1840." 8vo. Contains Maka, pp. 47-73; Ruka, 74-120; Korimiti, 221-52; Karatia, 253-59; Epeha, 260-66; Piripai, 267-71; and Korohe, 272-76. Despite the title-page, these portions of the New Testament are uniform with the 1837 ed. There is a trifling difference in the disposition of the type in Epeha. Probably this selection was made up from odd remnants and so utilised for distribution amongst the natives.

[Broughton, Bishop.] Ko te | pukapuka kauwau | o te Pihopa, | ki te hunga Wakapono | o Nu Tirani, | e huihui ana ki te Hahi o Ingarani, i te | wakaminenga ki Paihia, | mo te | Karakia o te wakapanga ringa ringa, | Hanuere 5, 1839, &c. | Paihia: | He mea ta i te perehi o nga mihanere o te | Hahi o Ingarani. | 1839.

Sm. 8vo. Pp. 4. μ 143 x 83.

Bishop Broughton's sermon or address to the natives at the first confirmation in New Zealand. A translation of this is in the Missionary Register for December, 1839, p. 551; also in "Missions of the Church Missionary Society," &c., 1840 (vide p. 82). It was translated by the Rev. W. Williams.

The Bishop arrived at the Bay of Islands on the 21st December, 1838, in H.M.S. "Pelorus," Captain Harding, accompanied by the Rev. O. Hadfield. He consecrated a burial-ground, confirmed 44 natives and 20 whites (mostly children of missionaries), and on the 6th January ordained Mr. Hadfield to priest's orders. On the 7th he sailed for the Thames, baptised three of Mr. Fairburn's children, and left for Norfolk Island on the 12th.

Ko te | rongo pai | ki te ritenga | o Matiu. | Ranana—1841.

12mo. Pp. 114. μ 93 x 53. Has the impress of a bishop's mitre on the leather binding.

Some hundreds of this small edition of St. Matthew's Gospel were printed by the S.P.G. for Bishop Selwyn on his departure for New Zealand in 1841.

Ko nga | korero ki te Wakapono | a te Hahi o Ingarani.

12mo. Pp. 13 (127-39).

The 39 Articles of the Church of England.

Translated by Colenso at Paihia.

[Probationary copies (so called) of the following portions of the New Testament Scripture were distributed to the missionaries, who were expected to revise and perfect the translation in their converse with the natives. There is no indication of date or place of printing, but these would probably be about 1846-47, at St. John's College, Tamaki. They were 8vo.; μ 160 x 60; blank interleaved; and bound in linen. On the outside a label was pasted with "St. ——. Probationary Copy. To be returned to — before —." And on the inside, "Resolutions passed at the Central Committee of the Church Mission, held at St. John's College, September 14th, 1847.—(1.) That the Bishop, the Rev. G. A. Kissling, and the Rev. R. Maunsell be a sub-committee for managing the details of the Printing Department. (2.) Probationary copies of all new translations to be printed in sufficient numbers to allow of copies being sent to every member of the Church Mission and of the Wesleyan Mission. (3.) That from the time of the printing of any probationary copy of a translation of any portion of the Holy Scriptures a space of twelve months be allowed to enable the Archdeacons and Rev. Mr. Maunsell to collect the suggestions of the members of both missions, and that at the expiration of that time the sub-syndicate, on application of the Venerable Archdeacon W. Williams and Rev. Mr. Maunsell conjointly, be empowered to print a sufficient number of copies for the supply of the two missions. As a general rule, all books are to be issued in proportion to the scale of population as determined by census. The members of the syndicate most earnestly request the members of both missions to give full effect to the above resolutions by collecting and forwarding to them all such remarks and suggestions as may tend to make the version of the New Zealand Bible as correct as possible.—(Signed) G. A. NEW ZEALAND, G. A. KISSLING, R. MAUNSELL."

The following formed the probationary copies :—

Ko te rongo pai a Matiu [Matthew]. Pp. 5-67.

Ko te rongo pai a Maka [Mark]. Pp. 68-106.

Ko te rongo pai a Ruka [Luke]. Pp. 107-73.

Ko te rongo pai a Hoani [John]. Pp. 175-226.

Ko nga Mahi o nga Apotero [Acts of the Apostles]. Pp. 227-289.]

THE OLD TESTAMENT (TE KAWENATA TAWHITO).

[The definite translation of the Old Testament was commenced in 1839, the Rev. Robert Maunsell being the chief translator and authority. Owing to the frequent absence of title-page and date, and irregular sequence in the translation, the collation is very difficult. But little work was done at Paihia, and this was covered by a few chapters from Exodus, Deuteronomy, Joshua, and Isaiah by Mr. Maunsell, and a few from Daniel and Jonah by Mr. Colenso. In 1845 the Church Missionary press was removed to Purewa, and thence to St. John's College, and the work proceeded uninterruptedly. Every few chapters, or a complete book, were sewn or jacketed in brown-paper wrappers, specimens of which are still occasionally seen. When these were numerous enough they were roughly bound and interleaved for distribution and emendation. Three of such sets made up the completed Old Testament, and were forwarded to London for reprint by the British and Foreign Bible Society, the first section appearing in 1848. The completed and perfect Bible (Te Paipera Tapu) was first issued at London in 1868. This introduction will simplify the following details.]

From v. 15 of chap. 17 to the end of Job.

[The Psalms of David, translated by the end of 1840 at Paihia, were included in the Pukapuka o nga Inoinga (Morning and Evening Prayer), and were reprinted in London in 1848, as follows :]

26. Ko nga Waiata | a Rawiri. | — | Katahi ka taia ki te reo Maori. | Ranana : | He mea ta i te perehi o W. Watts, | ma te peritihi me te Poreni Paipera | Hohaieti. | 1848.

12mo. Pp. 237. qu 113 x 65. At the end is, "Ranana : he mea ta i te perehi o W. Watts, Crown Court, Temple Bar."

The same translation of the Psalms is also given on pp. 157-309 of the Prayer-book of 1848.

[The preceding and second instalments of the Old Testament, numbered 13 to 26, were reprinted by the British and Foreign Bible Society, as follows :]

Ko | tetahi wahi | o | Te Kawenata Tawhito. | — | He mea whakamaori mai no te reo Hiperu. | — | No Ranana : | Na te Komiti ta Paipera. | — | 1855.

Sm. 8vo. Pp. 345-817. On verso of title-page is, "I taia ki te perehi o Wiremu M. Wati."

This forms the second instalment or volume of the Old Testament published in London by the British and Foreign Bible Society, and it contains the books from Judges to the Psalms, with some alterations from the Paihia and St. John's College originals.

[The remaining books of the Old Testament, still without date and title-page, here numbered from 27 to 46 (Proverbs to Malachi), were, as before, the Rev. Robert Maunsell's translation almost entirely. They appeared in two parts or volumes, sm. 8vo, paginated from 1 to 576, and were printed at St. John's College in 1856. Some were interleaved and distributed to secure further correction.

To the first part—Proverbs to Lamentations (Ko Whakatauki—Ko nga Tangi a Heremaia), pp. 1 to 329—the following notice was prefixed : "The printing of the translation of the portion of the Holy Scriptures not yet published in the Maori language having proceeded so far from the Book of Proverbs to the Prophecies of Ezekiel, the committee charged with the present superintendence of the undertaking have resolved to distribute the portion now in print amongst those whose aid in the revision of the translation is anticipated, without waiting for the completion of the whole of the Old Testament. Thus the revision can go forward simultaneously with the printing of the remainder, which it is expected will be completed in a few months. The concluding portion, to the end of Malachi, will, when ready, be similarly circulated ; and on the receipt of the emendations which may be sent in, the plan as originally proposed will be carried out by placing the Rev. R. Maunsell's translation with the suggested emendations in the hands of a committee of final revision to be appointed by the recognised local authorities of the two missionary societies acting conjointly. It is earnestly requested that the ministers and lay friends to whom the books are now forwarded will direct their attention without delay to the subject ; and that the books, with such emendations of the translation as they may see fit to propose, shall be returned to the Secretary, at Auckland, if possible, not later than the end of the present year. On behalf of the Maori Bible Translation Committee, JOHN B. BENNETT, Secretary.—Auckland, May 1, 1856.”]

27. Ko nga Whakatauki [Book of Proverbs].

Pp. 1–54.

28. Ko te Kai Kauwhau [Ecclesiastes, or the Preacher].

Pp. 54–72.

29. Te Waiata a Horomona [The Song of Solomon].

Pp. 72–81.

30. Ko Ihaia [Isaiah].

Pp. 81–192.

Note.—In 1840 was printed “Ko tetahi wahi | o te | Pukapuka a Ihaia | a te Poropiti.” Sm. 8vo. Pp. 12. μ 155 x 80. On the last page, “Heoi ano. No Paihia : He mea ta i te perehi o nga mihanere.” Contains chapters 49 to 55 of Isaiah. By Rev. R. Maunsell.

31. Ko Heremaia [Jeremiah].

Pp. 192–318.

32. Ko nga Tangi a Heremaia [Lamentations of Jeremiah].

Pp. 318–29.

[To the second part—Ezekiel to Malachi (Ko Ehekiere—Ko Maraki), pp. 331 to 576—the following notice was prefixed : “The Maori Bible Translation Committee have now the pleasure of placing the concluding portion of the Rev. R. Maunsell’s translation in the hands of the missionaries and other friends, whose aid in the revision of the work is anticipated. Upon the promptitude with which they render their assistance, by suggesting any emendations which they may judge necessary, must greatly depend the time at which the entire Word of God can be given in the native language to the aboriginal population of New Zealand. This solemn consideration will, it is confidently hoped, stimulate to earnestness and diligence in this part of the undertaking. The 31st of March, 1857, has been fixed on by the committee as the date at which at the latest they expect the books now issued to be returned. It is hoped, however, that the portion of the translation which was put in a similar course of circulation some months since will be returned much sooner, so as to enable the committee of final revision to prosecute their work with the least possible delay. On behalf of the committee, JOHN B. BENNETT, Secretary.—Auckland, October 24th, 1857.”]

33. Ko Ehekiere [Ezekiel].

Pp. 331–445.

Note.—About 1840 was printed “Ko te tikenga | a Ihikiera a te poropiti i nga iwi. | Ihikiera, 37.” Sm. 8vo. Pp. 2. μ 144 x 76. No title-page or date; headline. The first 14 verses of the 37th chapter of Ezekiel. Probably Colenso’s translation at Paihia. (The vision of Ezekiel the prophet amongst the bones.)

34. Ko Rania [Daniel].

Pp. 446–81.

Note.—In 1840 there was published “Ko nga upoko eono | o te pukapuka a te | Poropiti a Rania : | me | te pukapuka ano hoki | a te | Poropiti a Hona : | He Kupu ra no te Paipera, ko ia hoki te Puka- | puka a Ihowa te Atua pono. | Katahi ka taia ki te reo Maori. | No Paihia : | he mea ta i te perehi o nga Mihanere. | 1840.” Sm. 8vo. Pp. 28. μ 153 x 80. On the last page is, “Ko te wakamutunga tenei o ta Hona.” Contains the first 6 chapters of Daniel and, beginning on the 24th page, the Book of Jonah.

About the same time there was another publication with the same title-page as the preceding one, but substituting “ewitu” for “eono.” Sm. 8vo. Pp. 32. It contained the first 7 chapters of Daniel. Jonah begins on p. 28. Colenso’s translation, but, being imperfect, was not adopted.

35. Ko Hohea [Hosea].

Pp. 481-98.

36. Ko Hoere [Joel].

Pp. 498-504.

37. Ko Amoho [Amos].

Pp. 504-17.

38. Ko Oparia [Obadiah].

Pp. 517-19.

39. Ko Hona [Jonah].

Pp. 520-24.

See also note following No. 34, above.

40. Ko Mika [Micah].

Pp. 524-33.

41. Ko Nahumu [Nahum].

Pp. 534-37.

42. Ko Hapakuku [Habakkuk].

Pp. 538-42.

43. Ko Tepania [Zephaniah].

Pp. 543-47.

44. Ko Hakai [Haggai].

Pp. 548-51.

45. Ko Hakaraia [Zachariah].

Pp. 551-70.

46. Ko Maraki [Malachi].

Pp. 571-76.

Note.—In 1847 was printed "Ko te | pukapuka a Marakai. | Katahi ka taia ki te reo Maori. | Akarana : | i taia tenei ki te perehi a John Williamson. 1847." Sm. 8vo. Pp. 8. Contains the Book of Malachi. Probably this was a Wesleyan translation; it differs greatly from Mr. Maunsell's.

At the end of this part is the imprint, "Printed at St. John's College, Auckland. 1856"

1858.

Ko | Te Kawenata Tawhito ; | no nga Whakatauki tae noa ki a Maraki. | — | I taia tenei pukapuka mo te Bible Society | ki Ranana. | — | 1858.

Sm. 8vo. Pp. 377.

This forms the third and last instalment or volume of the Old Testament published in London by the British and Foreign Bible Society, and it contains the last twenty books (Proverbs to Malachi).

Ko te | Paipera Tapu | ara, ko te | Kawenata Tawhito | me te Kawenata Hou. | He mea whakamaori mai no nga reo | i oroko-tuhituhia ai. | Ranana : | He mea ta ki te perehi a W. M. Watts, | ma te Komiti Ta Paipera mo Ingarani mo te Ao Katoa. | 1868.

Svo. Pp. 1199. μ 190 x 110. Double columns.

The first issue of the complete Bible. It varies but little from the 3-vol. translation preceding.

[From this date numerous reprints of the Holy Scriptures have been issued which it is unnecessary and almost impossible to tabulate.]

CHURCH SERVICES, CATECHISMS, HYMNS, ETC.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND MISSION.

(Chiefly earliest selections from Scripture, inclusive of the complete New Testament—Te Kawenata Hou.)

1839.

Ko te Pukapuka | o nga Inoinga, | me te | Minititanga | o nga Hakarameta | ko | era tikanga hoki o te Hahi, | ki te ritenga | o te Hahi o Ingarani. | Paihia : | he mea ta i te perehi o nga mihanere o te | Hahi o Ingarani. | 1839.

Sm. Svo. Pp. 36. μ 148 x 85. Double columns. Title with black-line border.

The first prayer-book of the New Zealand press, of which 4,000 copies were printed. It contains the Morning and Evening Prayer, the Litany shortened and adapted, Prayer for all Conditions, General Thanksgiving, and at the end two pages of other prayers, inclusive of those for the chiefs and their families (pp. 35-36). The hymns (pp. 23-34) are 42 in number. Sewn in brown-paper wrapper.

(Vide 1830 and 1833 for earlier services.)

In 1840 there was another issue, with the same title-page as that of 1839. Sm. Svo. Pp. 218. μ 150 x 88. Double columns. Contains the complete Church service, excepting the forms for ordination, &c., of bishops, priests, and deacons, and the prayers for the Queen and Royal Family. For the latter are substituted prayers for the Governor, the chiefs, and their families. Bound with the volume are the Psalms—"Ko | nga Waiata | a Rawiri. | Katahi ka taia ki te reo Maori. | No Paihia : | he mea ta i te perehi o nga mihanere o te | Hahi o Ingarani. | 1840" (pp. 125 and blank page); then the 39 Articles (Ko nga | Korero ki te Wakapono | a te Hahi o Ingarani) and Table of Kindred (He Tepara mo nga Huanga), (pp. 127-41). On the last page is "Ko te wakamutunga tenei. Nowema, 1841." At the end are 42 hymns (Ko nga Himene), (pp. 13). The Psalms were translated by Mr. Puckey.

In 1842 there was a similar issue to the preceding. Also one on thin paper, "Ko nga Inoi o te Ata, ko te Ritani, ko nga Inoi o te Ahiahi" (The Order for Morning and Evening Prayer and the Litany). Svo. Pp. 32. μ 157 x 85. The 42 hymns follow (Ko nga Himene). Some copies have prefixed a Table of Lessons. The prayers for the Queen, Prince Albert, the Prince of Wales, and all the Royal Family now first appear.

Ko te | Ritenga me te Tikanga | o te Waka Rikona.

At the end, "Paihia: He mea ta i te perihi o nga Mihanere o te Hahi o Ingarani.

Svo. Pp. 8. {1843 (?)}

(The manner and rule of ordering deacons.)

Translation into Maori, so that the natives might understand Bishop Selwyn's procedure at the ordination service.

An Order of Confirmation (sm. 8vo; pp. 4) and an Order of Consecration of a Burial-ground (sm. 8vo; pp. 4) were printed in Maori about the same time.

He Kupu ma te ngakau inoi. | "Kei whakamutua te inoi." 1 Teha., 5, 17. | At Purewa : | Printed at te perehi o nga Mihanere. | M.DCCC.XLV.

Sm. 8vo. Pp. 37.

(Prayers and sentences from the heart.)

Translated from Bishop Andrews by the Rev. R. Maunsell.

In 1847 there was a similar edition, but, "No Purewa : | i taia ki te perehi, &c. | 1847." Sm. 8vo. Pp. 34. μ 145 x 84.

In 1850 a similar edition was published, but, "No te Kareti. | I taia tenei ki te perehi a te Pihopa. | 1850." Sm. 8vo. Pp. 43. μ 145 x 84.

Prayers for morning and evening and for other occasions.

Ko te Pukapuka | o nga Inoinga, | me era atu tikanga, | i whakaritea e te Hahi o Ingarani, | mo te minitanga | o nga Hakarameta, | o era atu rite-nga hoki a te Hahi : | me nga Waiata ano hoki a Rawiri, | me te tikanga | mo te whiriwhiringa, mo te whakaturanga, | me te whakatapunga | o nga Pihopa, o nga Piriti, me nga Rikona. | — | Ranana : | i taia tenei ki te perehi o te komiti mo te whakapuaki | i te mohiotanga ki a te Karaiti. | 1848.

Sm. 8vo. Pp. ii (n.p.), 20, 321. μ 152 x 80. W. Watts, Crown Court. Temple Bar, printer.

The first Maori prayer-book printed in England; issued by the S.P.C.K. In it the Epistles and Gospels for the day are not printed, but merely indicated by the textual reference. The service for the making of deacons is included.

In 1852 the Epistles and Gospels were printed, but otherwise the issue is identical. Pp. 432.

In 1859 there was another issue, which was identical with the previous one.

From this date a numerous variety has been issued.

He Inoi puku, | no te Karaipiture.

12mo. Pp. 4. At the end, "Ranana, Maehe, 1848."

(Silent prayers or utterances from the Scriptures.)

Suitable verses selected for this purpose.

Catechisms.

[The first catechism is contained in the translations from the Scriptures,
&c., 1830, q.v. ("Ko te Katikihama" I and II), pp. 89-100. The second catechism is in the prayer-book, &c., of 1833, q.v. ("Ko te Katikihama" I, II, III, and IV);
pp. 57-75.]

1833.

Ko nga | Katikihama | e wa ; | ka oti nei te wakamaori | ki te reo o | Nu Tirani.
| Hirini : | kua oti te ta e te Tipene raua ko te Toki. | 1833.

12mo. Pp. 55. μ 120 x 60.

Printed by Stephens and Stokes.)

1840.

Ko | nga Katikihama | ewa : | ka oti nei te wakamaori ki te reo | o Nu

rani. | 1840.

Sm. 8vo. Pp. 28. μ 145 x 85.

These four catechisms were the earliest from the New Zealand press. The first has 41 questions and answers, the second 24, the third 70, and the fourth 25.

In 1842 there was another edition, with the same title as the preceding, but the contents vary from it in composition and the use of fresh words and matter. The catechisms have respectively 42, 44, 71, and 25 questions and answers. Sm. 8vo. Pp. 35.

hama. | I taia ki te Perehi a nga Mihanare o | Kaitaia, 1845.

Sm. 8vo. Pp. 49, and 2 n.p. μ 140 x 78.

4 chapters (upoko). "Ko nga ingoa o Ihu Kariti" (The names of Jesus Christ).

The Kaitaia press was a small hand-machine, run at first by Mr. Puckey, the senior catechist, who trained a Maori, Ropata Taki, to its use. On it were printed alphabets, school lessons, and skeleton sermons for Maori lay readers prepared on slips of paper by the Rev. Joseph Matthews. It was probably taken possession of by Mr. John Telford, who succeeded Mr. Colenso as printer on the Church Missionary Press.

Ko | nga Katikihama | etoru. | — | No te Kareti. | I taia tenei ki te perehi a te Pihopa. | 1849.

Sm. 8vo. Pp. 19.

The first three catechisms, with 41, 16, and 70 questions and answers respectively.

Hymns and Hymn-books.

[The earliest collection is in the translations from Scripture, &c., 1827: "Himene" (7 hymns); pp. 25-29. The second is in the translations, &c., 1830: "Ko nga Himene" (19 hymns); pp. 101-117. The third is in the prayer-book, &c., 1833: "Ko nga Himene" (27 hymns); pp. 77-88. The above were printed in Sydney. (Vide these years.)]

[1839-52.]

Neither date nor place of printing, but Paihia, 1839.

Sm. 8vo. Pp. 25-36. μ 155 x 85. Double columns. Printed on coarse paper, and bound in brown-paper wrapper.

There was another edition in 1840, but better printed, and bound in with the prayer-book of this year.

In the year 1852 the hymns had increased in number to 56, and were usually bound up with the prayer-books.

In the Wesleyan Prayer-book ("O nga Inoinga"); 1845; Hokianga, are 73 hymns. Pp. 35-57. Double columns. In 1879 the number had increased to 119 hymns.

1848.

8vo. Pp. 44.

The Roman Catholic doctrine.

Pompallier, Bishop.

In this year, and again in 1848, the Bishop addressed two letters to Hone Heke and his followers, exhorting them to cease warfare and observe peace. They were printed in double columns on fcp. fol., in Maori. They have been mislaid in my collection, and search for them has failed. In 1856, 1861, and 1863 he wrote to other natives in a similar strain regarding the Waitara and Waikato wars (vide p. 226).

The Bishop returned to France in February, 1868, and died on the 20th December, 1870.

Sm. 8vo. Pp. 24. μ 150 x 75. No title-page. At the end is, "Hopataone. | He mea ta i te Perehi o te Watahaoha [? Waterhouse] ratou ko nga teina. | 1840."

(The second of the descriptive books: making known the errors of the Church of Rome.)

Three conversations between Aroha Pono (Truelove), Rapupono (Earnest Seeker), and Takataka (Waverer), in which are discussed errors (henga) numbered from 7 to 12.

Mr. Busby (the British Resident) and others outside the mission objected to this being printed at the Paihia press. Mr. Colenso thereupon sent it to Hobart Town (Hopataone) and Sydney, where 8,000 copies were printed.

The first of the descriptive books (Ko te tuatahi o nga pukapuka waki) was printed at Sydney in 1840, in which were discussed errors from 1 to 6.

These were reprinted in 1852, as follows: "He | pukapuka waki; | hei wakakite atu i nga he o te | Hahi o Roma. | Na te Aroha Pono, | ki ana hoa, ki te hunga o Nu Tireni. | . . . Mat. xxiv, 4. | . . . Karatia i, 7, 8. | . . . 2 Koriniti x, 4, 5. | Poneki; | he mea ta i te perehi o te Toki. | 1852." Sm. 8vo. Pp. 24.

The resuscitation of these old pamphlets was the outcome of some heated correspondence between Mr. Colenso and the Rev. Father Lampila, a Roman Catholic priest, of Pakowhai, Hawke's Bay.

Sq. 12mo. Pp. 14. μ 94 x 82.

(Good. The likeness of that name to the Good Man. The original had been written in the English language by Samuel Wilberforce, M.A.)

In this and the 1850 ed. the word "Agathos" is printed in Old English; in that of 1882 in Greek characters. At the end are questions and answers between Kai Wakaako and Tangata Maori (teacher and native).

Another edition was published in 1850: Sm. 8vo. Pp. 11. μ 130 x 85. . . . "e | Samuel Wilberforce, D.D. | (Bishop of Oxford.) | No te Kareti: | i taia tenei ki te perehi a te Pihopa. | 1850."

In 1882 there was a still further edition: Sm. 8vo. Pp. 12. μ 140 x 85. . . . "na | Samuel Wilberforce, M.A., i tuhi ki te reo Pakeha | ko te whakamaoritanga tenei o aua korero. | Poneke, Noema, | 1882."

Wilberforce, Rev. S. Te | motu kowhatu. | He mea tuhituhi ki te reo pakeha | e | Hamuera Wiripewohe, M.A. | No te Waimate : | I taia tenei ki te Perehi a te Pihopa. | 1844.

Sq. 12mo. Pp. 34. μ 95 x 65.

(The Rocky Island : Translated from the English of the Rev. Samuel Wilberforce.)

A religious allegory. Questions and answers at the end.

There was another edition in 1850, the title being "Te Motu Kohatu. | No te Kareti | I taia tenei i te Perehi a te Pihopa, | 1850." Sm. 8vo. Pp. 25. μ 135 x 85.

Sm. 8vo. Pp. 8. VIII. On p. 8 is, "New Zealand: Printed at the Church Mission Press."

(On the sacrament of baptism.)

All μ 142 x 78. Type and paper, &c., indicate that the above 8 tracts form a series of short sermons. They were written by the Rev. Robert Maunsell, and all bound together in glazed-calico cover.

There is another edition, in which the sermons are differently arranged, and of which the title is, "Seven Maori Sermons.—Contents: 1. Ko te Tino Tohunga Nui. 2. Ko te Whakapono. 3. Ko te Iriiri Tapu. 4. Ko te Hapa Tapu. 5. Ko nga Mahi Hou. 6. Ko te Inoi a te Tahae. 7. Ko te Manawanui o Hopa. Pūrewa: Printed at the Church Mission Press.—1846."

Some copies of these sermons are incomplete, containing a fewer number than 8—generally 5.

Sm. 8vo. Pp. 23. μ 145 x 85. On title-page a rough woodcut of Christ, children, and elders; beneath, a verse from "Matu, upoko 21, rangi 15." Brown-paper wrapper.

(A school-book for persons not advanced; a primer.) The alphabet, short syllables, and sentences.

Mr. Colenso told me that this first edition and the second, in 1842, consisted of 10,000 numbers each.

The second edition appeared in 1842, and is similar to the preceding. Pp. 24. The 24th page has, "Ko nga Ture a te Atua" (the Ten Commandments).

Another edition was published in 1860, similar to the preceding, but without the text from Matthew and the Commandments, and "Published at Werengitanga: | printed at the 'Advertiser' office, Willis Street. | 1860." Pp. 23.

Sm. 4to.

For collation of the very important papers given above, vide p. 95. It may be here added that the chief editors and contributors were Dr. Shortland, Messrs. T. S. Forsaith, C. O. Davis, Walter Buller, Judges W. H. Smith, F. D. Fenton, and H. A. H. Monro. Mr. David Burn supplied the shipping news and market prices. Mr. Buller, upon taking charge of the paper in 1861, changed its name to "Te Manuhiri Tuarangi" (The Visitor from Afar), but in less than a year it reverted to its former title.

1849.

Ko te Ao Marama. [The New World.]

The first number was published at Wellington, on the 20th September, 1849. Issued fortnightly. Subscription, 6s. per annum.

Its aim was to foster a spirit of industry amongst the natives, and to acquaint them with the customs of their white neighbours.

Davis, C. O. Te Waka o te Iwi. [The Canoe of the Tribes.] [1859(?).]

Two or three numbers were issued.

Davis, C. O. Te Whetu o te Tau. [The Star of the Year.] [1859(?).]

Two or three numbers were issued.

Te Haeta. | "Tatou ka haere i to Ihowa Maramatanga" | Te utu mo te tau | kotahi 2s. 6d. | Te utu mo te puka- | puka kotahi 3d. [Vol. I.] Akarana, Apereira 1, 1859. [No. 1. [The Dawn of day." "Walk in the light of God's countenance."]]

4to. Pp. 4. Triple columns. Imprint: "Printed by W. C. Wilson, at the 'New Zealander' Printing Office, Shortland Street."

Issued monthly for three years (1859-60), the last number being Maehe (March), 1862 (No. 12).

A religious paper, chiefly issued by the Wesleyan Methodists.

[Davis, C. O.] Ko Aotearoa, | or the | Maori Recorder. | Hanuere. January. | E matau haere . . . | Akarana : | he mea ta i te perehi o nga iwi Maori. | 1861.

Svo. Pp. 24. Maori and English. Double paper wrappers.

The second (and last) number appeared in January, 1862 (pp. 32), and was called the Recorder and Aotearoa. Mr. Davis was editor and proprietor. As an ardent philo-Maori he involved himself in disputes on native matters, and was finally charged with treason.

The numbers refer largely to the Waitara trouble, and to subjects of general interest to the natives.

Te Hokioi, o Nui-Tireni, e rere atuna. [The Far-flying Hokioi of New Zealand.]

Sm. 4to. Usually pp. 4; but often poorly printed scraps of paper appeared, and the whole irregularly, and at long intervals. Not numbered.

Patara, cousin of the King Matutaera Potatau, was editor, and the paper was printed at Ngaruawahia. It was the organ of the King movement, and contained letters from seditious natives, notices, &c. It ceased publication immediately after the extinction of the Pihoihoi, the last number being that of the 24th March, 1863.

The hokioi was a mythical bird of dire omen.

Psalm ii, v. 10, supplied an occasional motto, which was placed under the title: "Be wise now therefore, O ye kings; be instructed, ye judges of the earth."

1863.

Gorst, J. E. Te Pihoihoi Mokemoke | I runga i te tuanui. | Number 1. | Pe-puere 2, 1863. [The Lonely Ground-lark perched on the Roof.] "The sparrow that sitteth alone upon the housetop" (Psalm cii, 7.)

Sm. 4to. Pp. 4. Double columns chiefly. Imprint (in Maori): "Otawhao:—i taia ki te perehi o te kura."

Edited and published by Mr. John Eldon (Sir J. E.) Gorst, Native Commissioner in the Upper Waikato, to counteract the mischievous native newspaper, Te Hokioi, of the Maori King, which was printed at Ngaruawahia. The paper had a dramatic ending when its fifth and last number, of the 23rd March, and the press were seized and removed by the angry natives, for a full and interesting account of which vide Appendix to Journals of House of Representatives, E.-1, 1863.

For reference to and translation of articles vide Karere Maori, 30th March, 1863.

Te | Waka Maori o Ahuriri. | No. 1] Nepia, Hatarei, Hune 13, 1863. [Vol. I.

Demy fol. Usually pp. 4. Double columns. Imprint: "He mea ta na Hemi Wuru [James Wood], i te whare ta o te Haaki Pei Herara [Hawke's Bay Herald], ki Nepia, i te Hatarei i nga rua wiki katoa—tena rua wiki, tena rua wiki."

With the third number was added to the title, "Ko te tika, ko te pono, ko te aroha" (For justice, truth, and love), being the motto adopted by Potatau, the first Maori King.

Printed in Maori, with no English translation until 1873.

Vol. i: From No. 1 (June 13, 1863) to No. 26 (May 28, 1864).

Vol. ii: From No. 27 (June 11, 1864) to No. 53 (June 10, 1865).

Vol. iii: From No. 54 (July 1, 1865) to No. 78 (November 10, 1866). Nos. 54 and 55 were 4to size.

Vol. iv: From No. 1 (March 1, 1867) to No. 21 (February 20, 1868). From Nos. 13 to 19 the vol. is misprinted "v" for "iv," and from Nos. 18 to 21 the year is misprinted "1867" for "1868."

Vol. v: From No. 1 (March 5, 1868) to No. 13 (May 27, 1869). In No. 1 the year is misprinted "1867" for "1868."

Vol. vi: From No. 1 (July 17, 1869) to No. 18 (December 26, 1870).

Vol. vii: From No. 1 (January 19, 1871) to No. 6 (June 21, 1871).

The publication was then removed to Wellington, placed entirely under Government control, and printed by George Didsbury, with the Royal Arms on the title-page. The title was, Te Waka Maori o Niu Tirani. | "Ko te tika, ko te pono, ko te aroha." | Vol. I.] Poneke, Turei, Oketopa 24, 1871. [No. 1.

Vol. 8: From No. 1 (October 24, 1871) to No. 20 (December 24, 1872). On the title-page of the first number "Vol. I" is misprinted for "Vol. 8."

Vol. 9: From No. 1 (January 8, 1873) to No. 20 (December 24, 1873). Translation into English commenced with this vol.

Vol. 10: From No. 1 (January 13, 1874) to No. 25 (December 15, 1874).

Vol. 11: From No. 1 (January 12, 1875) to No. 25 (December 28, 1875). From No. 19 to No. 23 the vols. are misnumbered "12."

Vol. 12: From No. 1 (January 11, 1876) to No. 23 (December 19, 1876).

Vol. 13: From No. 1 (January 9, 1877) to No. 12 (July 17, 1877).

An angry Parliament here terminated the paper's existence as a Government publication, on the ground of political misuse, and its place was supplied by the Kahiti o Niu Tireni (New Zealand Gazette), the first number of which was issued in January, 1877. The paper was, however, resuscitated by a small company at Gisborne, under its former editor, Mr. James Grindell, with its former title, the word "Niu" being substituted for "Nui." The first number was issued at Turanga on the 21st August, 1878, for the "Gisborne Maori Newspaper Company, Limited," and usually weekly thereafter. With the 5th number an illustration was added of a Maori canoe filled with warriors paddling at high speed, and the words "Hoea te waka, ha!" (Pull the canoe!) underneath, the words "o Niu Tirani" no longer appearing under the title. After the 31st number (24th May, 1879) the paper was removed to Napier, and there continued until the 42nd and last number of the series (25th October, 1879).

The paper then had a further short existence in 1884, again at Gisborne, under the editorship of Mr. George H. Wilson, author of "Ena, or the Ancient Maori." The title was the same as that of the preceding, with the addition of "O Aotearoa." It was published fortnightly, in Maori, without English translation, at Turanganui, Khipane. The only numbers known to me are No. 1 (March 7, 1884) to No. 16 (October 17, 1884).

This important paper had thus a chequered career, and suffered at least two actions for libel—one against Mr. Henry Russell, the other against Mr. Sheehan—which cost the country more than £6,000. It is full of native history and transactions, letters from natives, reports of their meetings, and other important matters.

Te Wananga. | He panuitanga tena kia kite koutou. | "Tihe Mauri-ora." | Nama, 1. Pakowhai, Wenerei, Akuhata, 5, 1874. Pukapuka .1. [The Medium. The proclamation that all may know. "God bless you."]

Sm. 4to. Pp. varied from 4 to 16. Double columns. Usually issued weekly. Price 6d. Imprint: "He mea ta e Henare Hira, a he mea panui e Henare Tomoana, e te tangata nana tenei nupepa, i te whare ta o 'Te Wananga' i Pakowhai, Nepia." (Printed by Henry Hill; published by Henare Tomoana, the proprietor of this newspaper, at the printing-office of Te Wananga, at Pakowhai, Napier.)

The place of publication was soon changed to Napier. There were five yearly vols. (pukapuka), extending from the 4th August, 1874, to the 21st December, 1878, but consecutive pagination ran through all, p. 664 being the last, when there appears a notification that the paper will shortly be enlarged and improved. There was, however, no further publication. Much of the matter has an English translation.

This paper is of an interesting character, containing native news of all kinds, numerous letters, reports of native meetings, discussions in Parliament on land and other special subjects, and excellent articles. It opposed the Waka Maori, the Government or Sir Donald McLean's organ.

Te Korimako. | He nupepa whakaatu i nga rongo o te ao katoa, nga tikanga o te | Whakapono me era atu mea. | Nama 1. Akarana, Maehe, 1882. Te utu, 3d. [The Bell-bird : a newspaper giving the news of the whole world, the reasons for belief, and other things.]

Sm. 4to. Pp. 4, sometimes 8 or 12, with an occasional supplement (apiti) and illustrations. Three columns. In Maori; no translations. Imprint : "He mea ta e Henare Perete [Henry Brett] mo te Rangatira o tenei nupepa i Winamu-tirete, Akarana, i te 17 o nga ra o Aperiri, 1882."

A monthly periodical, containing interesting little paragraphs, letters, important leaders, essays, poetry, and general news. It was founded by Mr. W. P. Snow, a pious and benevolent American gentleman of means, who died of fever in March, 1883, in the Red Sea, whilst on his passage to England. Mr. C. O. Davis was editor and manager.

The first number appeared in March, 1882; the last (probably No. 75) on the 16th May, 1888.

Te Paki o Matariki. | Ko te mana motuhake o Te Kingitanga o Aotearoa. No. 5.] Te Kauhanganui, Maungakawa, Hune 20th, 1892. [Wh. 23. [The Girdle of the Pleiades. The independent power of the Kingdom of New Zealand.]

Long fcp. fol. Pp. 4. No imprint. Oddly printed and translated.

Later numbers were embellished with an extraordinary illustration, on the title-page, of two Maori gods supporting a piece of circular carving, on which rests a distorted human figure on whose head is a cross thrust into a heart, the stars of the Pleiades looking down on the whole—doubtless intended as an analogue of our own Royal Arms.

The paper was the official organ of King Tawhiao; was printed at Cambridge on various-sized paper and issued very irregularly from some time in 1891 to October, 1902. In it are published reports of native meetings, discussions with the Government, Tawhiao's addresses to his council, his laws, Gazette notices, and other similar curious matter.

He Kupu Whakamarama. | Nelson : Bond, Finney, and Co., printers.

Sm. 4to. Pp. 2. No. 1, March, 1898.

Edited by the Rev. F. A. Bennett.

No. 11 appeared with a zinc-block illustration on the outside page—a Maori whare with native family—and an altered title : "Pipi-wharauora |

He Kupu Whakamarama" [Cuckoo: a word of enlightenment]. No. 16 (Nelson, June, 1899) contained pp. 10, and had a supplement of p. 2, printed by H. W. Williams, Te Rau press, Gisborne. From No. 18 the paper was wholly printed at the Te Rau press, and the editorship passed to Mr. R. T. M. Kohere, a native, doubtless with the supervision of the Rev. Herbert W. Williams, principal of the Maori Training College. No. 27 ("Te Pipiharaurora," &c.) discarded the illustration.

The publication, which has now (May, 1909) reached its 134th number, is issued monthly, aims at being a newspaper with religious and other improving articles, is occasionally illustrated with portraits of eminent persons, and is conducted by Anglicans.

Te Pipiharaurora. (vide the preceding, "He Kupu Whakamarama.")

The Jubilee. | Maori Newspaper. | No. 1, Vol. 1. | Te Tiupiri. | January 4, 1898. Whanganui. | Hanuare 4, 1898.

4to. Pp. 8. Double columns. In coloured-paper wrapper, with the above title, a photograph of Queen Victoria, and advertisements. Imprint: "He mea perehi na Teoni D. Kuini, ki tona Tari ta pepa i Ritiwe Tiriti o Whanganui, Niu Tireni. | Printed by John D. Quin at his registered printing works, Ridgway Street, Whanganui, N.Z."

Issued at first weekly, then fortnightly, and then at irregular intervals. Subscription, 12s. 6d. per annum. The last was No. 80, Vol. iii, 19th July, 1900.

A memento of the Queen's jubilee. An excellent and loyal paper, with varied information, conducted by a Maori committee in the interests of the native race. Contains some legendary history. Written chiefly in Maori. Ceased publication from non-payment of subscriptions and lack of support. In a list of defunct Maori papers the names are given of Te Hioi (The Ground-lark), Te Kotohitanga, and Te Huia tangata Kotahi.

Te-Puke-ki-Hikurangi. [The Hill of Hikurangi.]

Long fcp. fol. Pp. 4, sometimes 8. Triple columns. In Maori. On the first page, below the title, is an illustration of the mythical hill or islet of Hikurangi, surrounded by the canoes of those escaping from the deluge of Ruatapu. Imprint: "Printed and published by T. Renata, under the authority of H. T. Mahupuku, at his registered office, Main Street, Greytown North, Wairarapa." Issued fortnightly, the first number appearing in 1898.

On 7th November, 1904, it appeared in 4to, with paper wrapper, on which was the additional title of "and Maori Record; a Journal devoted to the Advancement of the | Maori People. | Wellington, N.Z.: | Printed for the proprietors by Blundell Bros. Ltd., at the 'Evening Post' general printing office."

Vol. 1, No. 1. Pp. 8, 8. First half in Maori, second half in English. In this the co-editor with Renata was Mr. Robert Studholme Thompson, of Normanby, an interpreter, and warm friend of the Maori. The new arrangement not proving satisfactory, the paper reverted to its original title, with the addition on the wrapper of "Huihuia mai o koutou whakaaro | ki runga i to tatau Maunga Tapu | te oha a te hunga kua wehe | [Bring your thoughts together on this sacred mountain as a tribute to those who have departed from us]. Greytown North, Wairarapa, N.Z. | Printed and published for the proprietors by T. Renata, at their registered printing office." 4to. Pp. 8. Issued weekly nominally. Triple columns. In Maori. Apparently it ceased publication with No. 33, "o te tau tuaono" [vol. 8], 11th September, 1906.

In July, 1905, Mr. R. S. Thompson issued the first number of his monthly paper, entitled "The Maori Record | a Journal devoted to | the Advancement of the Maori People. | Normanby, N.Z.: | Printed for the proprietor by W. A. Parkinson, at the 'Hawera Star' general printing office. | 1905."

1903.

Wairarapa Matuhi Press | Matuhi.

Sm. 4to. Generally pp. 10.

A small weekly Maori paper, issued by Arapata Weepu (Albert Webb), of Queen Street, Mahitāone (Masterton). Commenced about September, 1903. Hepetema 27, 1905, completes Vol. ii (No. 104). Contains general news.

Svo. Pp. 16. Verses of Scripture interspersed.

(The moon or month as it goes along (= the calendar), or book showing the Sundays, festivals, changes of the moon, many other things, and all the days of the year of our Lord Jesus Christ 1841.)

The first almanac printed in New Zealand. Was yearly printed, with some variations, until 1845. Numerous others have since been issued from various places under the title "Maramataka" (the changes of the moon). Amongst these the one of most undoubted and perhaps unique interest is "Ko te Hikurangi | Tainui Marama Whiti, | 1891. | He mea tango mai no ta te Maori | whakahaerenga i nga ra o te tau. | E Hoani Nahi, Omahu, Hau-raki. | Printed at the Advertiser Office, Albert Street, Thames." Svo. Pp. 35 (n.p.). (The Hikurangi Tainui [Calendar] of the moon's appearances. Something taken from the Maori observations of the days of the year.) Written by an old tohunga, it gives ancient tradition connected with the Tainui migration, the native names of the months and the days of the month, observations on the various changes and appearances of the moon, and the omens drawn therefrom, minutely specifying the auspicious and inauspicious days for various pursuits.

V A R I A .

[There are many papers, such as Proclamations, notices, and other documents (some of historical importance, others of a fugitive or temporary character, but all interesting), which are difficult of full record. Some of the chief of these are here noted.]

1813.

A Circular describing the formation of an institution to be called "The New South Wales Society for affording Protection to the Natives of the South Sea Islands, and promoting their Civilization."

Fcp. fol. Pp. 3. Dated Sydney, 20th December, 1813.

Fifteen resolutions. Promoted by the Rev. Samuel Marsden, who had taken a keen interest in the subject.

1814.

Government and General Orders. | Government House, Sydney, New South Wales, | 9th November, 1814. | Civil Department.

Fcp. fol. P. 1. Printed on parchment. Signed by command of His Excellency the Governor (Macquarie), John Thomas Campbell, Secretary. No imprint.

Provides for the vigorous punishment of those traders who offer insult or injury to the natives of New Zealand. Mr. Thomas Kendall, and the chiefs Dewaterra (Ruatarua), Shungie (Hongi), and Korra Korra (Korokoro) have authority in the matter.

1824.

New South Wales. | Proclamation.

Roy. 4to. P. 1. Signed by H.E. Sir Thomas Brisbane and F. Goulburn, Colonial Secretary. Imprint: "R. Howe, Government Printer."

The Proclamation states that outrages and crimes committed in New Zealand or other islands in the Indian or Pacific Ocean shall be punished.

1831.

Fcp. fol. P. 1. By His Excellency's command, Alexander McLeay.

The order states that steps are to be taken to prevent the inhuman and disgusting traffic in human heads at New Zealand. His Excellency (Sir Ralph Darling) trusts that those possessing human heads recently brought from New Zealand by the schooner "Prince of Denmark" will immediately deliver them up to be restored to the relatives of the deceased parties to whom those heads belonged.

1831-33.

The Correspondence between 13½ New Zealand chiefs and the British Government, with Mr. Busby's Address.

8vo. Pp. 10.
(Vide p. 53.)

The British Resident at New Zealand to His Britannic Majesty's Subjects who are Residing or Trading in New Zealand.

Fcp. fol. P. 1. Printed at Paihia, on the Church Missionary press. Signed by James Busby, British Resident, British Residency, at New Zealand, Bay of Islands, 16th October, 1835.

In this letter Mr. Busby states that he has received from "Charles, Baron de Thierry, Sovereign Chief of New Zealand, and King of Nuhuheva," a declaration that he is about to establish an independent sovereignty in New Zealand, &c. Mr. Busby is sure that his countrymen will pay no attention to the ambitious projects of any adventurer, and he will further call a meeting of chiefs to assert their independence.

The outcome of this was the "He Wakaputanga," &c., or Declaration of Independence, immediately below. A copy of these documents is in the Report of the House of Lords Committee on New Zealand, 1838, pp. 244-46.

He Wakaputanga o te Rangatiratanga o | Nu Tirene.

Fcp. fol. P. 1. Printed at Paihia, on the Church Missionary press.
(The Declaration of Independence by Confederated Maori Chiefs.)

This was signed by 35 chiefs at Waitangi, Bay of Islands, on the 28th October, 1835.

(Vide p. 304.)

1837.

Address | of | the Baron de Thierry | to the | White Residents in New Zealand.

Demy fol. Pp. 2. Printed at the "Herald" office, Lower George Street, Sydney. Signed: Charles Baron de Thierry, Sydney, 20th September, 1837.

In this lengthy declaration, with appended articles of agreement, de Thierry sets forth his proposed mode of government, and calls upon all his future subjects to assist.

A copy of this address, with that of the deed on which his assumption is founded, is in the Report of the Lords Committee on New Zealand, 1838, pp. 299-305.

Prospectus | of an | Institution | for the | Maintenance and Education of Children, | the Offspring of English Fathers by New-Zealand Mothers.

Fcp. fol. P. 1. Printed at Paihia, on the Church Missionary press.

Proposes that a meeting be held at Kororareka for the purpose. To be called the Victoria Institution, to be located in Mr. Busby's proposed township of Victoria, and to be partly supported by the investment of one-fifth of the funds derived from the sale of the township sections. Lengthy details of the proposal given in 9 clauses.

1840.

Proclamation. | By His Excellency William Hobson, Esquire, Lieutenant-
| Governor of the British Settlements in progress in New | Zealand.

Fcp. fol. P. 1. Printed at Paihia, on the Church Missionary press. Dated "Kororareka, 30th January, 1840," the day after Captain Hobson's arrival in New Zealand.

The Proclamation notifies that no titles to land will be recognised unless as Crown grants; that no further purchases from natives are to be made; and that a Land Court will be at once instituted.

Previous to this a Proclamation was read asserting the Queen's authority over British subjects in New Zealand.

Notices were at the same time sent to the chiefs that a meeting to consider a treaty would be held on the 5th February.

The Treaty of Waitangi.

Fcp. fol. P. 1. Signed by Captain Hobson, 6th February, 1840, at Waitangi. Printed at Paihia, on the Church Missionary press.

In Maori.

Mr. Colenso tells me that many copies were printed on a cheaper paper, large 4to size, for general distribution amongst the natives.

An issue, with English translation, fcp. fol., pp. 2 (n.p.), was printed at Auckland by Christopher Fulton, the Government Printer, in 1844.

(Vide p. 304.)

A Circular Letter dated to the natives, "No Paihia, no te 27 o nga ra o Eperira [April], 1840," and signed "Na to Koutou hoa, Na te Kawana" [from your friend the Governor (Hobson)].

Sm. 4to. P. 1. Printed at Paihia, on the Church Missionary press.

Cautions the natives against listening to the evil reports of disaffected persons.

He Wakapuakanga. [A Proclamation.]

Fcp. fol. P. 1. Printed at Paihia, on the Church Missionary press, and dated the 2nd May, 1840, by Governor Hobson.

In Maori. Cautions the natives, under heavy penalties, from buying from the soldiers their horses, guns, powder, or any accoutrement, as they belong to the Queen. Published also in English.

Proclamation.

Fcp. fol. P. 1. Printed at Paihia, on the Church Missionary press, and signed the 21st May, 1840, by Lieutenant-Governor Hobson, at Government House, Russell, Bay of Islands.

Claims full sovereignty over the Northern Island of New Zealand by virtue of cession.

Proclamation.

Fcp. fol. P. 1. Printed at Paihia, on the Church Missionary press, and signed the 21st May, 1840, by Lieutenant-Governor Hobson, at Government House, Russell, Bay of Islands.

Claims full sovereignty over the Islands of New Zealand, by virtue of command from Her Majesty Queen Victoria.

Protest | of the Subjects of the British and other Powers residing in New Zealand.

Fcp. fol. Pp. 2. Double columns. No date [1840]. Imprint: "Kororareka :—Printed by G. A. Eagar & Co."

A bitter appeal, in 7 paragraphs, against the flagrant Act which disannuls or interferes with the right of land-purchase from the natives exercised before the assertion of the Queen's sovereignty. Reprinted in Dr. Martin's "New Zealand," 1845, q.v.

Memorial | to Her Most Gracious Majesty | Victoria, | . . . | From the Landed Proprietors, Merchants, and | others settled in New Zealand . . .

Fcp. fol. P. 1. Double columns. No date [1840]. Imprint: "Kororareka :—Printed by G. A. Eagar & Co."

Refers at great length to the matters contained in the preceding protest, and prays Her Majesty to withhold her consent from the unjust and cruel Act.

1845.

Proclamation. Wakarongo.

Fcp. fol. Pp. 2. English and Maori. Signed by Robert Fitzroy, Governor, at Government House, Auckland, 8th January, 1845. Printed by Christopher Fulton, Government Printer.

A reward of £150 offered for the apprehension of three chiefs who had committed a depredation and a flagrant robbery at the Bay of Islands and at Matakana. Until they are delivered up to justice the waiver of the Crown's right of pre-emption shall cease.

Proclamation. Wakarongo.

Fcp. fol. Pp. 2. English and Maori. Signed by Governor Fitzroy, at Auckland, 15th January, 1845. Christopher Fulton, Government Printer.

A reward of £100 offered for the apprehension of Hone Heke, who had committed a serious outrage at Russell on the 10th January.

Soon afterwards Hone Heke retorted by offering a reward for Governor Fitzroy's head.

Proclamation. Wakarongo.

Fcp. fol. Pp. 2. English and Maori. Signed by Governor Fitzroy, at Auckland, 3rd March, 1845. Printed by Christopher Fulton.

As restitution has been made by the three chiefs, the Proclamation of the 8th of January is rescinded.

Wakarongo. Notice.

Fcp. fol. Pp. 2. Maori and English. Signed by M. Richmond, Superintendent, Southern Division, New Zealand. Wellington, 31st March, 1845. No imprint.

Recounts the outbreak at Kororareka by Hone Heke, who has again transgressed the law and defied the Governor, and assures the southern natives that so long as they are peaceably disposed no harm will befall them.

Wakarongo. Proclamation.

Fcp. fol. Pp. 2. Maori and English. Signed by Governor Fitzroy, at Auckland, 20th September, 1845. Printed by C. Fulton.

Proclaims that every native retiring from the rebel chiefs Kawiti and Heke shall be pardoned on condition of remaining at peace.

Rules | for reducing a prosperous colony | to a state of insignificance, poverty,
and distress, | Taken from an old author, | and dedicated | to the | Prime Minister | of the | King of the Cannibal Islands.

Fcp. fol. P. 1. No imprint or date [1845].

A well-written, bitter diatribe, in 7 paragraphs, on Governor Fitzroy, who was nicknamed "King of the Cannibal Islands."

To His Excellency | Captain Robert Fitzroy, R.N., &c., &c.

Fcp. fol. Pp. 2. No imprint. Signed by Junius Zealandi, Auckland, New Zealand, 3rd November, 1845.

A still more bitter attack than the preceding on Governor Fitzroy on the eve of his departure from the colony. He is accused of the grossest mismanagement.

The writer is stated to have been J. S. Polack.

Proclamation.

Demy fol. P. 1. Signed by Lieut.-Governor George Grey, at Wellington, 21st February, 1846. Printed at the office of the Independent.

A waiver in favour of the New Zealand Company of the right of pre-emption of lands in the Northern and Middle Islands.

This was preliminary to the founding of the settlements of Otago and Canterbury.
